

Blooded Dogs to Strut and Pose at Show

Owners From Twelve States Exhibit Fine Canines at Omaha Auditorium November 16 to 17.

Mark! bark! the dogs do bark! The dog show is coming to town! Big dogs, small dogs, short dogs, tall dogs, thin dogs, fat dogs, long dogs, black dogs, white dogs, toy dogs, black dogs—

All will come pouring into the City auditorium for the Nebraska Kennel club's first dog show Friday and Saturday, November 16 and 17.

All Sizes There.

Entries, which were closed Friday, show 352 canines registered, including 41 breeds, and displayed by 202 proud owners. They range in size from the tiny Chihuahua which weighs about two and one-half pounds and which one can hold in one's palm, to the burly St. Bernards and Great Danes weighing from 250 to 350.

Several rare breeds will be on display including the Rehnpscher, a new kind of dog recently bred in Germany, and a couple of purebred Old English sheep dogs, of which there are very few purebred specimens in the United States.

An especially fine display of hunting dogs is promised.

1924 Model Hound Dogs Will Compete for Honors

The two long, rangy, underslung streamline 1924 models in the top picture are King and Bess, bloodhounds owned by George Townley of the Reliable Detective agency, who are called upon whenever a crime in the vicinity of Omaha offers an opportunity for their service. They are entered in the kennel show to be held in Omaha Friday and Saturday of this week.

Below is Almo aus der Schwartzwalde Eck, German police dog, trained in the police department of Stuttgart, Germany, and owned by Louis Storz, which is also entered in the show.

Woman Manages Five Businesses

After Death of Husband, Kansas Widow Assumed Control of $30,000 Concern.

Morrowville, Kan., Nov. 10.—This town has a woman business head, in a large business institution, who is handling all phases of the establishment and carrying financial responsibilities of the management with good success. Mrs. W. H. Kozel owns the local lumber, coal and cement yards and a gas and oil station in addition.

Five months ago her husband met death by an accidental kerosene bath while standing at the intake pipe of an underground storage tank and the liquid was forced all over him when some one started the electric pump. The business, with a stock of approximately $30,000, was left, and she took charge and has since been managing it.

Denison Couple Injured When Auto Goes in Ditch

Denison, Ia., Nov. 10.—Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Gulick of Denison met with an auto accident this morning near Carroll. He was moving to the side of the road to allow an auto to pass when his machine struck soft dirt and fell down the bank, turning over.

Both are in the hospital at Carroll. Mrs. Gulick had a broken ankle and her husband was badly bruised. They were going to visit their daughter, Mrs. Melson, at Jefferson. Mrs. Gulick had not recovered from a broken hip.

New Innerings Eliminate Slapping and Oil Pumping

The L. M. Auto Repair Co., at the Croston garage have adopted the innering exclusively in all their repair work and as a result are guaranteeing their finished jobs for 10,000 miles against piston slapping and oil pumping.

The innering is a crimped band of spring steel and is placed in the piston ring groove underneath the regular ring. The crimp or hump forces the piston ring against the cylinder wall, eliminating the piston slap and oil leakage that is caused by worn rings.

Man's Skull Fractured; Was to Have Wed Thursday

Leocadia, Neb., Nov. 10.—Leo Goracke of Beatrice, in a hospital in that city suffering with two slight fractures of the skull, will recover, according to word from the attending surgeon, Goracke, who formerly lived at St. Mary, was riding a bicycle on the streets of Beatrice, a week ago, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Ed Taylor. He was to have been married last Thursday.

1,700 Bushels of Corn Sell for 72 Cents a Bushel

Leocadia, Neb., Nov. 10.—Carl Herstman, a farmer living in the Sterling section, shelled 1,700 bushels of new corn, one day this week, and delivered it to the Farmers' Elevator company in Sterling, receiving 72 cents a bushel for it. The price of this new corn is having a tendency to rush it to market, and is also causing farmers to doubt the advisability of feeding this winter.

Pierson Will Speak to Moose on Thursday

J. Willis Pierson, junior past supreme dictator of the Loyal Order of Moose, will speak at Moose Temple, Twenty-eighth and Farnam streets, next Thursday night at 8. Mr. Pierson was judge of the supreme court of Texas before taking up his present work of promoting the interests of Mooseheart and Moosehaven, institutional features of the Loyal Order of Moose.

Motorists Asked Not to Play Spotlights on Engineers

Warning against the practice of some motorists of turning their automobile spotlights on the engineers of passing trains has been sounded by officials of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad. The practice is dangerous in the extreme, according to the officials, because it blinds the engineer and prevents him from maintaining a proper watchfulness at grade crossings.

Drillers Find Coal Trace at Tekamah

Search for Oil Reveals Further Indications of Lignite as Farmer Predicted.

Tekamah, Neb., Nov. 10.—Further evidences of coal were found last week four miles southwest of Tekamah on the Otto Mattson farm when a second ledge or strata of coal was found at 350 feet by drillers who are prospecting for oil. Some months ago coal was struck at a depth of 136 feet which was several feet in thickness, samples of which were pronounced good by coal dealers. The presence of coal was thought to be only light and considered unimportant, but the second find gives color to the possibility of opening up a deposit of some proportions.

Samples of the coal were examined by Professor Condra of the state university who pronounced "the coal similar to that found in Wyoming. The drilling was through hard rock which broke the drill once, and operations had to be started in a fresh hole.

An interesting feature in connection with the drilling is that Mr. Mattson figured out in advance that the two veins of coal would be located; his schedule called for one ledge at between 135 and 150 feet below the surface and the second at 320 or 350. The drilling is for oil and this is expected to be found near 450 feet.

City Manager Says Business Rule Best

N. A. Kemmish, city manager of Alliance, Neb., visited Omaha friends yesterday, en route to Washington, D. C., to attend a national meeting of city managers.

During his service of two and one-half years as city manager at Alliance Mr. Kemmish has achieved a record that has won more than state-wide attention. He is endeavoring to demonstrate efficiency and economy through his management of municipal affairs at Alliance.

On Saturday night he spoke at Auburn, Neb., where the adoption of the city manager plan of city government is being considered.
