

Omahans Robbed of $5,000 Cash

Two Local Sportsmen Victims of Holdup Men on Streets of Des Moines, Ia.

It costs Tommie Abdo and Frank Houski, Omaha sportsmen, $5,000 or five "grand" as they say in the parlance of sport, to start out on the American Legion convention in San Francisco by way of Des Moines.

The two Omaha men picked out from a dozen men leaving a cigar store in Des Moines Tuesday night by three gunmen were forced into an automobile and taken to a place near the city limits where they were relieved of their money.

They told Des Moines police that they had come from Omaha and were on their way to the convention.

Bet on Anything.

The two men according to their Omaha friends always possessed enough sporting blood to wager on most anything.

During the holdup, which was one of the most daring in downtown Des Moines in years, one bystander was shot.

Omaha friends of the two men say that the only reason Abdo went east to get west was to pick up some soft money.

"That's a new racket on us," said both Packey Gaughan and Sam Zimman, owners of the Baseball headquarters, "for one to travel to New York to get to Frisco."

Sam stated that if he ever took a trip to Shanghai he would start traveling through Kokomo, Ind.

It is the usual talk about the sporting Rialto that both Abdo and Houski always carried large sums of money on their persons.

Local friends of the two men stated that they were told in a phone message from the victims last night that the gunmen trailed them from Omaha into Des Moines.

They are the same gunmen, it is said, who have been staging holdups of gamblers for the past few months. Gamblers who have lost large sums of money have been afraid to report their losses to police.

Tom Dennison Will Retire, Leave Omaha

Former Political Boss Plans to Spend Declining Years in California, He Says.

Tom Dennison, who has enjoyed prestige as Omaha's "political boss" for more than 30 years, is to retire from the political game.

"This time, Tom says his retirement announcement is in good faith. He intends to move to California.

Dennison says he is reaching the age where he believes he ought to stay out of the game.

Dennison is giving up his office in the Karbach block, where many campaigns were mapped out. He says he may have a small office in another building to meet his friends for a short while, or at least until he moves to Los Angeles.

Tom stated that he probably would make Los Angeles his home, returning to Omaha only for business.

"You can say for me," said Tom to a reporter for The Evening Bee that I will not take any more interest in politics, but that I will retain my right to vote and battle my enemies.

"I have a great many friends in Nebraska, and any time I am in a position to do something for them I will gladly do it."

"Once you cross Dennison, look out," was a saying among the "boss" followers. Tom has one daughter, married. His wife died last year.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Some dreadful things are sometimes needed to make the voice of wisdom heard.

—Bob White.

The Dreadful Yession of the Young Bob Whites.

The young Bob Whites over in the wheat field had not been very much frightened when they had discovered the dog which had found them. They had seen dogs many times and never had they heard of a dog catching a Bob White. The first one to discover that dog warned the others and they all squatted close to the ground and waited for what that dog might do. They heard their father, Bob White, calling from a fence post to fly, but they didn't fly. They thought he was foolishly excited. They didn't see any need of flying. It would be time enough to fly when that dog tried to catch one of them.

So they squatted close to the ground and waited.

So they squatted close to the ground and waited. The dog stood motionless, pointing at them, and waited. Then they heard heavy footsteps. They were coming nearer and nearer. They knew that they were made by one of those two-legged creatures called men, for they had heard men's footsteps before. They only crouched closer to the ground. Perhaps he would not see them.

Nearer drew those footsteps, and nearer. Then the young Bob Whites knew that they must fly. It was as if each thought of flying at the same instant that all the others did. With a roar of stout little wings they were all in the air at the same instant. And then a terrible thing happened. Behind them there was a sharp and very dreadful noise. Then another. Some of them, glancing back, saw that that man was pointing a stick, iron which smoke and flame shot out. Several of them heard a strange whistling sound all around them and two of them felt sharp pains. And how they all did fly! It was each one for himself. They flew in different directions, but all of them headed for Farmer Brown's land. They flew so hard and so fast that their wings soon tired. Then they dropped down to the ground and ran. Finally each one hid, squatting close to the ground.

Such frightened young Bob Whites as they were! They knew now without being told what had happened. They knew that Bob White, their father, had told them truly about the hunters with terrible fire sticks. They didn't understand it all, but it was true. Two of them, the two who had felt sharp pains when the hunter had shot at them, felt very sick and miserable. The heart of each one of them went pit-a-pat, pit-a-pat with fright. Would that hunter come over after them? Their father had said they were safe on this side of the fence, but they were afraid, very much afraid, that he might be mistaken. How they did wish they had obeyed him in the first place and not gone over in the wheat field!

What they didn't know was that they were lucky. They had been found by a young hunter who was out for Bob Whites for the first time. He had had little experience in shooting at birds flying and that is why he had simply wounded two and none had been killed. But they had learned a lesson. It was a terrible lesson, and for that very reason they never would forget it. They knew now that no enemy was to be feared as much as a hunter with a terrible gun.

The most interesting city in the world is New York. That's one reason why O. O. McIntyre's "New York Day by Day" column in The Evening Bee is such an interesting one.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Four 3/4 ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passage, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for healing the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "3/4 ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

McMaster Seeks Toga

Pierre, S. D., Oct. 10.—Gov. W. H. McMaster of South Dakota today formally announced his candidacy for United States senator on the republican ticket. In his announcement he stated that if elected he intended to align himself with those senators who "are making a heroic fight for the rights of the people" and pledges he will work to the best of his ability "with other senators not only to better agriculture, but to put it on a plane with other industries and commercial interests."
