

Boy Scouts Aid Charity Chest

Refrain From Witnessing Football Game to Distribute Posters.

Twenty-five Boy Scouts sacrificed seeing the Central High school football game yesterday in order to do their share in aiding the community chest campaign.

The scouts who had planned to attend the football game marched in a body to the chest campaign headquarters, 1624 Harney street, and announced to Manager Joe Kelley that they wanted to work all afternoon to aid the campaign. They were assigned the job of distributing large "Give Once for All" posters in the downtown section of the city.

"We didn't like to miss the game, but we thought the community chest needed our help more than the high school needed our rooting," said Walter Dempster of Troop 51.

The Camp Fire girls will be used during the coming week in distributing small window cards.

Comment From Pulpit.
The community chest campaign will be commented on by nearly all the preachers in Omaha tomorrow. Letters telling of the chest and asking for support was mailed to every priest, rabbi and minister in the city.

"Under the community chest plan we are asked to give once for all instead of 29 times and to know once for charity instead of 29 times," said Joe Kelley, manager of the campaign, wrote.

"In this way thousands of dollars will be saved annually by eliminating the numerous small drives and numberless tag days."

The campaign headquarters received several telephone calls from ministers today that they would be glad to join in the chest movement. Meetings of the men and women majors and captains will be held Monday and Wednesday. The men majors and captains will meet Monday noon at the Brandeis restaurant. John L. Kennedy and Henry Monsky will address them. The women majors will meet Wednesday noon at the University club. Mrs. W. J. Hynes and Mrs. C. M. Wilhelm will be in charge.

Organization Progresses.
"The organization is progressing very well," said Director Davidson. "By next Saturday we will have 600 men workers and 800 women workers listed at campaign headquarters. It will be the most intensive campaign since the war."

Maj. Guy Kiddoo and Maj. W. S. Stryker turned in the names of their captains yesterday. They are: Major Kiddoo: Captains A. E. Borglum, Robert T. Burns, C. H. Johns, Fred Knapp, W. F. Noble, H. W. Potter, George Seemann, Harry Silverman, Allen A. Tukey and E. D. Wiers.

Major Stryker: Captains Ernest Bihler, F. A. Carlson, James Corr, Edward Daugherty, J. L. Duffy, Pratt Harwood, Harry Land, Verne Miller, E. Jacobberger and Al Rasap.

Speakers from the campaign speakers' bureau will address all gatherings in the city during the next two weeks. Congressman W. G. Sears spoke about the chest before the Elks club last night. Henry Monsky, vice chairman of the permanent chest committee, was scheduled to address the Chamber of Commerce good fellowship committee meeting at noon today.

"In order to raise Omaha's fund of $402,000 everyone must give as generously as possible," said Director Davidson. "We must not forget that the community chest includes 29 charitable organizations. When we give to the chest we are really contributing to 29 different philanthropies."

Omaha Man Regains Health and Hair on Long Auto Trip

A. J. P. Bertschy Returns to City to Resume Business Abandoned After Nervous Breakdown.

He was head of the Bertschy Manufacturing and Engineering company, a big plant on the southeast corner of Twentieth and Harney streets, for years.

Throughout the war the plant worked day and night, filling important contracts. It was strenuous work for A. J. P. Bertschy, and in 1920, his health broken, he sold out the business.

But not to go to a sanitarium. A. J. P. isn't that sort of man. He had different ideas.

His blood pressure was 190, he couldn't digest food, he couldn't sleep.

Starts Long Tour.
So he got into his automobile and started to drive. Day by day his big car ate up the long stretches of the never-ending road. Night by night A. J. P. camped in groves, by roadsides, in mountains.

He cooked his own food over the campfire. He wore the roughest of clothes and no hat.

Pretty soon he found he wasn't troubled about sleeping. After the long day in the open air he could hardly keep awake long enough to cook his evening meal over the campfire. And he could digest it like a boy.

Thus, in two years just past, Mr. Bertschy traveled 126,000 miles, going to every nook and corner of this country and lapping over into neighboring lands.

Back in Omaha.
He has just returned to Omaha. He astonished his friends here. Is this ruddy man with the youthful smile and the clear eyes, A. J. P. Bertschy who went away in such poor health?

Bertschy laughs and assures them that it is.

Their next exclamations are about his head. For, wonderful to relate, though he was bald as the proverbial billiard ball when he went away, he now has a good head of hair. He bends down to show the newer hair coming in, and to point out that it is black.

Denver Banker Gets Sentence to Prison

By Associated Press.
Denver, Colo., Nov. 2.—Carlo H. Smith, Denver banker and prominent business man, on October 20, last, was sentenced to serve from 4 to 10 years in the state penitentiary when he entered a plea of guilty to obtaining money by false pretenses and fraudulently selling land twice. It was announced by Phillips S. Van Cise, district attorney today.

According to the district attorney, Smith obtained approximately $20,250 from the North Denver bank here on fraudulent transactions and $24,300 from the Central Savings bank. The losses at both banks have been made good, according to the district attorney. Smith was one of the vice presidents of the Central Savings bank and president of the North Denver bank.

Outside of his speculations at the two banks, according to the district attorney, Smith failed for $35,750, which was owed to some 19 corporations and individuals and was not secured by marketable securities.

Operation on Youth Halted.

A. J. P. Bertschy

"Did it with fresh air and never wearing a hat," he says. "I didn't wear a hat for the whole two years. And my blood pressure is down to 148, normal for a man my age. And I can jump in and out of a barrel just like I could when I traveled with Kinglins years ago."

Just to show his prowess, Bertschy kicks, his toe going well above his head. And he can even do the "split" of his circus days. He is 48 with the body of 28.

Mr. Bertschy was passing through Omaha en route to California to go into business again. But prospects looked so good here that he decided to re-establish. Accordingly the Bertschy Engineering Service company has been organized at $50,000 and a great amount of machinery is en route from the east to be installed at 606-612 South Fourteenth street. His old employees are being gathered and are coming back. Certain patented devices will enable the company to do work like cylinder grinding at greatly reduced prices, Mr. Bertschy says.

Boiler-Maker Hit Wife; Jailed

Now She Won't Live With Him, She Said.

R. E. Newhouse, 1804 North Seventeenth street, was sentenced to 30 days in jail in municipal court Saturday morning on a charge of striking his wife.

According to her testimony, Newhouse, who is a boiler-maker, became angry when he came home last night and found that his supper was not ready. Later, she said, when she returned from the home of a neighbor, Mrs. J. B. Langland, 1808 North Seventeenth street, he accused her of going to the Landland home to see a brother-in-law of Mrs. Langland and in the argument which followed, she testified, he struck her on the chin with a magazine which he was reading.

She declared that the blow knocked her unconscious.

After sentence was pronounced on her husband, she declared that she will no longer live with him, but that she will not permit him to get a divorce.

First Issue of Creightonian.
First issue of The Creightonian, weekly organ of Creighton university, to be published this year, made its appearance on the campus during the homecoming day exercises Friday.

The first issue of the year is composed of eight pages, and contains pictures of Creighton football men, together with general news of the college and the homecoming.

The paper ordinarily is published weekly from September to June.

Sheriff Slaps Police in Note

Comments on Butler's Removal and Urges a Stricter Enforcement.

Sheriff Michael L. Endres raps the new police administration in a letter of instructions sent to his deputies urging them to a stricter enforcement of the law. This letter, said the sheriff Friday morning, marks the opening of an enforcement campaign.

The part of the letter referring to the police department runs as follows: "You realize that in the last month Mr. Butler, commissioner of police and sanitation, has been transferred again to the finance department. This has been done for several reasons which perhaps you can imagine as well as I can. I understand that these same forces are trying to make this a wide-open town, not only as to gambling and bootlegging, but all the other crimes that coincide with bad whisky."

Rent Halls, Claim.
"The lawless element has made arrangements to rent halls and basements to carry on their violations of the law," said the sheriff in urging his deputies to take special pains to look into and report all such violations. He also asked his officers to "abstain from intoxicating liquor and refrain from frequenting gambling or bootlegging places and ill-governed houses."

If not, pursues the letter, he will censure them and may have to ask for their resignations.

"Politics," Says Beal.
"Politics" was the characterization of County Attorney Henry J. Beal of the sheriff's letter.

"However, I'm glad if the sheriff is going to clean up the gamblers," added the county attorney. "They have simply been running wild around this town. I've been raising hell about it for some time and I've felt kind of lonesome."

West Coast Gas Is Low

Commissioner John Hopkins returned Saturday from California, where he went to attend the national convention of the American Legion.

On the way home, he stopped off in western Nebraska for a few days' hunting.

While in California, he took careful note of the gasoline situation. He reports that gasoline filling stations on the coast are selling at prices ranging from 11 to 17 cents a gallon.

Ambassador Harvey Is Given Grand Sendoff

London, Nov. 2.—Ambassador George Harvey was given a great sendoff on his way to New York when he left for Southampton this evening to board the Aquitania, which sails tomorrow.

A large crowd of American well-wishers had gathered at the Waterloo station and the special salon car.

Introduction of New Models Nemo Corsets and Circlets Complete Correct Corseting

SERVICE IN CORRECT CORSETING is the thing most wanted by women of today. And that Service must include not only fitting service by skilled corsetieres, but also a full range of corsets and brassieres to choose from and reliable advice in making selections.

In recognition of this we are featuring the introduction of new Fall models in Nemo Corsets and Circlets. In the various Nemo Services—both Corsets and Circlets—you will find models that actually do complete correct corseting.

Nemo Corsets are noted for their pronounced service of hygiene and style; and for that reason they render an exclusive and distinctive service.

The Circlet does more than the ordinary brassiere, not only because of its distinctive features and careful workmanship, but it is so shaped as to give a graceful figure.

Complete Correct Corseting by means of Nemo Corsets and Circlets is more important now than ever before as it is the only means by which a youthful figure can be retained, and health preserved.

We cordially invite every woman of this city to visit our Corset Department, inspect the new Nemo models and learn at first hand the true value of correct corseting.

Illustrated are four corset models typical of the four Nemo services. In each service are various models to suit different figure requirements and in a satisfactory range of price.

- No. 560—A new Wonderlift with low top. Concealed bandlet lifts up and holds in place delicate abdominal organs, $7.25.
- No. 610—One of the new Diafram Reducing models which controls and reduces excess flesh over diafram and flattens the entire front figure line, $7.00.
- No. 1403—Self-Reducing Corset with auto-massage bands in groin section. Reduces, remoulds, rejuvenates and is comfortable always, $8.00.
- No. 1314—A very low top KopService Corset with elastic inserts to control thigh flesh and provide extreme comfort. $13.50.

CIRCLET

MORE THAN A BRASSIERE

- Beginning at the right: No. 2511 unites fine pink chamoisette with mercerized brocade to provide a maximum of control at no lack of comfort. Flatting-Front with Hook-Rite attachment. $2.50.
- No. 1518—A brand new Circlet for the stout figure. Flat front closing with hooks and eyes. Has the original Flatting-Front device with Hook-Rite attachment. $1.50.
- No. 3017—An entirely original thought in brassiere design. Side garters cause this Circlet to bridge the waist, creating smooth, youthful lines. The last word in figure control. $3.00.
- No. 2012—A fall design that is bound to prove popular. Diafram reducing, elastic gusset for greater comfort. Extra length prevents riding up over corset top. $2.00.
