

Columbus Co-Ed as Flower Girl

Miss Sereta McCabe, charming Columbus high school co-ed, in the bewitching costume of a Spanish girl, distributed favors of rose corsages to 175 guests at the two rose parties given by Mrs. C. J. Garlow and her daughter, Mrs. Grover Long, at the Evans hotel and the Thursday and Thursday of this week. The two functions, both 1 o'clock luncheons, followed by bridge, were the most elaborate given in Columbus social affairs in recent years. Hundreds of beautiful cut roses dominated the gorgeous decorations of autumn foliage.

Deserted by Her Soldier Husband--Seeks Divorce

By MARTHA ALLEN.

Dear Miss Allen: I love to read the advice you give others, please advise me. I am a young girl 19 years old. I married a man four years my senior, I loved him or rather thought I did, but he enlisted and went away a few days after we were married. We have now been married four years, he was mustered out of army service one year ago, and has never returned. He treats me only as a friend. I don't get any money from him. By luck I have met a young man who loves me dearly and would marry me if I were free. He never tries to break my husband and I up. Could I get a divorce and alimony out of him when I can prove he treats me like this.

Hoping to see a reply soon, I am a reader.

You probably wouldn't have any trouble getting the divorce but I don't know about the alimony. Consult a lawyer.

A. L. T. I'm sorry, but I am not at liberty to give you the young woman's address. If you are a stranger and lonesome, let me suggest that you attend the meetings of the General Acquainted club at the Unitarian church on Sunday evenings, or the Ennis club, which is open every evening. The club rooms are in the basement of St. Mary Magdalene church, Nineteenth and Dodge streets. There is also the Girls' Community Service league at 1712 Dodge street, and the Omaha Walking club. The girls' league has weekly hikes and dancing parties, and the walking

Programs to Suit Her Audience.

No small part of the success of Mme. Sigrid Onegin, contralto of the Metropolitan opera house, who will appear here on Sunday afternoon, November 4, at the Brandeis theater as the opening attraction for the Tuesday Musical club, is due to the delightful programs which she presents. Mme. Onegin is not a "one-program artist." She makes every program to please the specific audience for which she is to sing, it is learned here.

It is interesting to note that Mme. Onegin considers the map of the United States indispensable as an aid for program building. "Where is this city?" she will ask, and consult her atlas. "Is the population mostly Italian, or French, or Swedish, or what? Have they heard a great deal of the standard arias this season? Do any of the American composers whose songs I sing come from this city? Will they like the standard lieder or do their tastes run to the more modern songs?"

Then, from her immense repertoire, she will select those songs which seem best adapted for the concert at hand. The result of this procedure is that Mme. Onegin succeeds not only in giving her audiences the best of music but the music that they like.

It is not at all uncommon for Mme. Onegin to learn a new song for a certain recital. She delights in each concert as an experience, and this delight is reciprocated in every instance by her audiences.

Memorial Avenue Dedicated in Nebraska.

A memorial avenue is the outstanding work of the year for the Lincoln (Neb.) Woman's club. City commissioners are co-operating with the club and the avenue is being laid out as part of a new boulevard system, one end leading to a city park and the other extending to the county line. The club will hold Memorial day exercises each year at the entrance of the avenue when new trees will be planted. A tree has been planted for each one of the Lancaster county heroes who died in the world war, and a native granite boulder bears a bronze tablet on which is inscribed names of those who made the supreme sacrifice.—General Federation News.

Fare and a Tenth to California. "Begin to plan now to attend the G. P. W. C. Biennial at Los Angeles in June, 1924," writes Mrs. Felix T. McWright, 1455 North Pennsylvania street, Indianapolis, Ind., general federation transportation chairman.

"Urge the club women who attend your state conventions to plan to attend. The round trip fare will be only about one fare and a tenth, and the ticket will be good for months on the Pacific coast. We will also arrange for those who care to, to go to Honolulu and Alaska. Already there are being made plans for parties to both places."—General Federation News.
