

Midnight Dash to Start Suit of Dying Man

Lawyer Wins in Race Against Death to Legalize Damage Suit for Children.

A midnight dash about the city to save $50,000 featured filing of a suit in district court at 11:30 Tuesday night. It was a race with death, in which death lost.

Richard Kenney, 53, 2707 South Seventeenth street, lay in Lord Lister hospital. He was probably fatally injured by a cave-in at a sewer job on which he was working at Seventeenth and Farnam streets, Monday. Physicians say his spinal cord is nearly severed.

Now, under the law, if he should die before the suit was filed and service obtained on the defendants, he would have no cause of action, being no longer living. If the suit was filed and service obtained before he died, the cause of action would descend to his survivors who are three sons, Robert, Clarence and Frank.

Tuesday night when physicians said he could not live, his attorney, Joseph Lovely, hastily drew up the petitions for $50,000 damages against Albert Hanson and Hans Willadsen, the contractors.

Lawyer Speeds Action.

In an automobile he drove to the home of Asel Steere, jr., clerk of the district court, roused him and drove with him to the courthouse where the suit was duly filed. Then they drove to the home of Chief Deputy Sheriff Foster, who made out the summons, at the hospital, it was found that Kenney had lapsed into unconsciousness but, as he had already given instructions to file the suit, his attorney signed for him.

Then Mr. Lovely and the deputy sheriff drove to the home of Mr. Hanson, 3513 Sherman avenue. After some time, he was roused from slumber and came down.

Summons Legally Served.

"You have been sued for $50,000 by Richard Kenney," said Deputy Foster. And that summons was legally served.

At the home of Hans Willadsen, 2655 North Eighteenth street, the same procedure was gone through and the suit was legally filed.

Wallace Plans to Boost Wheat

Considers Body to Restore Farm Purchasing Power by Withdrawing Surpluses.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—An agricultural expert committee designed to restore farm purchasing power by withdrawing exportable surpluses from the domestic markets, "is receiving the very careful consideration of the Department of Agriculture," Secretary Henry C. Wallace said today in an address before the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Such a commission as he advocates would relieve the wheat farmers and in conjunction with the tariff would bring about a rise in price in the domestic market.

He made it clear, however, that price-fixing must be avoided and warned that government interference with the elements of supply and demand would hamper readjustments.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—The production committee of the wheat council of the United States at the close of a two-day meeting here last night made public a report embodying its idea of a national program for the solution of the wheat problem.

Decreased acreage, the growing of alternative crops on acreage formerly used for wheat, the increasing of domestic wheat consumption, assembling of reliable figures on cost of production in various sections, and a program extending over a long period of years were some of the recommendations made.

As a means of accomplishing the program, the committee headed by Sydney Anderson, president of the wheat council recommended that the council call a conference by states or regions of the leading representatives of all interests for the discussion of the state or regional programs to be co-ordinated with the national program.

Present wheat acreage, the committee's report said, should be reduced from 62,900,000 planted acres to 59,000,000 acres, this being made as fast as alternative crops can be provided. Sufficient wheat can be grown on 59,000,000 acres, the committee said, to care for all domestic needs, feed, food and seed. Readjustment of crops can better be made in the humid areas, the committee decided.

A return to prewar domestic consumption of wheat, the committee said, would absorb about 30,000,000 bushels of wheat over present domestic requirements and the committee recommended that a campaign to increase consumption be encouraged.

A reduction and standardization of the several hundred varieties of wheat grown in the United States to only those varieties best adapted to the regions and producing the best, was advocated, the committee recommending the naming of special committees to work with agencies already created in various wheat-growing sections to determine varieties to be grown and standardize them.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Michigan farmers in a few seasons by following the advice of the Michigan Agricultural college to raise one variety of grain have made extra profits which alone would reproduce the entire college plant. E. B. Hill, assistant dean of the college, declared at the closing session yesterday of the meeting of members of government boards and regents of state universities and colleges.

Woman Is Slain on School Roof

Brutal Murder Baffles Police —Body Hurlled 40 Feet to Ground.

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 14.—A veil of mystery last night shrouded the slaying of Mrs. George Boudreau, 42, Elkhardt, Ind., who was battered to death and hurled from the roof of a school building, authorities believe, after she was attacked early yesterday morning. Her mutilated body was found in the school yard by a caretaker.

Dragged more than 50 feet by her assailant, from a sidewalk while walking home from a dance hall where she was employed, Mrs. Boudreau evidently fought frantically to save herself, investigators stated. A single clasp—a man's cuff button, with no initials to identify the owner—was left by the slayer.

Investigation of the crime proceeded with no definite trail to follow, authorities said. An unidentified man who was said by police to have been seen in the dance hall last night, who Mrs. Boudreau refused to dance with is under suspicion, it was stated.

The theory that Mrs. Boudreau was carried to the roof of the building on a stairway leading to it on the outside and that she leaped from it to escape further attacks from her assailant also is being probed by the police. Her eye glasses and a hair net were found on the roof, which covers an addition to the main Mon-

Music Moves New Orleans Pop Parlor Proprietor—Now He's Sorry.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 14.—While prohibition agents today were checking up the results of the raids conducted here yesterday, "Izzy" Einstein, nationally known prohibition agent, whose stay here for more than two weeks culminated in evidence and information responsible for the issuance of 45 search warrants for the raids, told his experiences.

Acting under orders from E. C. Feltowley, chief of the general prohibition agents, Einstein and Peter Reagan of New York, a former pugilist, who assisted him, quietly slipped into New Orleans after they had spent three weeks in Mobile, registered at a local hotel under assumed names and set about their work.

A Buck and Wing.

As longshoremen, "Izzy" and Reagan early one morning last week wandered into a soft drink establishment on Royal street, Einstein said, and called for two glasses of beer. The bartender advised them not to drink beer at that hour of the day but to take whisky instead.

"All right, then, given us two glasses of whisky," Izzy said.

The liquor was forthcoming and after chattering for a while the two prohibition agents walked out with the evidence. The place was raided yesterday "Izzy" said.

At one of the cabarets "Izzy" took a harmonica from his pocket and struck up a jazz tune while Reagan performed a buck and wing dance. Immediately drinks were served to everybody in the place, "Izzy" said. But Einstein, instead of drinking, poured the evidence through a specially made funnel and tube connecting with a bottle he carried in an inside pocket.

Mobile, Nov. 14.—The prohibition raids here by federal officers that resulted in issuance of 85 warrants charging various offenses in connection with the violations of the national prohibition amendment ranged from bribery of officials to the selling of prohibited liquors. The officers report that in these various raids they seized as much as 500 cases of imported whiskies, wines, brandies and cordials to a three-ounce bottle of white whisky known as "white lightning."
