

Jewish Relief Work Is Told in Annual Report

More Funds Sought to Run Federation for Remainder of Year—Needy Are Cared For.

The Jewish Welfare federation was compared to a house in process of construction in the annual report of Samuel Schaefer, superintendent, submitted to the board. "It is built in four wings," said Mr. Schaefer. "Each wing has four floors, and each floor has been reserved for particular groups of the men, women and children for whom you are building this house. It has taken you three months to build each wing, and each floor has been occupied to capacity. "The first floor of each wing has been devoted to the men, women and children who more than anything else needed a home, food and clothes. On the second floor were those who needed medical attention. The third floor has been devoted to religious education and to wholesome recreation. To the fourth floor of your house of service have come all with personal troubles to solve. They required little or no financial help; they need friendly counsel and advice."

Mr. Schaefer made a plea that a fourth "wing" be added. This, he explained, would be the payment of funds to keep the federation active during the remaining three months of the present year.

The Jewish Welfare federation of Omaha is the center of all Jewish charities here. Over 1,000 boys and girls attended the clubs and classes of the Y. M. H. A. and the Y. W.

H. A. last year. "We build men and women. We build Americans. We build Jews." Such is the motto of these two organizations, affiliated with the federation. Another feature of the federation's activities is the supporting of widows, orphans and similar unfortunates. Seventeen entire households are being maintained. Food, coal, clothing and medicine and rent are being paid for

AT THE THEATERS

HARRY DELF, the sassy young fellow at the Orpheum theater this week, gives some impressions of a brilliant variety. Such comedians as Mr. Delf enrich the quality of vaudeville entertainment. He is as witty and suave as he is dapper and personable. He has a smile that illuminates his countenance and it expresses thoughts quicker, perhaps, than the little fellow himself.

Among the popular vaudeville bills of the fall season the current show at the World takes high rank. With such features as Romeo and Dancing Dolls, Clark and O'Neil, syndicated songsters, Dorothy Nelson, the clever Norwegian violinist, Ed Redmond and Company in "Napoleon," and other attractions, the bill provides widely diversified entertainment. The October "Miss Zibson" bill is announced for next Saturday. Benny Barton's Hebe, a carnival of sensation, is the headline attraction.

Four more days and the Marcus show concludes a successful four weeks' run at the New Empire. They will be followed next Sunday by Billy Maine and his comedy players in what is said to be one of the most novel farce comedies now on the boards. It is entitled "Somewhere in France" and depicts the most laughable adventures of a "boob" American doughboy in Paris following the signing of the armistice. The show tells a consistent story and the musical numbers while characteristic, are only incidental to the plot of the play.

Individual and ensemble numbers well rendered, scenic effects made to blend with the spirit of the entire offering, and the genius of the comedy girls with their marvelous singing and dancing, make "Let's Go" now at the Gayety theater, an attraction of exceptional worth. Its producers have assembled a company of exceedingly clever entertainers and, moreover, they have surrounded them with material that is new and diverting and stage settings that are numerous and attractive. Pat White and Manny King head the cast. Others include Kitty Matheson, Burton Carr, Nan Paton, Flo Kane, Helen Flynn, Joe Barrett and Sandy Thompson's entertainers. Ladies' matinee at 2:15 daily.

by the association. This work is carried on by the relief department.

The Jewish Welfare federation of Omaha is affiliated with the Orphans' home at Cleveland. There are 21 Omaha children in the Cleveland orphanage. Immigrants and prospective immigrants are aided by the Omaha federation. War relief work is also carried on.

Northwestern Dentists

Elect New Officers
Kearney, Neb., Oct. 16.—Dr. C. H. Hunt of Hastings was elected president of the Northwestern Nebraska Dental association in convention here. Dr. Shaw Little of Clarks is the new vice president, and Dr. J. C. Moore of Grand Island, secretary-treasurer. The next convention will be held in Grand Island. The dentists, about 50 in number, banqueted at the Country club last night. Their closing clinical session was held this morning.

Ex-Soldier Has Memory Lapse

Man Giving Name of Billy Star Cared for at Grand Island.

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Grand Island, Neb., Oct. 16.—The Salvation Army, depended upon to look after the city's charity cases, is caring for an ex-service man giving the name of Billy Star, who presents peculiar conditions. Periodical lapses of memory cause him to go from place to place without knowing it. So far as he recalls, he was in Des Moines recently, but does not know how he came here. His record showed hospitalization until 1922, when he was dismissed. He is penniless and the army is caring for him until it can communicate with Des Moines.

Unseasonable Weather

Produces Rotten Corn
Columbus, Neb., Oct. 16.—In spite of the first killing frost of the season, the cold did not harden the corn for picking and farmers in this section of the Loup and Platte river valley find the rotting still continues, while picking takes double the time because of green stems. Recent rains have made fields in the lowlands almost impassable and in many places corn picking is being postponed. Many farmers are forced to throw from two to three bushels out of every load of corn because it has not ripened enough or because it is rotted. Corn yields in several sections of the valley will be somewhat reduced, although yields are good because much more was used for silage than ever before.
