Street Scene in Paris Reconstructed for Overseas Armistice Carnival

A street scene in Paris, winding up to the Cafe de la Paix on the stage, is the picture Mrs. Rowe is planning to present. Tiny shops will flaunt their gay crepe paper awnings on either side of the boulevard at this "Night in Paris." The general color scheme will be in the French colors, red and white and blue. Festoons of lights in these colors will shed their brilliance over the gala scene, Harry Trustin is assisting Mrs. Rowe with the construction work and B. B. Adams with the scenic painting.

Two miniatures by Mrs. Rowe have been accepted and hung by the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and one by the New York Water Color club.
