

"Every Dog—His Day"

THESE HIGH BRED CANINES WILL BE ENTERED IN OMAHA KENNEL SHOW, NOVEMBER 16TH AND 17TH

High bred canines in Omaha will come in for their day November 17 when the Nebraska Kennel club will open its two-day dog show at the Auditorium. Mrs. James E. Davidson the beautiful wife of Ak-Sar-Ben's king, will enter "Buzz" her wire-haired fox terrier. Mrs. J. E. Mcgeath has a dog of this breed, named "Rap." Her Scotch collie "Cash" came as a wedding present from Colorado. Little Windsor Mcgeath, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Mcgeath, likes nothing better than a day at his aunt's home which includes, of course, delightful romps with "Cash," his favorite pet.

Col. J. H. Parker brought his wife three chow chows from China several years ago. They are dogs rarely seen in Omaha. The one in the picture took a first in St. Louis at one of the largest dog shows there.

Tugging at their leashes here are Mrs. W. C. Edmiston's Chesapeake, Sandy the white one and Don the brown.

Mrs. James Allan's Scottish terriers "Tam" and "Meg" are the "proud parents" of three wee black and brindle puppies. "Tam" is all attention on his hind legs when a tid bit hangs over his head.

Tiny two and four pound Chihuahuas owned by Mrs. J. W. Gardner and Mrs. Effie M. Jones will be entered and at the other extreme will be Miss Vernelle Head's German police dog. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morton, jr. have a Great Dane, not yet his full growth.

Mrs. G. H. Moore will make about 10 entries from her kennel of Pekinese and English toy spaniels.

"Three Times a Bridesmaid, Never a Bride"

But Seven Times a Bridesmaid and a Bride She Will Be—Ak-Sar-Ben Queen Holds Record as Attendant at the Larger Weddings.

By GABBY.

MAY we hope for an announcement from the Queen of Ak-Sar-Ben soon? "Three times a bridesmaid, never a bride," goes the old saying. Miss Eleanor Burkley, reigning queen, fulfilled the first condition some time ago, so Gabby has felt rather secure about her, despite numerous and ardent admirers.

But just the other day we learned the revised version of the old saying. It confirms the "three times a bridesmaid, never a bride" but goes on to say "unless you have served at seven weddings and then you are sure to be a bride."

So now we are nervous again. With the announcement that Miss Head has chosen Miss Burkley as her maid of honor, she will have been attendant at six weddings, and should Miss Dorothy Judson ask Miss Burkley to be in her wedding party when she marries Wallace Sheppard in the spring, and if it were than probable she will, the magic seven will have been reached. What then?

Just as a guess, Gabby would suggest the name of one of our taller and handsomer young men, whose attractive manner is backed up with the prestige of a creditable record at one of the largest eastern universities.

Miss Burkley probably holds the record as attendant at outstanding weddings of the last few years. She accompanied to the altar Misses Elizabeth Jingswaht, Dorothy Kiplinger, Helen Smith, Marlan Hamilton, Dorothy Bell, and will attend Miss Vernelle Head in January and doubtless will be in the wedding party of Miss Judson at a later date.

A WEDDING in New York! Thwarted friends who received cards to the wedding of Gertrude Kountze and Ray Millard, which they will be unable to attend, adopt the sour grape consolatory measure saying "a wedding away from all your friends wouldn't be much fun."

They will be surprised to learn that Miss Kountze will be married in New York with as great an array of well-known faces around her as she would have in Omaha. A close friend of the family declared to Gabby just the other day, that as many invitations were issued to New Yorkers, as to Omahans. The wide ramifications of the Kountze family in the east, and many school friendships formed by both the bride and groom lend a great scope to the list of those interested.

YOU'LL all be surprised to hear that another young medical man has been caught in Cupid's, or is it Stupid's net?

Of course you'll only be surprised if you are able to guess who he is. By way of identification he is known that he studied his medicinal arts at the University of Nebraska branch here, where he was a member of the Phi Rho fraternity, and that he had what is known as a way (albeit a warty way) with the ladies. This way he retained after getting his diploma, and has had a more or less merry time phandering around. This week-end, however, he gave his hand away for though he motored down to the game at Lincoln, the only bachelor in a married crowd, she of the opposing team, she speedily joined him on his arrival.

In the group of Omahans with whom he was associated as a junior servant. The party was announced earlier in the week by the social scribble.

ONLY lately one of the Telephone company's confirmed bachelors established a matrimonial precedent which one of the other bachelors here is trying to emulate. Very frequently he is seen with the Dullest of his choice, and even as recently as yesterday they were two of the 5,600 Omahans at the Notre Dame game.

The young lady herself has not been without a matrimonial precedent, for only this fall her cousin was in the van of the season's brides,

Social Affairs Taboo for Week of November 19

Great Rally Among Women Leaders to Support the Community Chest Drive for $402,000.

The social slate will be wiped practically clean of daytime events such as luncheons, afternoon bridge parties or teas during the week of November 19 when the campaign is on to raise $402,000 for the support of 29 Omaha charities. Mrs. W. J. Hynes, chairman, and Mrs. C. M. Wilhelm, vice chairman, are urging the women of Omaha to forego all daytime social engagements to work for the Community Chest. Neither of these women nor any of their 22 majordomos has a single social engagement during the daytime for that week. In fact, Mrs. Hynes and Mrs. Wilhelm have already been working on such a schedule for a week and will continue to do so for another two weeks. Mrs. Hynes has a guest, Mrs. E. J. McVann of Washington. Her friends have taken entire responsibility for Mrs. McVann's entertainment and she sees her hostess during the day only by calling on her at the campaign headquarters, 1624 Harney street.

Mrs. Hynes permitted herself one social diversion last week. She attended the Nebraska-Notre Dame game at Lincoln Saturday. Mrs. Wilhelm will break her three-week schedule just once. She will entertain the Fairlight Musical club at her home Tuesday.

"We should make this week one of sacrifice and consecrate it to a common cause," declared Mrs. Hynes. "Lasting good should come out of this drive aside from the financial aid extended the various institutions. When it is ended the citizens of Omaha will know more about their charities and they will be more personally interested in their support, for this is to be an educational as well as a money campaign."

Miss Marion Towle, president of the Junior league, heartily approves of the plan to forego daylight festivities during campaign week. She believes that the hostess who does entertain that week should pay for the privilege, and suggests that both she and her guests make up a fund that day and donate it to the chest. She also suggests that if bridge is played that women penalize themselves by giving the prize money to the chest. The league has agreed to forego social activities during the week. Miss Towle further suggests that next year the Community Chest week close with a charity ball. "I believe a large sum of money could be realized for the chest that way. Also it would compensate for a week of social inactivity."

Mrs. E. W. Nash believes all social plans should be abandoned for that week. "Unless the women as well as the men work hard the money will not be raised," said Mrs. Nash. "I am deeply interested in this Community Chest plan and am anxious to see how it works out. This will be the test of its practicability. In other cities they are very enthusiastic about the system. If we can raise the money this way it will be a splendid thing. Other well known women are outspoken in their support of the idea of giving up luncheons and teas during campaign week. They expressed themselves in no uncertain terms as follows: Mrs. Conrad Young: "I heartily approve of giving up all social engagements during the daytime in campaign week. I have favored the chest plan right along, but will eliminate overlapping of charity work and the need of drives every few weeks. It must succeed."

Mrs. C. C. George: "There should be no entertaining during the daytime while the Community Chest drive is on. Women should get out and work. There will be plenty to do."

Miss Eleanor Burkley, queen of Ak-Sar-Ben. "We must give up social engagements that week. It is the only way the drive can be put over. I think the idea of the Community Chest grows more popular each day as people understand it. The women who will conduct the house-to-house campaign should be highly commended for this will be the most difficult thing to do."

Miss Claire Dagherthy: "I think as far as formal entertaining that week,

Smith Club Makes Scrapbooks for Christmas

The Smith College club, which is pursuing the policy of monthly luncheons at the homes of its members this year, will make Christmas scrapbooks for children who are in hospitals. The little shufflers will find the books most interesting for movie "stills" kindly conducted by the Strand and Rialto theaters will be used as pictures.

Following the next luncheon, which Mrs. Walter Preston and Mrs. Edgar Scott will give at the Omaha club, the members will adjourn to the Blackstone, where they will clip and paste on cambric books.

In the collection are a number of scenes from the Bible. Fascinating glimpses of life in costume plays will lend interest. Most of the pictures are shiny blacks and whites, but a few will be done in colors.

The calendar should be blank. This will be a week for work."

Mrs. F. A. Nash: "I think women should forego social affairs during the day for that week. If they are not working in the campaign, they should be at home to receive the solicitors and make their work easier."

Mrs. Henry Wyman: "I think there is a spiritual significance to this drive as well as material one. We can well afford for one week to give up our pleasure and devote our time one way or another to Community Chest work."

Mrs. Glen Wharton approves Mrs. Hynes' plan. "All the Junior league members have agreed to give up social affairs that week," she declared.

Mrs. T. L. Davis, who has been in charge of work at the Day Nursery, has been accustomed to giving up social engagements since she took over that work. "I haven't been to an affair in the daytime for weeks. It's a tremendous task to raise the sum the Community Chest asks and the only way the women can do their part is to work that week," she declared.

Mrs. Frank Judson and her daughter, Miss Dorothy, Mrs. Clyde Roeder, Miss Erna Reed, Mrs. Malcolm Baldrige and scores of other women have adopted the no-play plan for that week.

Comings and Goings of People You Know

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Richardson are the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Austin.

Sam C. Johnson of Clayton, N. M., spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Greevy.

Mrs. Thomas Niles and son are the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Austin.

Mrs. Allen Chambers of St. Paul, Minn., who has been visiting Mrs. A. L. Vernon and Mrs. Erdman Bruner, left Saturday evening for her home.

Misses Jean Falconer and Ruth Hope are spending the week end in Lincoln at the Alpha Xi Delta house party.

Mrs. E. H. Dessauer, her daughter, Virginia, and son, Lowell, included six in their party motoring to Lincoln Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Howard and Miss Helen Sunderland and Fred Curtis motored to Lincoln yesterday for the week end.

Miss Iselta Smith, who is in New York at the present, will be a guest there at the wedding of Miss Gertrude Kountze and Ray Millard, December 1.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Dalley will spend Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Van Velsor in Chicago. Mr. Dalley will make a New York trip at this time.

Mrs. Arthur Crittenden Smith and her daughter, Harriett, will return to Omaha the first of January from Cohasset, Mass. Miss Harriett, who has been ill for the past few years, is entirely recovered.

Mrs. C. N. Diets who left yesterday for Tennessee, will be joined there by her sister, Mrs. John R. Hudson. Together they will visit in Chicago, returning home November 16.

Misses Katherine Reynolds and Leila Trevilgus and Messrs. George Driver and I. A. Reed are spending the week end in Lincoln. The girls are the guests of the Phi Omega Psi sorority.

Mrs. Watson Smith of New York City, formerly Miss Hazel Howard of Omaha, is the guest of her mother, and of her brother, Burton F. Howard. Mr. Smith, who is engaged in construction work at Keokuk, Ia., will join his wife and two little sons (Turn to Page Two, Column Two.)

World-Wide Birthday Party

Although her mother, Mrs. Edwin Farmer, lives in Honolulu, Mrs. Frank Norton of Omaha is planning a world-wide birthday party for her on November 26, two weeks from Monday.

At 10 p. m., Mrs. Norton will send a poem greeting to her mother by radio. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Norton of Corning, N. Y., will listen in, as will Rudyard Norton, another son, at Yale. Miss Dorothy, who is at home this season, will unite with her mother in sending congratulations to her grandmother.

Mrs. Charles Herbert Sweetser of San Francisco, sister of Mrs. Norton, is now a visitor in Honolulu, and will join with her mother and a brother, Howard J. Farmer, in receiving the message. Mr. Sweetser, in San Francisco, has been invited to the party.

Mrs. Farmer does not know of the unique message of love she will receive on her birthday, but Mrs. Norton has apprised her brother by letter of the plan, and he will take his mother to a receiving station at Waikiki at the appointed time.

Miss Blanche Peters of Albion, Neb., who was Mrs. Norton's maid of honor, will be a guest at the radio party. Mrs. Lenora Diets Norton, a much beloved friend of Mrs. Norton, who will be in Los Angeles at the time, according to present plans, has helped plan the surprise for Mrs. Farmer and will listen in from the Pacific coast.

Affairs for General and Mrs. Leroy Upton. Many informal affairs are being given for General and Mrs. Leroy Upton, who leave within the next two weeks to motor to their new post in Port Howard, Md. General and Mrs. Upton came to Omaha as Colonel and Mrs. Upton of the Seventh corps area headquarters. Tuesday evening Col. Harvey Miller will entertain for the general and his Steak Roast Last Eve. The Messrs. and Mesdames M. T. Schwartz, C. H. Over, G. F. Taylor, J. F. MacIntyre, Ernest Phillips, A. H. Nabstedt, Mrs. Randall, and George Bierman had a steak roast last evening at a hunting lodge near Valley.
