

Polo to Sweep the Country Next Year

Omaha Leading the West in Early Adoption of Sport.

Sportsmen tell us that the game of polo, long a prime favorite in the east, is to sweep the country next year. Omaha has preceded other parts of the west in adopting the game enthusiastically this fall. As proof, the camera has caught these pictures of society folk, who are taking an active interest, in the game.

The Misses Dorothy Cavanaugh, Lillian Head, Catherine Goss, and Winifred Smith, were snapped at an exciting moment last Sunday when they were watching a match from a vantage point on Mr. Jack Squires' car. During the morning almost 100 cars stopped at the field to see a chukker or two. Among the spectators Miss Gertrude Stout and Frank Witwer of Cedar Rapids, brother of Mrs. Henry Luberg of this city were seen as they stopped after a morning canter to watch the players.

Army teams visiting during Ak-Sar-Ben festivities gave added impetus to the rise of polo here, and now civilian teams are being organized. The credit is largely due Col. E. C. Hulstead of Fort Omaha who, an expert himself, has been coaching the military teams, and has kindly rendered the same service to civilians. The latter, with E. John Brandeis as captain, are playing every Saturday and Sunday.

Great promise with the mallet is shown in the playing of some of the Omaha men, among them, Dr. Ray Byrne, Jack Squires, George Stocking, E. John Brandeis, Stewart Summers, and Dr. H. M. Fitzgibbons.

Girls are also taking up the sport, among them those in the picture, and the Misses Elizabeth and Corrine Elliott, Evelyn Cole, and Dorothy Dahlman.

Lectures on Drama and Literature

Mrs. Anthony French Merrill will give the first of a series of six weekly lectures, Monday morning at 10:30 at the Blackstone hotel. Her talk deals with literature and the drama. For many years Mrs. Merrill has drawn increasing audiences among Omaha's cultured and educated matrons.

Among those who made early registrations for this course, which is open to the public, are Mesdames Arthur Metz, Charles Metz, Henry Wyman, J. J. Brown, C. C. George, Lawrence Brinker, Fred Nash, Leonard Everett, A. B. Currie, Henry Luberg, C. W. Hamilton, Ralph Peters, Herbert Rogers, Luther Drake, H. H. Baldrige, A. F. Jonas, L. F. Crofoot, Victor Caldwell, Jr., H. von Schulte, Fred Davis, Reed Peters, Albert Sibusen, Sam Caldwell, Robert McCard, Paul Gallagher, Harold Gifford, Louis Nash, E. M. Moresman, Frank Judson, Sam Rees, C. N. Dietz, W. A. C. Johnson, A. P. Gilou, Misses Jessie Millard and Eleanor Burkley.

Ak-Sar-Ben will be represented by J. E. Davidson's wire-haired fox terrier recently purchased in Denver, and the special prize of Mrs. Davidson. Mrs. J. E. Megeath, also has one of this breed, which she secured this summer from San Anitta, Cal.

Mrs. W. F. Milroy Home From New York.

Mrs. W. F. Milroy returned Thursday from six weeks in New York. Mrs. Milroy considered the most interesting event of her stay there, the organ recital at Carnegie hall, when Charles M. Courbin, formerly an organist at Antwerp, and a chieftain of the order of the crown of Belgium, was presented in the United States for the first time. "It was exquisite," said Mrs. Milroy, "we were all breathless with the beauty of it." Another delightful was the singing of the boy soloist at the famous "Little church around the corner." "During the month of October this boy sings at a 5 o'clock service every evening," she said. "He has a wonderful high soprano voice, and it was really a joy to hear him sing the psalms."

This week Mrs. Milroy will spend a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Leroy Dunn of Des Moines. During the holidays Mrs. R. D. Cobb of Riverside, Conn., Mrs. Milroy's sister, will be her guest.

Dog Show November 16th

Miss Head Directs Entry of Her German Police Dog by Cable From Paris—Cosmopolitan Array of Breeds—First Dog Show in 13 Years.

For the first time since 1910 Omaha is to have a dog show, and this one which will be held at the Municipal auditorium, November 16 and 17, will be the first annual meet of the Nebraska Kennel Club.

Many women owners of blooded canines are entering their pets. A cosmopolitan array of breeds will be included, many of them dogs which have taken firsts in kennel shows over the country.

Others from Omaha who are making entries are Mesdames James Allen, Ben Davis, E. B. Demarest, L. C. Fauble, Arthur Purdy, Stella Bloom, J. H. Wasserburger, L. E. Scouten, C. F. Lennan, C. L. Landon, A. O. Roberts, Flora Jorgenson, George J. Powers.

Entries from other parts of the country are also being made.

of these, owned by Miss May Geisler, and imported by her father from Germany, will be on exhibition. The other is owned by Dr. Jennie Callias.

The exhibit will have on its benches the largest and the smallest canines. Among the larger dogs will be Miss Verne Head's shepherd (German police dog), which she has directed by cable from Paris shall be a contender. Miss Head herself will not be in Omaha until December.

At the other extreme will be tiny little two and four pound Chihuahuas, entered by Mrs. J. W. Gardner and Mrs. Effie M. Jones.

Junior League Patroness Tea

The Junior league will be entertained at a patroness tea from 4 until 6 on Tuesday afternoon at the day nursery. Mrs. T. L. Davis, chairman of the day nursery committee, Mrs. L. W. Carpenter, Jr., her assistant and chairman, and Miss Marlon Towel, president of the league, will be the hostesses and will be assisted by the 18 members of the board.

November Brings Impetus for Intellectual Pursuits

October weddings are past, Ak-Sar-Ben visitors have gone. Gray November skies hang o'er. And with November comes a noticeable impetus for things cultured.

Miss Sigrd Ursin, Metropolitan opera contralto, sings this afternoon at the Brandeis for the Tuesday Musical club.

On Monday, Mrs. Anthony French Merrill opens her course of six weekly lectures at the Blackstone.

Thursday will be a busy day for lecture goers, Maj. E. A. Powell, speaking in the afternoon at the Fontelle for the Omaha Society of Fine Arts, and Dr. Fred Morrow Fine in the evening at the Unitarian church. Mrs. Phebe Fullaway, who will entertain Altrusa club at dinner at her home, will give a travelogue on her summer in Europe.

The Smith College club will meet for luncheon Wednesday with Mrs. Lloyd Holsapple, Mrs. Henry Pierpont assisting hostess. Mrs. Crosby Shelvin is chairman of the book review feature of the club and her committee will present a list for the season.

Tea for Kennedys.

Mrs. Isaac Carpenter will give a tea at her home on November 12 for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rann Kennedy, who will appear the following day at the Brandeis theater in the opening program of the year for the Omaha Drama League. Guests will include former students at Miss Bennet's school, Milbrook, N. Y. The Kennedys instruct at the Bennet school, and have for many years.

Mrs. Sumner Hostess.

Mrs. George W. Sumner will entertain seven tables at a buffet dinner bridge Monday evening in honor of Mr. Sumner's birthday.

Environment Influences Romance

Cupid's Tracks Are Discovered in Vicinity of Farnam and Thirty-Third.

By GABBY DETAYLES.

ENVIRONMENT affects us all. But can it be that certain apartments more than others incline their occupants to matrimony. Maybe so, for there's the Potter, where Cupid's tracks have been discovered. The irresistible little god seems to have hung around Thirty-third and Farnam considerably during the last few years.

Earl Gannett, whose marriage to Miss Edith Locke takes place in New York city next Wednesday, is the most recent holder of this address to have succumbed to the invisible arrows. Upon his departure for the east he gave up the tenancy which he has held for several years and will be at home at the Birchwood upon his return with his bride December 1. Two years ago Edward E. Wirt, then of the Potter, married Miss Dorothy Griffith. They now reside at the Tadousac.

An earlier wedding from this romantic establishment was that of Miss Helen Drummond to Mr. Partidge of Los Angeles.

Recent nuptials were solemnized here for Miss Jessie Rosenstock, who married without changing her name, her husband being Mr. David Rosenstock.

Earl Connolly, then residing at the Potter, was married a year ago last August to Miss Gertrude Eckerman, and the doctor's sister, then Miss Esther Connolly, was married at the Potter apartments to Carl Wolsifer. Her home is now in Shanghai, China.

SPEAKING of weddings and apartments, Gabby read an amusing story of a marriage the other day. With a few omissions and changes in names, to conceal identities, the item ran about like this: Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Smith of the Kenwood apartments announce the marriage of their daughter, Louise, to Clarence Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Jones of the Warwick apartments. The wedding took place quietly a week ago at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. L. O. Brown of the Traymore apartments. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Jones will be at home at the Langdon apartments.

IS IT really true, Gabby wonders, or are more than half the strings to her interesting romance being pulled by her Rodolph of the prescriptive talents. Be that angle of it as it may, however, Gabby hears that a young and charming teacher who shepherds the very youngest set to learning at a South Side school, is dishing about constantly with a former Creighton man now engaged in the drug business. They make what is termed "a cunning couple" for they are both short. She is fair, and he has the dark hair and eyes that go with the Irish of his nickname.

HE IS a modern Lochinvar, ardent in love and gallant in war, the war of football. Not so many years ago he made a reputation for himself as a hero of the gridiron at the University of Nebraska. Now he is finishing his course in the medical college here. He survived all the adulation paid a follower of the pigskin, only to meet his happy fate in a charming white-capped nurse at the hospital connected with his school. We hear they're to be married as soon as he starts his professional practice. So the boys at his fraternity house say. He has many admirers among Central High school athletes where he was once an assistant coach.

CHILDREN are not good comedians. Johnny wanted to go to a movie—his kind. Mother agreed to his wish, but he decided on a love drama which would interest himself, and perhaps, keep Johnny quiet.

The emotional climax of the play was flickering on the screen. The heroine was in the hero's arms and they were lost in a soul kiss. Hearts were beating fast, except Johnny's. He arose in his seat and said in a voice reflecting boredom, "Mother, I wish we had went to Tom Mix."
