

Klan Official Does Not Deny Uni Members

"Field Secretary" Declines to Discuss Report That Hundreds of Nebraska Students Joined Order.

Lincoln, Oct. 29.—F. L. Cook, who styles himself "field secretary of the Ku Klux Klan," with headquarters here, today declined to comment on a statement of a University of Nebraska student that there were several hundred student members of the Klan.

"I can't tell you, and I wouldn't if I could," he declared. "He might have said 2,000 as well as 200, and if you want to print 2,000, so ahead. I'm not going to tell you anything about it."

Asked if there was a Klan organization of university students, he said: "Certainly not. If there are any Klan members in the university they are not members of a university organization."

W. P. MacCaffree, secretary of the university Y. M. C. A., under whose auspices Cook last week addressed a meeting of students, said today that a scheduled talk by opponents of the Klan, which was to have been given tomorrow, was postponed because of circumstances over which the Y. M. C. A. had no control.

"The impression seems to be that we do not desire the students to hear the other side, after arranging a lecture on the Klan, and it is absolutely false," Mr. MacCaffree said. "The meeting by an opponent of the Klan was not canceled, but simply postponed until November 7, when Dr. W. H. Riley of Lincoln will address the students."

Dr. Riley is a university pastor, attached to the Congregational church. His subject will be "The Ku Klux Klan and Christian Americanism."

Farmers Near Reynolds Organize Wheat Body

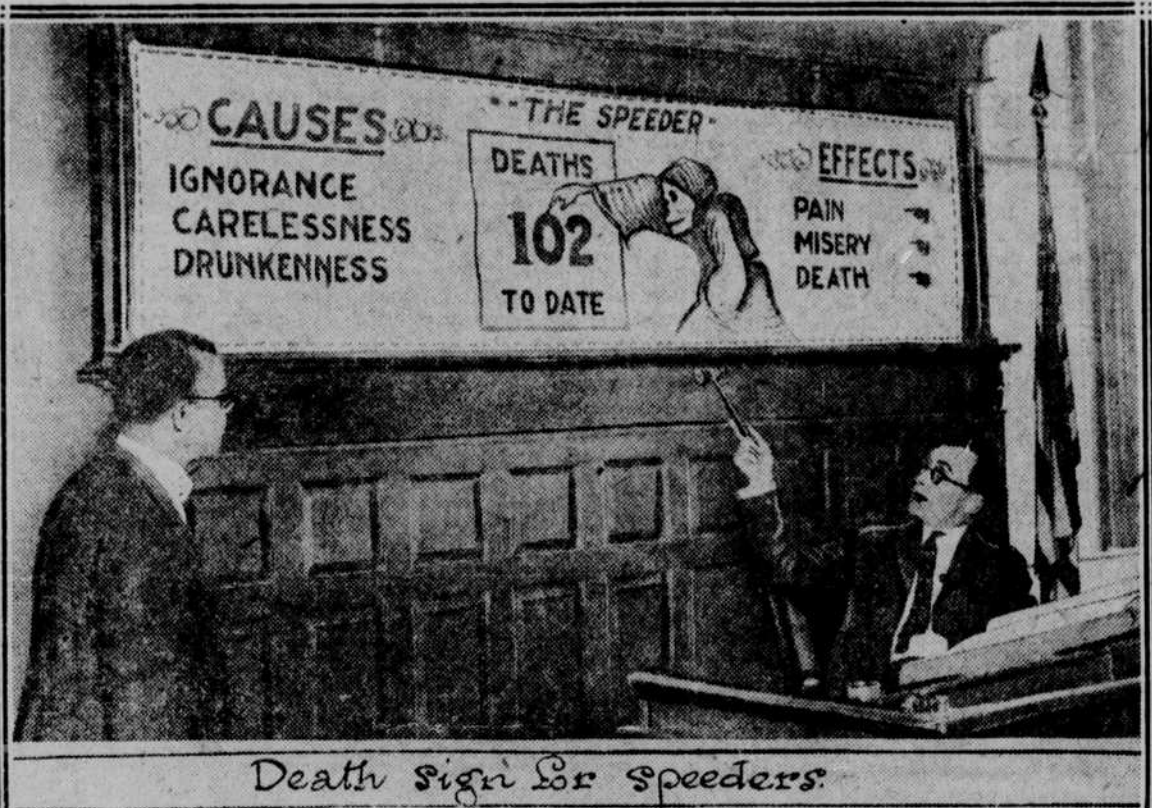

Reynolds, Neb., Oct. 29.—Farmers of this community today organized a wheat growers association at a meeting at the elevator office here. The object of the association is to cooperate and secure a better market for grain for the farmers, and to sell all farm products to better advantage. It is understood arrangements are being made for warehouse room at Lincoln for use of the association.

The officers elected are: J. L. Lamb, president; L. B. Drago, vice president; E. P. Patterson, secretary. All of the officers live at Reynolds.

Held for Robbery

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Miller were bound over to district court on $1,000 bond in Council Bluffs police court Monday morning on a charge of highway robbery.

Death Sign in Court for Speeders

This striking warning, designed to reduce the number of auto deaths and accidents, has been erected in the Cincinnati (O.) municipal court over the bench where Judge Meredith Yeatman daily tries many persons accused of speeding, reckless driving and other traffic violations. One hundred and two deaths so far this year! Signs set in big red numerals. The number is changed each time a victim is added.

Big Gain Shown in Use of Butter

60,000,000 Pounds Imported in Addition to 100,000,000-Pound Production Mark.

Consumption of butter in the United States has increased 160,000,000 pounds in the last 12 months, according to Dean H. L. Russell of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin. Dean Russell is attending the sessions of the agricultural commission of the American Bankers' association, a member of the commission's advisory council.

"Butter production has shown an increase of 100,000,000 pounds in a year, to meet the rising demand," Dean Russell said, "but the country has been compelled to import 60,000,000 pounds of butter during the year to make up the difference between increased demand and increased supply—despite the fact that the Fordney tariff places a high duty of 8 cents a pound on butter."

Agricultural experts, Mr. Russell asserted, are unable to explain the big increase in butter consumption.

Woman Balks on Promise to Wed

Man Says She Changed Her Mind After Home Is Given Her.

William F. Schneider, retired farmer, widower with two children, came to Omaha from his home in University Place last January and met Ruth Livingston. He liked her and courted her and in June he asked her to be his bride, he says in a suit filed Monday in district court.

He told her he wanted her to wed and go to live in his home at University Place. Whereupon Miss Livingston replied, according to the petition that "she had lived in Lincoln a month one time and would not marry the plaintiff under any conditions which required her to live in University Place or anywhere in or about Lincoln."

Schneider finally agreed to her request that he buy a love nest in Omaha. He purchased a home at 1809 Military avenue.

Then, he alleges, she suggested that he put the title in her name, now that they were to be married. He did that too.

And then she declined to go on with the marriage, he charges. He asks that the title be restored to him.

Rum Found at Door of Court

Samardick and Fee Nab Man With Bottle of "Moonshine."

George D. Newman, Forty-eighth avenue and T street, was arrested at the door of the judge's chambers in the federal building Monday morning, when Robert Samardick, federal prohibition officer, found a three-ounce bottle of moonshine in his pocket. He later was released on $1,000 bond.

Samardick and Ernest Fee, his aide, were strolling about the federal building corridors this morning, during the trial of liquor cases, when some one informed them that two men were drinking liquor in one of the lavatories.

When they emerged Samardick and Fee followed them to the door of the judge's chambers where the hearings were in progress.

Samardick accosted Newman. "What have you got in your pocket?" he asked.

"Nothing," Newman said.

Samardick then seized the bottle. "It's bad enough for you to peddle this stuff outside, but to come and drink it here in the federal building, that's too much," observed the sleuth as he placed Newman under arrest.

Newman's companion was Hans Noesgaard, whom Samardick said he arrested at one time on a charge of illegal possession of a still. It was his first encounter with Newman.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Put these, and don't deride, Who cannot find a cause for pride. —Old Mother Nature.

Old Mr. Buzzard's Pride.

Most of the little people in the Green Forest and on the Green Meadows take special pride in some one thing. Happy Jack Squirrel takes pride in his wonderful plummy tail. Timmy the Flying Squirrel takes pride in his smartness, the keenness of his wits. Paddy the Beaver takes particular pride in his work. Peter Rabbit won't admit it, but he takes pride in the way he can dodge. Glory the Cardinal is proud of his handsome coat—and who can blame him?

Even old Mr. Buzzard, who is certainly anything but handsome and who because of his habits is rather looked down on by many of his neighbors, has something to be proud of. It is his power of flight. No other bird of all those living on the land can fly as can Old Mr. Buzzard. With his great wings widespread and without flapping them as other birds flap he can sail round and round high up in the blue, blue sky, seeming to simply float on the air. And he dearly loves to do it. You know, there is a story that the reason he has no feathers on his head is because his great-great-great-great-grandfather, who lived way back in the days when the world was young, once flew so high that the sun scorched the feathers on his head, and so no Buzzard since has ever worn feathers on his head. Of course this is only a story, but it shows how the Buzzards have always been considered wonderful fliers.

The first time the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows saw an airplane they mistook it for a new kind of bird, a giant bird, and it filled them with great fear. But it hadn't taken them long to discover it wasn't a bird at all, but something made by man, and then, in a measure, they lost their fear of it. They became used, to seeing airplanes though they never could become quite used to the noise they made. They learned that as long as they kept out of the way of these strange man-made machines there

They Can't Fly as High as I Can.

Those machines made Old Mr. Buzzard angry and the cause of that anger was jealousy. Yes, sir, it was jealousy. You see, there was nothing about him to be admired by his neighbors excepting his ability to fly. And now, having seen these man-made machines fly, they no longer admired him, for these machines flew without flapping wings.

So whenever one of these machines was in sight Old Mr. Buzzard would sit on his favorite perch on a tall, dead tree and watch jealously. "They can't fly as high as I can. No, sir, no."

Flour Weights 508 1/2 Pounds.

A crowd estimated at more than 1,000 blocked traffic this noon in front of the Burgess-Nash store waiting to learn the weight of the sack of Pillsbury flour.

The weight was announced by Claude Bosse and W. Metcalf, city weight inspector, as 508 pounds and eight ounces. The crowd was so large Miners Honor Mitchell.

Hazleton, Pa., Oct. 29.—Anthracite miners were idle today in observance of Mitchell day, so called in honor of the successful termination of the hard coal strike of 1900, under the leadership of the late John Mitchell, then international president of the United Mine Workers.

Barney Google is always good for a laugh. In The Evening Bee.

Those no-account, trifling, man-made things can't fly as high as I can, he would say over and over to himself.

Of course he was overheard. Any one who talks aloud as Old Mr. Buzzard did is bound to be overheard sooner or later. So it wasn't long before all the little people in the Green Forest and on the Green Meadows knew that Old Mr. Buzzard was jealous. And soon they began to tease him.

WEARS SAME DRESS TO TWO WEDDINGS

Dresher Expert Dyes Dress Pink—Follows With Pale Green.

Did you know that all the bridesmaids' dresses at Marianne Merry's wedding were dyed by Dresher Brothers' expert dyes? Marianne had chosen a shade of delicate pink for the maids' gowns and she wanted to be assured that the colors would absolutely match.

A week later one of Marianne's bridesmaids went east to be maid of honor at a college chum's wedding and she had the same dress re-dyed a soft shade of green.

The girls sent their dresses to Dreshers' expert because they know that he is a master craftsman and can give dyed materials life, luster and sheen. They know that Dreshers, with nine of the most progressive cleaners of the United States, spend $15,000 every year to maintain a laboratory of industrial research where every method, every process and all equipment used in each plant is accurately tested.

You are invited to watch your dresses dyed at Dreshers' main plant, 2213-2215-2217-2219 Farnam street.

Dresher branches are located at Brandeis, Burgess-Nash, Dresher the Tailor, 1515 Farnam street, and on the South Side at 4635 South Twenty-fourth street.

Every Dresher driver-salesman is competent to give advice because he is thoroughly familiar with the science of dry cleaning. Call AT lantic 0345 or MA rket 0050.

Watch the prettier teeth that come when you combat the film

Here is a test which has brought to millions a new conception of clean teeth. Wherever you look you see the results. Teeth glisten as they never did before.

If you don't know this method, you should find it out. You owe that to yourself.

Film is dingy

You feel on your teeth a viscous film. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it. So much of it clings and stays, becomes discolored, and then forms dingy spots. That is how teeth lose their beauty.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Under old methods, these film-caused troubles became almost universal.

So dental science sought and found two effective film combatants. One disintegrates the film.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

one removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent. Now careful people of some 50 nations employ it, largely by dental advice.

Other new effects

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. Also its starch digestant. These are Nature's agents for combating acid and starch deposits. Every use of Pepsodent gives them manifold power.

So this creation has brought to millions new beauty, new cleanliness, new protection.

It will delight

Pepsodent will bring to you a delightful revelation. The results are quick and apparent.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

Then you will realize why you and your family should ever use this method. Cut out coupon now.
