Now Mr. Churchill has taken the opportunity afforded by an article I wrote about the British empire for the British Empire Review, to open up a fight again. After that Mr. Churchill lapses into sheer naughtiness. There are times when the evil spirit comes upon him and when I can think of him only as very intractable little boy, a mishievous, dangerous little boy, a kneeworthy little boy. Only by thinking of him in that way can one go on liking him. Suddenly he breaks out about Russia and I am reminded that he has been one of the chief afflictions of that unfortunate country, that he was largely responsible for the waste of scores of million pounds of British money, in arming first one brigand chief and then another to attack and still further devastate our war-exhausted ally. He is still unrepentant. He declares that I was passionate and am now a disapinted pro-bolshevik, although I have always been an austere critic and witness of bolshevik incompetence and unpracticainess. But I have also borne my witness to the fact that the bolshevik leaders are mainly honest men, fighting against stupendous dif-ficulties and leading hard lives, and that the Russian people would far rather have them as its rulers than many of the vicious plundering pos roming white hopes and czarist reactionaries patronized by Mr. Church-Against tremendous difficulties hese Russians have fought, against nvading Japanese, Poles, Esthonians, French-subsidized invaders and Britsh-subsidized invaders, and against famine and pittless blockade and against their own ignorance and the troclously rough and cruel legacy czarism, and it seems as if after all, they will pull through and lay the foundations of a renascent Russia. And this is the handful of mud this English statesman hurls at the struggling rulers of this great land with which we are at peace. "They are ust a selfish plundering crew of tyants and parasites who descended upon an unhappy land and enslaved or slaughtered its people, soiled its onor, ruined its prosperity, devoured ts substance and enriched themselves and their female belongings."

That about the "female belongings" isn't at all like the little gentleman. It is not even honest abuse. He knows

According to a newspaper report, Edwin Ross of Pennsylvania wins the world's record for having the longest appendix. Mr. Ross was stricken with appendicitis and it took three doctors to remove the seven-inch appendix.

A Treacherous Disease.

Appendicitis attacks at any moment even persons seemingly in good health. Usually, however, it is preceded by so-called stomach trouble, constipation or similar disturbances. Often when there is a warning feeling of uneastness in the abdomen, appendicitis can be guarded against in the same manner in which one guards against the spread of throat infection, because that is just what appendicitis is—an infection in the intestines spreading to the appendix. When one has sore throat one can often prevent further trouble by using an antiseptic wash or gargie to fight the pissons from the body. The same procedure is necessary to carry off the poisons from the body. The same procedure is necessary to gard the intestinal antiseptic and a COM-There is necessary.

Nurse Stacey's Suggestions to Middle Aged Women

A MOST trying period of a woman's life is that of middle age, fraught with danger to some extent, and invariably with most annoying symptoms, such as hot-flashes, smothering spells, nervous troubles, irregularities and fainting spells.

When a woman like Nurse Stacey after many years of caring for the sick writes a letter of praise for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound like the following, it should influence other women who are passing through the Change of Life to try it.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a root and herb medicine especially adapted to act upon the feminine system. It helps nature to build up the weakened, nervous system, and enables women to pass this trying period with the least possible annoying symptoms.

Nurse Stacey's Letter Follows:

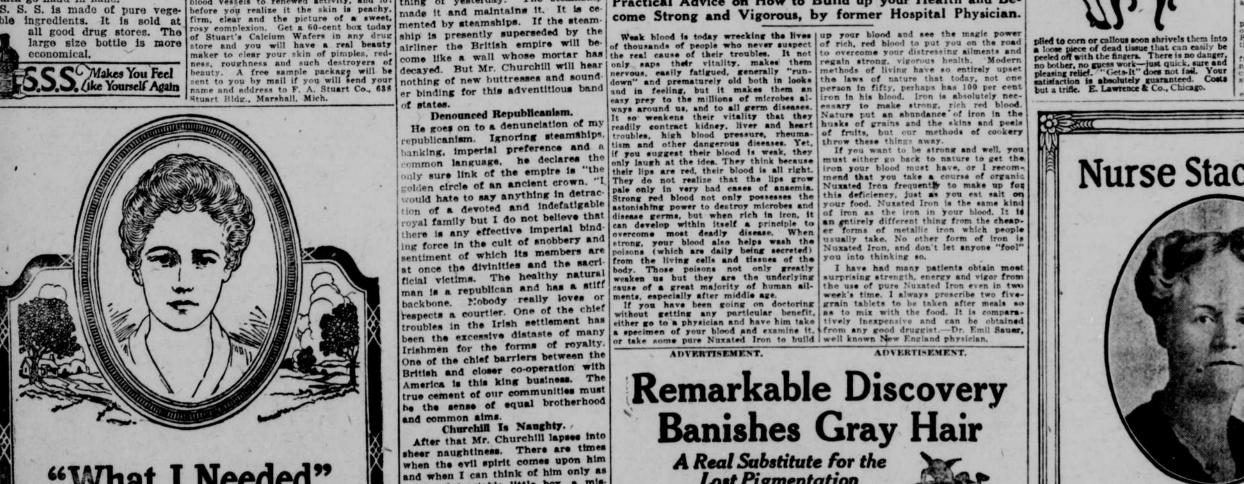

COLLINSVILLE, ILL.-"I could almost write a book in praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In the first place my husband induced me to try it and I have continued taking it off and on for years. I have become a well woman from its use and am now taking it through the Change of Life just to be on the safe side. I first took it for backache and a weak condition of the whole system and I think it saved my life and my baby. She is now a mother and takes it herself and I think I can count as high as a hundred women I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to, as I am a practical nurse. Use my letter in any way you see fit for I will stand by what I write."—Mrs. H. Stacey, Collinsville, Illinois.

Another Woman's Similar Experience

"During the Change of Life I was always tired and weak, could hardly do my work and did not care to go anywhere or talk to people. After I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I noticed a change and before I had taken four bottles of it I felt like a new person. I can and always will recommend it in cases like mine."—Mrs. Jos. WANISH, 1119 S. 18th St., Manitowoe, Wisconsin.

"What I Needed"

"I have known of Cardui for years, but never knew its worth until a year or so ago," says Mrs. Wesley Mabe, of Kernersville, N. C., whose portrait appears above. "I was in a weakened, nervous condition. I became draggy; didn't eat or sleep to do any good; couldn't do anything without a great effort. I was in a miserable condition. I tried different remedies and medicine, yet I continued to drag.

"I decided to give Cardui a trial, and soon found it was what I needed. It made me feel much stronger soon after I began to use it. I began to eat more, and the nervous, weak feeling began to leave. Soon I was sleeping good. Cardul built me up as no other tonic ever did."

Thousands of other women, who suffered as described above, have found Cardui of great benefit. If you suffer from womanly ailments, you should begin taking Cardui, today, with confidence in its long-proved merit. Cardul should help you, as it has helped so many other women.

Cardui contains no harmful drugs. It acts gently and in a natural manner, assisting in the relief of many symptoms of female trouble, and helping to restore weak women to health and strength.

In use over 50 years. Your druggist sells it.
