The schedule is one of those affairs that college correspondents like to refer to as "ambitious." It is a weak term in its present application. That schedule would break the back of a steel girder. Evidently it is Rockne's idea to start at the top and work up.

First off, the team came east to Ebbets field, knocked the Army off by two touchdowns and went home. Five days later it was headed east again and this time it made the visit more or less memorable by beating Princeton by some 23 points. Business of typographical shots from gentlemen of press as Notre Dame journeyed homeward.

The final game of the regular schedule involves another trip east to Pittsburgh to play Carnegie Tech. Around Pittsburgh Carnegie is fan cied above the Pitt Panthers, which means that the plaid outfit is no wind blown cinch.

And the end is not yet. It is under stood that Notre Dame has accepted an invitation to play a California team, probably Southern California, at Los Angeles on Christmas day. Ambitious? The schedule is down right heroic.
