

Omaha Pastor in Same Pulpit for 25 Years

Father James W. Stenson of St. Philomena Parish to Observe His 25th Anniversary.

The 25th anniversary of Father James W. Stenson as pastor of St. Philomena parish will be celebrated by a solemn high mass at 11 this morning in St. Philomena church at Tenth and William streets. St. Philomena claims to be historically the oldest Catholic church in Nebraska.

Father Stenson himself will celebrate the mass. Other Catholic pastors of the city who will be present for the ceremony include Rev. James Aherne, Rev. Patrick A. Flanagan, Rev. Peter C. Cannon, Rev. J. C. Buckley, Rev. James S. Borer, Rev. Bernard Sims and Rev. Paul Waldron, the latter from the Chicago mission at Bellevue. A special musical program will be given by the choir under the direction of Miss Mary Riley, and the altar will be decorated with flowers by the sanctuary society.

In his sermon Father Stenson will discuss the events which have swept over the parish in the past 25 years. When Father Stenson assumed his pastorate on October 11, 1898, it was the cathedral parish and was the center of from 350 to 450 Irish-American families.

In the quarter of a century since then the tide of commerce and industry has rolled in about the little church until now it serves a population of many different nationalities, among which the Italians are most numerous.

The present St. Philomena church building was erected in 1900, and with its parochial school and presbytery constitutes a monument to the work of Father Stenson. It is practically on the site of the old St. Mary church, the first Catholic church in Omaha, and claims to be organically a continuation of that church.

Father Stenson was born in Balla, County Mayo, Ireland, and studied at the College of the Sacred Heart, Limerick, Ireland. He was ordained in the church of St. John Lateran in Rome by Cardinal Lucido M. Parolini on April 17, 1923, and came to this country shortly afterward. A few weeks ago Father Stenson received his certificate of citizenship in the United States.

Telephone Operator Attacked by Thug

Hastings, Neb., Oct. 13.—Miss Vern Anderson, telephone operator, was attacked by a masked man on a school grounds as she was on her way home from work late last night. Struggling desperately and threatened with a pistol which her assailant carried, she fled herself after fighting through the grounds. The man grabbed her with his thumbs and made an outcry impossible. Marks left by her assailant were still visible today. Her belongings were found on the grounds by the police this morning. A nearby house, by the way, was broken into by the man, but the man had fled. Miss Anderson came from Haxton, Colo., three years ago.

Crippled "Kiddies" See Free Circus

Just a little ray of sunshine was brought to the little crippled children of Omaha Institutions Saturday, when they were guests of various Omaha business men at a private showing of Jackie Coogan's "Circus Days," at the Rialto theater.

And, to make the party even better, they came to the show in real style—in Yellow cabs, furnished by Sam Houser. Louis Leppke of the Nebraska Clothing company gave the picture party. Gordon Rainwater heard about it and sent up stacks and stacks of candy and Paxton & Gallagher insisted that the candy was not at all adequate and added a big bag of candy for each kiddie.

They didn't look a bit unhappy, and squeals of joy at Jackie's antics came from the crowd in the theater. And then, to be greeted with peanuts and candy and have a real taxi ride. Oh! Boy! Cut yourself a piece of cake and make yourself at home!

New Gayety Show Pleases Audiences

Pat White and Manay King, a pair of comedians constituting the principal laugh producers of "Let's Go," the snappy burlesque at the Gayety, kept the big audience at the show house in roars of mirth from the minute they came on the stage until the final curtain. White is assisted in pairs of his performance by his trick dog, Jack, who does some interesting stunts, while King is not only funny but pleases with several selections on a violin.

THE STEINWAY

An Inspiration

Louise Jansen Wylie, head of the local Department at the University of Omaha and Director of Music at the First Presbyterian Church, has recently installed a Steinway in her home.

Mrs. Wylie studied with Lamperti, with Mme. Lilli Lehman and was honor pupil at the University of Berlin. Her concert tours of Europe covered several years and she has appeared in all the principal cities of this country in concert with Paul Althouse, American tenor of the Metropolitan Opera. Also Oley Speaks, the composer, and many other artists of international fame. In a letter to the Schmoller & Mueller Piano Company regarding her Steinway, Mrs. Wylie states:

"For some time past I have had a Steinway in my studio. The instrument is so beautiful and so satisfying in every respect that I have purchased one for my home. To be accompanied on a Steinway with its sweet, beautiful tones is in itself an inspiration. There is great joy in being the possessor of so magnificent an instrument, in addition to the knowledge that one can always rely upon the truthness and accuracy of the instrument when teaching."
