Creighton Gridsters Go Down to Defeat Before Rushing Attack of Indians

Haskell Team Gives Blue and White Trimming

Hilltoppers Helpless to Stop Redskins, and Final Score Is 26-0.

The Haskell Indians came to Creighton to play football and Creighton went down to defeat by a score of 26 to 0.

From start to finish the game was fast and clean. The Indians hit the line often and hard. Creighton attempted to do the same thing when they got the ball, but they met with much less success than the husky Redskins. An aerial game was resorted to only occasionally and met with little success, on the part of Creighton. The Indians attempted to pass only when they needed many yards and out of the three passes they attempted two were successful. Creighton completed only one out of seven attempts.

At the start of the game Creighton took the kick off and chose to defend the south goal. Mahoney lined out a beautiful kick to Elkins, who was waiting on the five-yard line. Elkins brought the ball back to Creighton's 40-yard line. John Levi took the ball the first time and was downed for a loss of two yards by a brilliant play of Creighton. J. Levi then attempted a forward pass, it being incompleted. On the next play he attempted a drop kick from the 35-yard line. It was blocked, but recovered by Haskell. Two plunges, the Levi brothers carrying the ball, netted the Indians 14 yards. A fumble by George Levi, recovered by Mahoney, lost Haskell the ball.

After two plays, in which Creighton was unable to gain noticeable ground, Mahoney punted. Carpenter caught the ball and returned it 20 yards. Haskell started to march down the field with the ball. A series of successful line plunges put the pigskin on Creighton's four-yard line and George Levi plunged over for the first score.

Haskell kicked off and Creighton started to play real football. Hickey ran through a broken field for 17 yards before he was downed. Lower got away around end, but fumbled the ball when tackled and Haskell recovered it.

On the first play Elkins went through the line for an eight-yard gain. George Levi was downed for a loss of five yards on the next attempt. Then came a series of brilliant line plunges by Haskell. The ball advanced down the field by jumps and George Levi went through for another touchdown. Carpenter made his try for point and the score stood Haskell 13, Creighton 0.

Before the next play, George Levi was taken out and Ottipody was sent in to replace him.

Creighton made three plays and advanced the ball a short distance each time, when the quarter ended.

At the start of the second quarter, Luepke broke through the line and ran 18 yards before he was downed. Ottipody was taken out and Smith sent in. Twice Creighton failed to gain and then they tried a forward pass, Peichout to Mahoney. It was incompleted and Mahoney punted. The ball went out of bounds behind the goal line and was brought out to the 20-yard line. John Levi tore around right end on the first play for 13 yards. Elkins fumbled on the next and Creighton got the ball. Creighton made two gains, then attempted a pass. Smith knocked the ball down.

A second pass was intercepted by John Levi, who was downed in his tracks. Two plunges gained little ground for the Indians and Levi punted to Hickey, who failed to return the ball. Mahoney broke away around right end on the first play for one of the most brilliant runs of the Creighton team. The Haskells then held the Blue and White for downs.

Haskell hit the line hard after that and advanced the ball six yards in three downs. John Levi punted and the ball was blocked, striking two Creighton men before it touched the ground. Carpenter recovered the ball and tore down the field for a touchdown. Carpenter failed in the try for point. The score stood: Haskell, 19; Creighton, 0.

Haskell kicked off and the half ended a few seconds later with the ball on Creighton's 40-yard line. Luepke had fumbled on the first play, Jennings recovering for Haskell.

Bertoglio was sent in to replace Yeichout on the Creighton team when the second half started. Mahoney kicked off and Elkins returned the ball 20 yards. The Blue and White line held on the first play and then John Levi got through for five yards. Smith added 27 yards when he got around the right end. The ball was then on Creighton's 39 yard-line.

John Levi plunged into the line three times for a gain of one yard, then to put the ball across the goal line. Carpenter made the try for point and the score stood Haskell 26 Creighton 0.

The first kick that Jennings made, the ball went out of bounds. On the second kick Hickey carried the ball back ten yards against touch interference. Two plunges and Creighton attempted to pass. Norton intercepted the pass and was downed after running five yards. A series of line plunges by Haskell carried the ball to Creighton's five yard-line. They lost the ball on downs. Creighton missed a pass, a plunge failed, and Mahoney punted. Carpenter brought the ball back 22 yards and the quarter ended with the ball on Creighton's 20 yard-line.

The final period was a series of plunges on the part of Haskell. Creighton had the ball only occasionally but they made good use of their opportunities and theratened to score. Haskell lost the ball on downs. Mahoney punted at once to put the goal out of danger. Haskell punted. Haskell was penalized for aff side. Mahoney gained three yards around right end, then a yard was added by a plunge. A forward pass, Lower to Mahoney netted them 40 yards. A second pass was intercepted by John Levi, who was injured when tackled after running 30 yards. Ward was sent in for John Levi.

From then on Haskell drove down the field toward the goal and the game ended with the ball on Creighton's one-foot line.

JOHN PESEK WINNER OF MATCH

Wichita, Kan., Nov. 3.—John Pesek, Nebraska heavyweight wrestler, had little trouble tossing Charley Rubel, A. E. F. champion, in straight falls here last night. Pesek took the first fall in 42 minutes and the second in eight, using head scissors and arm lock to secure each fall.

Hornsby Thinks Trade Talk Is an Insult

St. Louis, Nov. 3.—The story that Rogers Hornsby would be traded to the Cubs for four players is a "grand insult," according to a statement issued by Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Nationals, Friday night. Rickey states that while Bill Killefer had approached him with a proposition to part with Hornsby, he (Rickey) stated that the price he put on Rogers was so great that his price in players would be prohibitive. So that ended the matter.

Outlook Bright for Better Pitching in American League.

For the last five years, or ever since the abolition of freak deliveries, including the spitball, pitching has been on the decline in both major leagues.

In addition to the many pitching reforms that were inaugurated about five years ago, came the lively ball The result was a batting spree in which the batsmen reveled and the pitchers suffered.

The American league should boast much better pitching in 1924 than the season just closed. Practically every club in the Johnsonian organization developed one or more worthwhile young pitchers.

In Paul Zahniser Manager Donie Bush has developed a right-hander who should win many games for the Nationals next year. He has good speed, but a splendid curve ball is his best asset.

For several years Cleveland has been weak as to left-handers, Manager Speaker seems to have remedied this fault. In Joe Saute and Jim Edwards he has developed two southpaws who should win consistently for the Indians next year. Both show great promise.

In John Burns, secured from the Shreveport (La.) club of the Texas league, Connie Mack feels positive he has unearthed a most promising recruit. Burns is a right-hander who knows how to pitch. He hasn't the stuff of a Walter Johnson, but he mixes up his assortment in great style and should make good. He won two of his first three starts after joining the Mackmen, beating Detroit and Washington and losing to Cleveland.

While Herman Pillette of Detroit failed to live up to his great showing of 1922, Syl Johnson, who was picked to star a year ago and failed, has hit his stride and should be a big help to Cobb next season. In addition the Tigers have landed a likely southpaw in Whitehill.

New York—Young Stribling, Georgia school boy boxer who aspires to light heavyweight honors, may sub for Mike McTigue, holder of the world's 175-pound crown, if the latter is unable to go through with his scheduled match with Gene Tunney, American champion, at Madison Square Garden December 10. This was announced last night when Stribling and Tunney were introduced from the ring before the Johnson-Renault match. Stribling recently fought McTigue to a draw at Columbus, Ga.

New York—Billy Shade, California light heavyweight, defeated Jack Burke of Pittsburgh, former sparring partner of Jack Dempsey, in a bristling eight rounder, preliminary on the heavyweight card at Madison Square Garden last night. Shade's aggressiveness earned him the judges' verdict, although Burke landed hard and effectively at times. Shade weighed 175¼ and Burke 176½.

Ed Kelley of Bridgeport, Conn., won the judges' decision over Dan Bright of England in another eight-round preliminary. Bright weighed 209¾ and Kelley weighed 194.

New York—George Godfrey, negro heavyweight of Philadelphia, knocked out Bill Tate, Chicago negro, in the seventh round of a 10-round match, semi-final of the heavyweight card at Madison Square Garden last night. Godfrey sent Tate down for the count of 10 with a terrific left hook 12 seconds before the end of the round. Until then the pair had staged a slow, uninteresting encounter. Godfrey weighed 225½ and Tate 233¾.

Toronto—Benny Gould of New York, former Toronto newsboy, won title featherweight boxing championship of Canada last night, defeating Curley Wilshur in a 10-round match. Gould had the better of six rounds, one was even and Wilshur took three.

Spokane—The indefinite suspension of "Oakland Billy" Harms, Pacific coast middleweight boxer, from boxing in Idaho was announced yesterday in a communication received from R. L. Matthews, athletic commissioner of Idaho. Harms' suspension, the communication stated, was the result of cancellation of a scheduled bout between himself and Leo Stokes, besides involving an allegation that Harms had admitted making untrue affidavits concerning alleged attempts to "fix" the fight.

Erie, Pa.—Jim Slattery, Buffalo heavyweight, scored his second knockout in less than a week when on Monday night he put Johnny Vascher, Wheeling, Va., to sleep in two rounds and repeated the same trick last night on Jim Lewis, from the coast, in three rounds.

"THE RIFLE."

To the rifle there clings more memories and more real traditions than any other of the sportive arms. In selecting your rifle do so with the idea in mind that a new friend is entering your life and with the proper care a friend it will be all through life.

There are innumerable rifles on the market, all sorts of calibres and all sorts of locks, stocks and barrels. You should be interested in the one and make the selection for the kind of game you have in mind. There is no such thing as an all purpose rifle, a gun that with equal facility will kill squirrel or mountain goat. The largest and most wicked piece of animal ferocity that one will come across on the American continent is the grizzly. But the average hunter is not after grizzly—these lines are written for the average hunter, and the game he is after, which may range from black bear to moose and to deer. For this, the matter of selecting a rifle is a very simple thing.

The choice will be between a bolt or lever action, the calibre can be set at 30. If the preference is for the bolt type, there is no better gun made anywhere than our own government Springfield using the 30-06. Most hunters have this rifle made into a sporter, with special windage and elevation rear sights and an ivory or gold sight in front. From exhaustive tests on the national and international rifle ranges, the Springfield has proven its accuracy beyond all question. The variety of loads adapted to the Springfield is such that it can be used for the smallest as well as the largest game on the continent. The matter of loads applies also to other commercial make rifles with the lever action. The take down types of rifle is preferable to the rigid frame. The round barrel is better than the octogon. A pistol grip is desirable, but should be checkered. The repeating rifle has supplanted the old single shot. Rifle barrels should be 26 or 28 inches long. The shorter they are, the shorter the sight base, making long shots more difficult. Any rifle worth while must have the safety devices s that they are really safe.

Frim a scientific standpoint, the peep sight is best for the rear. Large apertures are better than small ones. Ivory bead or gold is best for the front. The farther apart the sights are, the better for quick, accurate shooting.

A Word About Aiming.

For shooting heads off birds or snakes at short range, we are apt to shoot under as the bullet has not had time to rise up into the line of sight before reaching the mark. Either sight your rifle higher or hold slightly over the mark, perhaps an inch or even two inches. For deer within 75 to 100 yards, when the rifle is sighted at 200 yards, aim dead on. Shooting up and down hill at long ranges presents its own problem due to the principle known as rigidity of the trajectory. The trajectory is said to be rigid in that the deflection of the bullet, however, the rifle may be pointed, is always straight down, as this is the direction in which the pull of gravity acts. Assuming the range by such that the bullet is one second in flight, if you fire horizontally, the bullet will have dropped 16 feet below the line of departure. If, however, you have fired upward at an angle of 45 degrees, the bullet in place of falling at right angles to the line of flight, falls at an angel of 45 degrees to it. Therefore in place of being 16 feet away from the line of sight, the bullet is about half that distance and the rifle apparently carrying up far better. The same is true of shooting down hill and the true measure of the drop of the bullet is a range equal to the length of a straight line drawn horizontally from the muzzle of the rifle to a point either exactly over or exactly under obpective. Remember this when making long shots up or down hill.

If your rifle shoots high or low, make adjustment on the rear sight. If to the left, move the sight to the right and vice versa. The power of a cartridge is a multiple of the weight of the bullet and its velocity. Follow this simple rule: Square the given velocity and multiply by the weight of the bullet in 100 grains and fractions thereof. For instance if the bullet weighs 250 grains, multiply by 2.5. Divide the result by 4508 and the quotient will be the energy.

The Trigger Pull.

The trigger pull on a game rifle should be smooth and no more creep than is necessary to release the slot. Shooting position is important. The target crank, of course, favors the prone. This is good enough for the purpose, but the game shot moves quick, aims quick and lets go quick. The off hand is the position to develop. The knee rest is important. Sitting position when using a telescope or waiting for game to approach will be found almost as steady as a machine rest. It's better than prone, more comfortable and easier to learn. When crawling on the ground to keep from view of game, there are times when the prone position has its place. It's not a sporty position and after all, what counts most, a sure thing gamble where game has no chance, or a sportsman's game?

Riflemen of note seem to agree on the following as the up-to-date and most effective arms for the game mentioned:

Moose, Grizzly, Kodiak Bear—40 Winchester, 1895; 35 Winchester, 1895; 30-06 Government 220 grain bullet—Springfield Winchester.

Elk, Caribou, Mule Deer, Goat—35 Winchester; 30-06 Government (180 Gr.) Springfield—Winchester.

White Tail Deer, Black Bear—35 Remington; 30-06 Government (150 Gr.) Springfield—Winchester; 250-300 Savage; 303 Savage; 30-30 Savage, Winchester.

Coyotes—25-35 Winchester, Savage or Remington; 30-50 Winchester, Savage or Remington.

Fox, Woodchuck—250-300 Savage; 25-35 Savage, Winchester or Remington.

Other Small Game—22 W. R. R., Winchester, Stevens, Remington or Savage.

Moran Invites Fans to Watch His Smoke in Coming Season

New York, Nov. 3.—Pat Moran took a club of aged players—except some pitchers—into the 1923 race and pulled Cincinnati out ahead of Pittsburgh, part of the time giving the Giants quite a race. It looks as if he would stick in Cincinnati for another season, and if he does he is confident that with two or three changes he can win the National league championship for the Reds.

Moran was so busy during the world series that he said little about baseball. But when the last play of the last game had been made he blurted out: "We can beat the Giants next year."

"Why so?" he was asked.

"They are worse than we were when we quit the season. I've got some pitchers to go on in 1924 and now the Giants have lost even Nehf. This game is the straw that will break his back next season.

"I might have won in 1923," he continued, "if it had not been that so many of my players were hurt. We had the pitching, but we lost players when it meant victories. Luque came through with a rush. Maybe he will not go so well in 1924, but I've got better than New York at that. If Jake Daubert had been able to start the season and hit as well as he did in 1922, we would have been five or six games better and with those we could have overtaken the Giants' lead. I was not so far wrong last spring when I said we had a chance for the pennant. Didn't we?"

Iowa City, Ia.—With the memory of a game two score years ago still rankling in their hearts, the Iowa Hawkeyes today are prepared to march over the lighter Michigan Wolverines and erase past scores. Coach Yost of the Wolverines may have different ideas.

McTigue and Gene Tunney to Meet

Bout Promises to Be Tame When Judged From Records.

Once again the much abused fans of all fistiana are invited to bite. Gene Tunney and Mike McTigue are scheduled to put on a snappy exhibition of how to draw down a nice big purse with the least possible exertion.

The bout is signed up for December 10. New York, of course, is the place; Barnum started his career in that great metropolis.

After Mike McTigue grabbed off the title in the light heavyweight division, the class that the British call cruiser-weight, fell off considerably with the populace. The latest bout between the champ of the world and the champ of this country came as a surprise as a result.

Neither one of the principals have anything to show for what they have done. McTigue put up a pitiful exhibition against a high school boy in his one start in the United States. Tunney has been living the life of a country gentleman in New Jersey.

Tunney cannot hit a lick hard enough to knock over a lightweight and neither can McTigue. As a result their setto promises less than nothing in the line of thrills.

There will be only one way to arouse any very great enthusiasm in the light heavyweight class. That is by bringing back such a boxer as Tommy Gibbons to this weight and matching him with Carpentier. The Frenchman is on his way to America and such a bout may be arranged this winter. If it is you can rest assured that it will be worth seeing. The Frenchman will fight as long as he is on his feet and Tommy Gibbons never laid down to a man yet. Yes they will fight all right.

Harry Greb may leave the middleweight division, while we are speaking of others than the principals in the latest sell. He declares that he wants action, Gibbons, Fulton, Johnson, any of the big boys will do until 1924, when he declares, Kearns has promised him a go with Jack Dempsey. Harry has a lot of confidence, anybody can say that much for him.

But all in all that is the way the light heavies and the middles stand right now. Maybe in the near future someone will get pushed a little too suddenly while milling around and a new contender will come up. In the meantime the fans can all wait and watch what we have now.

New Sensation in British Golf Circles

British golfers are considerably aroused over the prowess of a new siege gun in professional ranks, who has just been unearthed. He is Michael Bingham, a young Irishman, connected at present with the Stourbridge club in Worchestershire. The medium of bringing young Bingham into the gaze of the general British golfing public was the recently played news of the world tournament, which corresponds to the professional golfers' championship in this country.

Bingham won his first match against a comparatively obscure player in the first round, but in doing so drew enough attention to create the report that he was a prodigious hitter. In his second match he met Abe Mitchell, and the gallery got a chance to get a real line on his play. He lost to Mitchell, but he consistently outdrove Abe anywhere from 10 to 25 yards, and Abe is known everywhere as one of the real sluggers of the game. Now it is claimed that Bingham is the longer hitter among British golfers, amateur or professional.

Incidentaly in this tournament Arthur Havers, the British open champion, was defeated in the fourth round by Tom Renouf, a Jersey golfer, who is in the veteran class, being around 45 years of age.

Annapolis, Md.—A bitterly fought contest is anticipated when Colgate gridmen meet the Navy eleven here this afternoon, and it is expected that both teams will employ a good deal of aerial offensive and provide much spectacular play

Fans Object to Fight Rulings

Think Rickard Stands Too High With the Boxing Commission.

New York fight fans are beginning to get a little bit hostile toward the state boxing commission, according to reports that trickle through.

They say emphatically that the actions of the commission look very much as though they worked for one Tex Rickard.

That may explain much. For instance why a meeting was called last week at which they ruled that a champion fighter must fight at least once every six months if he holds his crown. They also changed their old ruling regarding a disqualified champ and now say that if the champion watches his step and fights good clean fights he may be reinstated, but at all events will not lose his title permanently. In other words during the fighters' term of suspension another man will not be named champ in the state of New York.

All this is fine, the fans say, but what about the place at which the knights of fistiana are to mix? All the biggest purses are put up in New York. The discredited fighter must put on a good clean exhibition in New York city to regain his place in the good graces of the rulers.

When it comes to fighting in New York Tex Rickard has things pretty much his own way. He controls Madison Square Garden and there is no other covered arena in the city that will accommodate a crowd as large as the fights draw.

The commission did bend a little, not much, but they still have the "take it or leave it" attitude down to perfection. And the tin eared gladiators have to take it.

HAIR STAYS COMBED, GLOSSY

Millions Use It – Few Cents Buys Jar at Drugstore

Even stubborn, unruly or shampooed hair stays combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to your hair — that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions. "Hair-Groom" is greaseless; also helps grow thick, heavy, lustrous hair. Beware of greasy, harmful imitations.

BABE RUTH FAILS TO APPEAR

Boston, Nov. 3.—George H. (Babe) Ruth failed to appear in the superior court here yesterday in answer to a suit brought against him by Isadore J. Gorstein of Boston. The action was upon a note for $2,000 made payable by Ruth to the Morton Realty Trust and endorsed by it to Gorstein.

Grid Gossip

Notre Dame, Ind.—Notre Dame's undefeated football team will show its class before a homecoming crowd this afternoon, with Purdue furnishing the opposition. While the Boilermakers are not conceded a chance to win, their open style of play, however, is said to make them dangerous at all times.

Philadelphia.—Pittsburgh meets the University of Pennsylvania in their annual gridiron battle today minus the services of Paul Templeton, star guard, and with several regulars in poor condition. Templeton was unable to make the trip on account of the death of his brother. Despite these apparent handicaps, the Panthers were confident of victory.

Minneapolis, Minn.—With both teams anxious to break into the conference win column, Minnesota and Northwestern football teams will clash on the Northrop gridiron here today. It will be the Gopher's first home Big Ten game of the season.

Manhattan, Kan.—A Missouri university team that showed its full strength for the first time this season in playing Nebraska's smashing machine to a standstill last Saturday and a Kansas Aggie squad that forced the University of Kansas players back near their goal posts will clash here today.

Des Moines.—Drake University and Iowa State College of Ames, traditional gridiron rivals and both contenders for the Missouri Valley championship, met this afternoon before a Drake stadium before a homecoming crowd of close to 10,000. Drake, unbeaten since 1921, and Ames, with two victories and one tie in the Missouri Valley schedule this season, seemed evenly matched, with the Drake team a little the heavier.
