Waning autumn, the smell of dried leaves and their crunching along bridle paths, the modern trail. Riding is a favorite sport at this season of the year. A family group which may be seen a-horseback several mornings a week include Mr. and Mrs. Lee Huff, sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Huff, jr. A true outdoor family are they. They usually summer at Lake Okoboji, where they have a motor boat. They ride the surf board and often swim several hours a day. Each one has his own motor car for cross-country driving, and all play golf and ride.

Mrs. George Redick is another accomplished Omaha equestrian. She rides continually in the mountains during the summer. Mrs. Redick is, and has been, a member of the publicity committee for the Tuesday Musical for four years. During the last week she has had charge of placing 150 window cards, announcing the coming of Sigrid Ouegin, contralto of the Metropolitan Opera company, who opens the season for the club at the Grandis theater, Sunday, November 4.

Army Romances Flourish

Involving a Gentleman in the Service of Uncle Sam and, in Another Affair, a Brown-Eyed Beauty of a More Spiritual Aggregation.

PERHAPS Omaha is to have another military wedding. This one has the additional interest along with the crossed swords for the bridal aisleway, and the military crests on the silver of having an Omaha girl as the bride. Omaha is certain to have this treat if there's any truth in the theory that absence does make the heart grow fonder.

Two weeks ago our hero was ordered away to fight the good fight in Iowa. Gabby is very poor at descriptions, the "sparkling brown eye" line being practically worn to death, but she wonders if the simple statement that she has a brunet thatch and he a blond one would be any means of identification.

ANOTHER army romance. The conditions in this one are slightly askew, but the more interesting for the lady it is, who has been the enlisted "party." She is fighting her good fight, as Ring Lardner would have it, "for the sake of a prominent character in the Bible."

It involves the son of one of Omaha's first families in its toils.

Really it's the most picturesque affair of the year, for the beating of tambourines by flicking lights at the old rendezvous at Sixteenth and Douglas, vies with the shuffle of satin slippers, and the shivering of slender shoulders, in the glittering footlights of a famous New York theater.

On his side, there is as great an effulgence, this cast by an ancestry of Boston aristocracy and a large middle western fortune.

A patient was taken to one of our state hospitals for those suffering from mental disorder. "What's the matter with me," she asked a nurse shortly after her arrival.

"You are suffering from chronic indecision," was the reply.

A GROUP of Smith college graduates in Omaha are highly displeased with the comment made in a local paper that President Coolidge has red hair. "If he has," said one of them, "he has been using henna. When I last saw him, the night he returned to Northampton, Mass., following his nomination to the vice presidency, he had light brown hair and his freckles were far from noticeable." Miss Marion Booth and Miss Dorothy Dahlman were both surprised when, on seeing him in the movies here, they saw how prominently these last blemishes stood out.

"We passed him any number of times on the streets," they said, "and only his barber would have seen them; we couldn't. They must have been the fault of the photographer."

Miss Onalee Mann is another who saw the president often in his vice presidential days and she, too, resents the implication that he had any other than brown hair.

"Of course he hasn't red hair. I watched him all during the last Washington's birthday exercises he attended, as he sat on the platform at chapel. He was interesting for his impassivity."

"The famous night when he did return to 'Hamp' Miss Booth was in the front line of those waiting to see him arrive at the Draper, a local hotel, where the reception committee was stationed. "He was most impressive," she said. "He looked to be even taller than he is, for he has a most erect carriage and of course was wearing a silk hat.

"The whole of the little town and the college had turned out to see him. The front of the hotel, which is an affair built after the continental style, with grill work balconies across the facade on all four floors, was beflagged and be-buntinged for the event, and for an hour before the life and drum corps had been tooting and rat-a-tat-tatting through the streets. When he was finally driven up in the McCallum limousine, the car made its way through an aisleway of friendly people, whose faces shone in the titful glare of old-fashioned red torches.

"We were wildly excited and tears stood in the eyes of many of the townspeople who had watched his rise in the world since his Amherst days."

Town Clubs

Hallowe'en parties Wednesday evening at the Omaha and Athletic clubs promise to be very gay affairs. The latter club, in addition to converting their dining hall into the interior of a hay loft, with cornstalks and pumpkins, has imported a fortune teller, who will read each guest's name and fortune from his or her palm. Several entertainers with musical and dancing acts have also been arranged for.

The Omaha club will present each diner with appropriate Hallowe'en favors and the club is to be attractively decorated for the party. The following members have already made reservations:

W. T. Page, 6; E. W. Dixon 14; H. E. Milliken, 12; J. H. Summers, 10; W. F. Baxter, 12; G. B. Prinz, 14; Capt. E. Holland, 2; Capt. E. J. Lideay, 2; Maj. M. A. Ealen, 1; Capt. I. S. Curtis, 8; General Duncan, 10.

At the Athletic club tables will be held by Ben Frieden, who will have 5; John McConnell, 4; Guy L. Smith, 4; A. J. Sisk, 8; A. M. Gallagher, 14; Sol Levy, 8.

Women of Overseas Service League Present Armistice Carnival at Auditorium

Spotlights Playing on American and French Flags, Military Music, Tiny Shops, Crowded Cafes, at "Night in Paris."

Spotlights playing on American and French flags, military music, tiny shops, crowded dance floors and cafes, all this will be part of "A Night in Paris," at the Auditorium, November 9 and 10. The Women's Overseas Service League is presenting the fete as a benefit to provide a bed in a local hospital for needy ex-service men and women.

Through courtesy of Brig. Gen. Halstead Dorey, the Fourteenth infantry band will give a concert Saturday afternoon, November 10, at 3 o'clock. Other bands will appear during the two evenings of entertainment.

Reservations for parties in the French cafe are being made with Miss May Mahoney, who is also assisting with the Cafe de la Paix.

Cozette has arrived in Omaha and is making genuine French patisserie. Mrs. Frank Gulgard is translating orders from the Omaha tribal tongue into French for Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cozette, who are filling the orders. Checkstands have been provided, for of course hats and wraps will be "dropped" in the mad whirl of entertainment. Miss Patricia Naughton is in charge, assisted by Misses Eva O'Sullivan, Irene Jess, Nona Robinson, Nettie Bushman, Agnes McElroy and Mrs. L. D. Kavanaugh.

Choice of French perfumes will be dispensed at Miss Luey Menoray's tiny shop. Celina Ross Flanagan, a French war bride, will assist her. Miss Menoray is from Council Bluffs. Miss Laura Belle Crandall is in charge of the balcony, which will represent the Eiffel tower.

Decorations and the Marion Crandall booth are in the professional hands of Mrs. Mary Lydia Rowe and Miss Marie Matthews, assisted by Mrs. Fannie MacDairmid, Mrs. Ernest Baumgartner, Mrs. Stella Carle, Gladys Pottinger and Harry Trustin.

In the Chinese quarter of this miniature Paris, Miss Bess Baird will be found in her mah jongg booth. With her will be Mrs. William H. Garland, Grace Lennon Conklin, Maxine Heimbaugh, Dorothy Norton and Alice Hopkins.

Candy, the natural accompaniment of frivolity, will be sold under the direction of Misses Stella Carle, Harriet Ball and Grace Murphy.

The fascinating Montmartre will be presided over by Miss Lucile Scott and Mrs. Edith Majors. Assisting them will be Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weinberg and Mrs. Harry Heyman. Miss Helen Russell will be stationed at Maxim's cafe.

Miss Renee Jonsson has charge of the Punch and Judy show and Miss Marie Mackin of the Louvre. Assisting Ella Fleischman Auerbach with publicity, are Miss Mona Cowell, advertising; Mrs. H. D. Jolley, kiosks; news vendors, Misses Myra Lehmann, Mildred Alderman, Bernice Jones, Miriam Wessner, Marguerite Lobeck, Elizabeth Sowell, Vesta Beavers and Peggy McCleughan.

Entertainers will add to the gaiety of Cafe de la Paix where Miss (Turn to Page Two, Column Six.)

Polish General and Party Guests at the Nash-Jordan Concert

General Jozef Haller, head of the Polish army and a representative of the Republic of Poland, to the national convention of the American Legion held recently in San Francisco, is a guest of the Polish people in Omaha today. He will be in a box at the Nash-Jordan concert at the Brandeis at 8 o'clock this afternoon. With him will be Captain Jozef Sieroculeki, Lieutenant Jan Roskof, Captain L. Z. Adarnak and Lieutenant Hanasz, world war veteran representatives from Poland, Captain Naszel, executive official of General Haller's reception in the United States; Colonel Briggs, representative from American War Department of Washington, D. C.; Colonel Van Renssaler, American Legion Military Aid to General Haller; Colonel Bowman Elder, American Legion representative accompanying General Haller; Lieutenant Reuey, representative of Pennsylvania railroad and travel manager for General Haller in the United States and local men having charge of General Haller's entertainment in Omaha—Rev. John Wiczorek, Reverend Michael Gluba and Mr. W. Kalamajah.

Luncheon for Artists.

Mrs. Louis Nash will give a luncheon at her home Monday for Miss Frances Nash and Miss Mary Jordan, who are appearing in a benefit concert at the Brandeis theater today.

For the Byron Hunters.

Mrs. H. E. Porter gave a dinner bridge Thursday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Byron Hunter who returned recently from their honeymoon.

For Mrs. Baldrige.

Mrs. R. W. Connell gave a luncheon Saturday at her home for Mrs. Howard H. Baldrige, who recently returned from Europe. Mrs. Ernest Witbeck of Pasadena, Cal., who has been visiting the J. E. Davidsons, was among the guests.

Winter Dancing Clubs Open

Among the oldest of the formal dancing clubs of Omaha is the Qui Vive club, which has announced its winter schedule of 10 dances for the following dates: November 2, 16 and 30; December 14 and 28; January 11 and 25; February 8 and 22, and March 7. The party next Friday evening and those following will be given at the Blackstone hotel. One of their parties this year will be a dinner dance.

Qui Vive club opens the season with 86 couples in membership. The organization has been in existence for more than 20 years.

Officers are: R. L. Gilmore, president; R. E. Langdon, secretary, and Charles Assman, G. E. Brown, R. P. Baird, P. A. Hiehnelt, Dr. M. P. Kane, Fred Ochenbein, J. T. Pickard, Thomas F. Rhyon and D. T. Vriesema, directors.

The Ennis club will give a Hallowe'en dance Tuesday evening, October 30, at the Hyland academy. This will be the fifth of a series of the club dances this season. The Goldenrod entertainers have been secured for the Get Together dance, November 6.

Vying with the Qui Vive club for age, is the popular Week-End dancing club, which existed 20 years ago as the Saturday Night Dancing club. Hurl C. Fowler is serving his fourth term as president. Frank Vierling is secretary-treasurer. The membership numbers 125 couples and the dances are held every other Saturday night, beginning November 3, at the Fontenelle hotel.

A club which contrives to spend "every nickel in the treasury" at the end of the year is the well-known Sixty-six club, which opened its season last night at the Fontenelle. Surplus funds are given to charity at the end of the club year, according to the officers' statement. H. K. Schaefer is president of the club this year and F. R. Robinson is secretary-treasurer. A membership of 130 couples was secured in March, at the close of the last season. The club (Turn to Page Two, Column One.)

Chamber of Commerce Women Enter Second Year as Sponsors of Popular-Priced Concert Course

Miss Elizabeth Kauffman

Dr. Emelia Brandt

Miss Grace Rowland

Mrs. Perle Hurgate

Miss Lulu Grace Johnson

Miss Margaret Lee Knight

Miss Fay Walter

Miss Ella Peterson

The Business and Professional Women's division of the Chamber of Commerce is presenting, for the second time, a concert course. Last year this group made more than $6,000 on a course of five numbers presented to the public at a very low price. This means complete operation throughout the club in patronage and the sale of tickets, as well as exceedingly wise management. The members shown in this picture constitute the general management committee for this year. Dr. Brandt is president of the club and Miss Ella Peterson, publicity chairman. Miss Rosa Ponselle, dramatic soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company will open the season at the Auditorium, Oct. 30. She arrives in Omaha today to hear Miss Mary Jordan, contralto, and Miss Frances

Nash at the Brandeis this afternoon. Miss Jordan and Miss Ponselle are personal friends. Following Miss Ponselle on the course this year are: Tandy Mackenzie, lyric tenor, Jan. 22; the Cherniavsky trio, Feb. 14; Jeanne Bordon, contralto of the Metropolitan Opera company, April 9 and Reinald Warronath, baritone, April 15. According to Miss Mary Munchhoff, Omaha teacher of voice, the commerce women concerts amount to a public work because of the quality of artists presented and the low price for tickets. Season tickets for the five numbers are $1.00 plus war tax and seat reservation at, 50c, 25c or 10c additional for each program. Music stores and club members have them for sale. There are ten teams from A to J organized to promote the sale of tickets. Gladys Shamp and Gladys

Hodgin are the acting majors. The captains are: Mrs. E. S. Siles, Mrs. Corinne Schud, Miss Katherine Wilbur, Mrs. Adel Kramer, Miss Jessie McDonald, Miss Cassie Ray, Miss Gladys Hodgin, Miss Ethel Lavelling, Miss Mabel Race and Miss Gladys

Shamp. For the same selling the most tickets there will be a prize for each girl on the team and one for the captain. Team G. Gladys Hodgin, chairman, is in the lead now. Esther Johnson leads the entire organization in the sale of tickets, having to her credit 130 tickets
