

Bones Thought Those of Schick to Be Analyzed

Test to Show Whether Missing Partner of Schick Broker Is to Face Murder Charge.

By International News Service.
San Diego, Cal., Oct. 22.—The grutesome "kettle of bones," found hidden in the chaparral on the side of a canyon back of the Mission Drive home of George Schick, missing rector, was taken today to the laboratory of Dr. H. A. Thompson, bone specialist. Dr. Thompson's scientific examination of the bones or more, of charred bone fragments, which officers feel confident are from a human body, will determine, according to District Attorney Kempsey, whether or not E. Drew Clark will be charged with the slaying of his missing business partner.

Clark, a Burns detective, said today, is a man of many talents. He is a vanner and has worked as salesman in Seattle, Salt Lake, San Francisco, Honolulu and many other western cities. His correct name, the authorities claim, is Everett Drew Clark, and he has at various times transposed the three words of his name, often omitting one or the other of them.

More light was shed on the strange happenings at the Mission Drive home on the evening of February 7 last, the date of Schick's disappearance, when F. A. Comstock, a neighbor, appeared before the authorities and told of seeing several pieces of old furniture and three partly filled gunnysacks loaded into a light truck. He and his wife noticed particularly he said, because the dilapidated furniture coming from a home they knew to contain only new things struck them as peculiarly strange. Two hours later, however, they were compelled to see the truck return with the same furniture. Watching the affair, they said, it was noted that the furniture was unloaded, but the sacks were missing.

Pending the completion of the analysis of the bone fragments by Dr. Thompson, which is expected to consume from one to four days, the two dozen detectives and county authorities today redoubled their work along other lines. The mystery has so many angles, they say, that many more days will be required to check up on all of them. One of the various lines of inquiry yet to be probed leads to the astrological and occult influences on the lives of the three persons now in jail on charge of forgery—Clark, Mrs. Etta Drew Clark, his divorced wife, and Mrs. Schick. The latter has signed a full confession of forging the power of attorney by which possession of Schick's $75,000 estate was obtained, the confession implicating all three. Mrs. Schick was reported today to be under the care of the county physician. The nervous strain following the denouement overtaxed her powers of resistance, the condition being aggravated by the fact that she is expected to give birth to a child within two months. The unborn little one, she has confessed, is the child of Clark, whose attention she was directed by "messages from the stars," to accept without reserve.

A renewed effort was also made today to elicit further information from the two small children of the Schicks, whose names, shortly after the disappearance of their father, was without court order changed to Clark. "Out of the mouths of the babes," a detective said, may come a clue that will lead to a solution of the mystery.

Elgin School Board Buys Site for New High School

Elgin, Neb., Oct. 22.—The board of education of district No. 18 in which the village of Elgin is located, has just purchased an entire block of land as a site for a new high school building. This block joins the old site on the north and will give the district two choice blocks as school building sites.

A short time ago the district voted bonds in the sum of $70,000 for the purpose of purchasing additional lands and erecting a new high school building. It is proposed to start work on the new building about the first of the year and have it completed for the beginning of the school year in 1924.

Many Feeder Cattle Are Received at Elgin, Neb.

Elgin, Neb., Oct. 22.—During the past few weeks the shipment of feeding cattle into Elgin has been heavy. A great many of the regular feeders here are filled up their yards and also some who have never fed before. However, the recent rise in the price of corn has put a damper on the feeder business. During the past few days a considerable falling off in shipments is noticeable. Feeders claim the price of corn is going to prevent many from feeding who had made arrangements to do so before the recent rise in the price of corn.

No "Ghost Catchers" Are Wanted to Solve Mystery of Ranch Glimmers

Owner of Land Where Flickers Flit Sells Cows to Buy Stamps for Replies to Spook Hunters Who Want Cash for Services.

O'Neil, Neb., Oct. 22.—James Connolly, owner of Holt county's "ghost light" ranch, situated a few miles north of O'Neil, is not in the market for the services of any professional ghost catchers. Nor does he believe that the balls of ghostly luminosity which nightly flit and float about his pastures presage the early end of the world. His daily mail is swamped with communications from those who, for a substantial remuneration, would come out and explain and do away with the ghost lights, and from those who see in the ghostly manifestations a forewarning of the early dissolution of the earth and quote scriptural references in support of their contentions.

Mr. Connolly to date has faithfully replied to all of the communications and in doing so found it necessary to sell a couple of cows to pay postage, so he will discontinue replying to letters in the future unless stamps are enclosed. He wishes the "world enders" to know that he has faithfully perused all the scriptural references to which his attention has been called and sees nothing to be alarmed about. The lights have been just where they are as far back as the oldest inhabitants can remember and the Indians have legends about them running back for a very long time.

Mr. Connolly wants the professional ghost catchers, who seem mostly to reside in Chicago and New York, and who in several instances offer bank references as to their reputation, to take notice that he does not give a hoot what causes the lights, as they do not bother him and have never bothered any one who does not delve too deeply into their cause or origin.

Any ghost catcher who comes out to investigate, will do so solely on his own responsibility, says Mr. Connolly, but before he is permitted to investigate he first will be required to sign the same kind of a release aviators require of their passengers.

"This precaution Mr. Connolly deems necessary, as there have been a number of mysterious disappearances in the ghost light district in years passed and he refuses to be responsible for any more. Among the first of these was that of James Grotman, several million years ago. Grotman, a mastodon hunter from the north, ventured into the ghost light district while engaged in the chase one day, against the advice of other members of his tribe. He never came back. Although his wife and children have since mourned him as dead his remains never were discovered until last year, when Mr. Connolly and Herbert Jansen, a neighbor, while blasting, found portions of his skeleton embedded in a matrix of limestone. These bones and the rock in which they were found Mr. Connolly keeps to show to others who would attempt to solve what does not concern them.

That dingy film

Your teeth are coated by a viscous film. You can feel it now. Under old brushing methods, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. That is why so many teeth lose luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

That is why cloudy teeth, unhealthy teeth and gums, became so alarmingly common.

Dental science has now found ways to effectively fight that film. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. The other removes it without harmful scouring.

Many careful tests were made to prove these methods. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists everywhere began to urge its use. Now it has brought a new dental era to the homes of some 50 nations.

It does far more

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids. It
