A movie war that affected a score of Nebraska towns was settled by the United States supreme court in yesterday. Dana Van Deusen of Omaha, as attorney for Charles Z. Binderup of Minden, Neb. scored in the ruling that a corpora tion operating branches over the country is engaged in interstate con merce. Mr. Binderup now will have the opportunity of returning to dis trict court in Omaha to fix before a the exact amount of his damages from all the big motion picture producers in the country.

Months ago Mr. Binderup brought suit for $750,000 against motion pic ture producers in Omaha federal dis trict court, charging that through the local organization known as the Omaha Film Board of Trade, they had conspired to boycott him and refused to send him pictures to show in the 28 picture theaters which he operates over Nebraska. The cas was tried by Judge Woodrough, who directed a verdict in favor of the producers, on the ground that he zation, and that therefore there was Los Angeles. merce law.

The case met the same fate when carried to the circuit court of appeals. Finally it was taken to the supreme court in Washington. The case was filed October 4. The film producers were represented by William M. Seabury of New York city and Arthur Mullen of Omaha. Yesterday the supreme court reversed the decisions of the lower courts when it decided that dealing through branch agents who sold to the con sumer in the same state did not disprove that they were carrying on inerstate commerce, although the branches were carrying on state com

"The importance of this decision so far as I can determine from the unofficial opinion I have seen, is that the business of a nation-wide concern which deals with persons in commerce, even though by transfer ring the product from branch agency 'consumer' is not interstate." Mr. Van Dusen explained last night. "This is the first time that evaders of the Sherman antitrust bill have been brought to justice."

Something Worth Remembering

We celebrate Abraham Lincoln's birthday February 12th, but it is worth while r e member-

ing that it was just 60 years ago-N ovember 19th, 1863that Mr. Lincoln delivered his famous address at Gettysburg. From the in cidents delivery of that address we may learn that just as "the greatest men are the simplest," so simple things are often the most important. Mr. Lincoln was not expect ed to be the orator of the day. That was assigned to Edward Everett. His silver tongue had kept the heart beats of his generation going. His polished orations are piled high in the archives where the words of Ciceros and the Demosthenes of the world are preserved. Gettys-burg battlefield was to be come a national cemetery and the dedicatory services were fixed for November 19.

Invited to attend, Mr. Lincoln was informed that Mr. Everett would be the orator and that the president would be expected to formally set aside the grounds for their sacred use with a few appropriate words. Mr. Everett spoke for two hours holding his great audience in rapt attention. Mr. Lincoln spoke for a very few minutes. No one remembers the two-hour oration of Everett but all the world remembers the few minutes' talk of Lincoln. Indeed, Mr. Everett himself wrote to the president: "I should be glad if I could flatter myself that I came as near to the central idea of the occasion in my two hours as you did in two min-

"The world will little note nor long remember what we say said Lincoln. But the world has remembered what Lincoln said. It is so well re-membered that countless thousands of children and grown folks alike have committed it to memory, while its pure notes have served as an inspiration wherever there are free men or men struggling to be free. Under his great responsibility, Lincoln thought Truth. Inspired, only as right thinking can inspire, Lincoln, at Gettysburg, voiced Truth. Because it is Truth, it lives; for Truth "resist-less as the tides" is "eternal as the stars."
