Buckingham Is Proud of Playing of Nebraska Men

Head of Stockyards Watches State Team in all Games and Was Not Surprised at Saturday's Result.

"I knew they'd play great football, regardless of the result, and they did."

This was the happy comment of Everett Buckingham, general manager of the Union stockyards, one of the most ardent supporters of the University of Nebraska football team.

"Moreover, the Cornhuskers will continue to play good football," continued Mr. Buckingham.

"Of course, I am one of those supporters who would be for the team even if it lost every game."

Follows State Team. Mr. Buckingham wherever the Nebraska team goes.

Mr. Buckingham whenever the Nebraska team goes. He went to Syracuse with the great 1922 eleven, and was at Columbia when they played their contest with the Missouri Tigers this year.

"Watching Nebraska play football is my principal diversion. I don't waste any time at other amusements. And I firmly believe that by following the Nebraska team year after year I see as good football as is played any place in the United States."

Mr. Buckingham is of the opinion that Nebraska should get plenty of recognition when all-American jobs are handed out by the experts.

For example, take Nebraska's center. He wasn't very big, but he played the Notre Dame center off his feet. And those ends! And the rest of that line! And those fast, plunging backs!
