The Break Postponed. Money and Cotton Up. Many Heathens Saved. Baby Oyster and Kangaroo By ARTHUR BRISBANE

The break between England and France, allies of the war days, is averted. How long will the break be postponed?

Jerre Dunne, as savage a fighter as ever lived in America, used to say, "It's easy to win a fight. When two men have been fighting awhile both want to stop. If you make up your mind not to stop the other man will quit."

They had five years of fighting in Europe, and, except France, everybody seems perfectly willing to stop. That enables France to impose conditions, and it does it.

When the news came francs and pounds jumped upward with a speed that made gamblers on the bear side dizzy. The United States stock market moved forward so lately as becomes the world's center of real money. Cotton was strong and went to new high prices. It will go higher. Buy it now if you need any.

The news is as follows: There were earthquake shocks in the southeastern part of France. There was trembling at the eastern end of the Pyrennes, where Foch's ancestors were bred. Not much harm done.

American parties and politicians are uniting to cut down income taxation, especially the heavy super-tax. Labor is as much interested in this, perhaps, as capital. Excessive taxation drives capital into securities that pay no tax, and discourages enterprises that would employ new labor.

The Methodist Episcopal church, through its missionaries, has converted 1,769,091 heathens—if you can call the people of India heathens.

In Africa, it is hard persuading the heathen gentlemen to give up their collection of wives. If they insist on being polygamists, they can't be Christians. But some give up the extra wives, especially if they are a little old.

Scientists have discovered a way to produce "seed" oysters artificially. The first 10,000 artificial baby oysters have been planted. That may mean adding billions of dollars worth to the world's food supply.

A baby kangaroo born in the Chicago zoo, is an inch long, about as wide as a lead pencil, and weighed nine grains. Once born, it climbs into its mother's pouch and stays there seven months, while its hind legs grow strong.

A giant grizzly bear has a baby smaller than a kitten. Nature is hard on women. But science will fix that one of these days.

They have taken down the gates of Tutankhamen's tomb and soon his shrunken cheeks will be disturbed in their rest of 3,500 years.

Here in America, the bones of 12 human beings, early settlers, and Indians, dug up by laborers, would have been thrown into a potter's field trench. But local official says "they are too respectable for that," and buries them in a regular cemetery. We recognize class distinction, even in dried bones. There isn't any real democracy yet.

William Pastorio is in jail for throwing a cat out of the window, and the supreme court says it is unconstitutional to pass a law that would prevent driving thousands of young children into mills and factories. Write that on your tablets. We can protect cats, not children.

Charles F. Murphy, who demands a wet plank in the democratic platform for 1924, "was firing a shot at McAdoo's ambition," according to political reporters. McAdoo will welcome such shooting. Before 1924 ends each candidate will be trying to prove himself dryer than the others.

Several people were killed by bootleg whisky in Philadelphia on Sunday. This will give Governor Pinchot a chance to preach another sermon on prohibition to Mr. Coolidge and give Mr. Coolidge a chance to ask Pinchot why he doesn't clean house in Philadelphia.

America's doctors distributed 1,400,000 gallons of whisky on "prescription" last year. That's about one drink for every man, woman and child, in this country. That sounds like prohibition, but how much did bootleggers distribute?

Tens of thousands of doctors have been turned loose with fraudulent medical diplomas. Thousands of others, with regular diplomas, know little or nothing about disease and its cures. Every doctor once in so often should be asked to prove that he knows the difference between scarlet fever and appendicitis. That would protect real doctors and the public.

Dr. Mayo Says Doctor Can Tell Within Year When Anyone Will Die

Lima, O., Nov. 20.—By careful living a normal man can add at least 10 years to his life, Dr. Charles Mayo, famed surgeon of Rochester, Minn., declared in an address here to physicians, surgeons and dentists from all parts of northwestern Ohio, who came here to attend a clinic of the Allen County Academy of Medicine.

Dr. Mayo declared that a physical examination of most men would disclose within a year or two just when they will die and what will cause their death, provided they do not change their habits or meet with accident.

He declared the way to attain the extra years of life is to be examined at least once a year by a competent physician and follow his advice.

Farmers' Head Has Faith in Nation's Chief

President of National Union Tells Convention Coolidge Is Eager for Facts on Farming.

"Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States is on the job, don't worry about that."

So declared Charles S. Barrett, president of the National Farmers union, in annual convention at Hotel Castle Tuesday. President Barrett, addressing the convention, told of President Coolidge's eagerness to get the facts on the farm situation.

"The president asked me every intelligent question it would be possible to ask," declared President Barrett. "He also asked me to bring him the program we decide on at this convention."

"Among his questions were whether or not I favor government guarantee on the price of wheat. I told him that ordinarily I did not, but under present circumstances I did."

All States Represented.

More than 100 delegates and visitors, representing practically every state in the union, were on hand at the meeting at the Hotel Castle this morning. Mayor Dahlman and C. J. Osborn, president of the Nebraska Farmers union and a director of the National Farmers union, gave address of welcome.

W. C. Lansdon of Salina, Kan., national lecturer for the union, responded.

"American farmers," said Mr. Lansdon, "should be the wisest in the world. No one gets more advice than the American farmer. Everyone seems to have the privilege of telling us what our products are worth and we are also told what the necessities of life which we must buy are worth."

"We raise plenty of wheat, cotton, tobacco and vegetables. What we must do is go home and raise more hell."

In the course of his talk, President Barrett declared that "the powers that be know that the Farmers' union has more power to speak for the American farmer than any other body."

What Pooling Up.

The question of wheat pooling was anticipated by the Lowden committee with which Aaron Sapiro is counsel. It is likely to be one of the most heatedly discussed questions of the convention, which is to last three days.

The convention opened this morning with a musical program and an invocation by Rev. Frank G. Smith, Governor Bryan was to be guest of the union's officers and directors at a luncheon this noon and was to speak this afternoon.

At 3:30 the delegates and friends are to tour the city under auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. At 6:30 tonight there will be motion pictures of the Nebraska Farmers' union activities.

Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania is to be with the farmers today.

Boys Finds Gems; Get $1,000.

Huntington, N. Y., Nov. 20.—A rusty tin can picked up by two boys playing on Huntington Bay beach yesterday was found to contain $1,000 in jewels which were stolen from the room of Henry C. Wilcox, vice president of the American Surety company of New York in the Huntington Day club two months ago.

Mr. Wilcox rewarded the boys with $1,000.

Miraflores in Tow.

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 20.—The steamer Miraflores reported in a leaking condition 500 miles off the Georgia coast, was in tow of the steamer Royal Star last night, bound for Norfolk, according to radio advice reaching the coast guard cutter Yamacraw.

"Granddaddy" of Farmers' Union Attending Convention in Omaha

Began Career by Devising Way to Drive Hornets From Nest Without Getting Stung.

When A. J. Dornblazer, 82, "granddaddy" of the Farmers' Co-operative union in Nebraska and elsewhere, was a small boy on an Indiana farm, he invented a way to drive out yellow hornets without getting stung.

He threw some corn on the nest and turned the hogs loose. The hogs came dashing in and trampled the nest. The hornets stung their hardest, but they only lost their stings without making any impression on the porkers' thick hides. And the small boy lay safe behind a boulder and rolled with laughter.

Develops Genius.

Since that time Mr. Dornblazer has devoted his inventive genius to trying to show the farmers how they can get rid of their troubles without anyone's getting stung—except, maybe, the hornets.

Mr. Dornblazer's ingenuity had a chance to develop itself when, with one other man, he drove a herd of 122 fine Merino buck sheep from Terra Haute, Ind., to Texas, starting in 1852. The drive lasted three years. He was not quite 14 when he left Terra Haute, and he was more than 18 when he next saw his home.

Mr. Dornblazer is the only man now living who took part in forming the first Farmers' Co-operative union, on September 2, 1902, in a blacksmith shop at Point Texas, Raines county, Texas. The little group of farmers organized their union while the blacksmith was sharpening their plows.

Came North in 1911.

In April, 1911, Mr. Dornblazer came north to organize the state of Nebraska for the farmers' union. He installed Liberty local, No. 1, May 29, 1911, three miles from Brunsvick.

Grace Methodist church. Mayor Dahlman gave an address of welcome, followed by S. S. Carlisle, president of the Omaha Grain exchange, J. S. Canaday, president of the state elevator association, and M. L. Crandell, president of the state managers' association, responded to the addresses of welcome.

No definite action was taken at the first meeting on disposing of the present crop of corn. Several of the delegates expressed a desire to have the matter thoroughly discussed outside the assembly room before any action should be mentioned to the delegates as a body.

Police Station Has 15 Bow-Wows Taken to Jail With Owner Dog Show All Its Own

Central police station had a dog show of its own Tuesday.

Fifteen bow-wows, including a couple of German police dogs, and some English bulls, were brought to the station, with the arrest of Muriel E. Woolery, 5536 Walnut street, charged with the theft of a Boston bull, "Ginger," from Yarnie L. Armstrong, 3570 Leavenworth street.

Woolery was arrested after he tried to sell Armstrong his own dog. The animal belong to Armstrong's son, George Edward Armstrong, 3, he told police.

Ginger is now the proud possessor of seven puppies, born after she was stolen.

Police rounded up the other dogs they found at the Woolery home for investigation as to their ownership.

Allied Harmony Seems Assured

French and Belgian Cabinets Agree to Compromise on German Note.

Paris, Nov. 20.—The meeting of the council of ambassadors called for 5 o'clock this afternoon will not be held, it was announced shortly after 4 p. m. Lord Crewe, the British ambassador, notified the secretaries that his government, owing to stress of business, was unable to communicate his instructions in time for today's meeting.

The instructions are expected to arrive in time for a meeting tomorrow.

By Associated Press. Paris, Nov. 20.—After six days of negotiations, four meetings and five adjournments, the ambassadors' council has hit on a compromise formula for dealing with Germany which postpones at least a break in the allied front.

The feeling here today was just as optimistic as it was pessimistic yesterday, for the agreement to send a note to Germany has been fully endorsed by the French and Belgian cabinets and, judging from the tone of London, will be endorsed by the British.

It was believed here this morning that the agreement on the proposed note in which the allies will demand that their military control officers shall be allowed to function under adequate protection, would be completed before the end of the afternoon.

By Associated Press. Berlin, Nov. 20.—With regard to reports of the impending conclusion of an Anglo-American loan to Germany, the Boersen-Courier says today that negotiations are in progress between a well known Berlin bank and a group of American, British and Dutch financiers for a credit to Germany of 1,400,000,000 gold marks.

The granting of this credit, says the newspaper, is dependent upon the conditions that there be no change in the internal political situation in Germany and that the offer be made only to the Stresemann government.

The guarantee for the loan is to be assumed by the German government rather than by private industry, continues the paper, adding that international capital probably would be invested in the gold note bank which it is proposed to establish.

By Associated Press. Munich, Nov. 20.—Adolph Hitler, leader of the Bavarian fascists, is reported to be critically ill in the fortress at Landsberg. He is suffering from brain fever.

Recent Munich dispatches reported that Hitler, who was one of the leaders of the separatist revolt, has been interned in the Landsberg fortress. Hitler was placed under special guard—veteran sergeants selected for their powers of resistance to Hitler's magnetic personality.

By Associated Press. Dusseldorf, Nov. 20.—The German police arrested two communist leaders, Fischer and Werhner. The criminal police report that they found large quantities of modern firearms in the homes of the two men.

REEL REMARKS

By the M. P. Editor.

Constance Talmadge is planning "Alias Nora O'Brien."

Joseph Hergeshimer's "Cythera" will be filmed by Samuel Goldwyn, probably in New York and Havana, Cuba.

Mrs. Jackie Coogan left for Los Angeles recently with options on several stories, one of which will be selected in which to star Jackie, following the making of "A Boy of Flanders."

Will H. Hays is back. Says that American pictures are getting 90 per cent of British trade. Great move for world peace, he declares. That line is about as useful nowadays as George M. Cohan found waving the American flag for the finale.

Ernest Torrence, after playing Bill Jackson, the guide in "The Covered Wagon" and Cousin Egbert in "Rutledge of Red Gap," will be Adrian Plummer, the minister, in "West of the Water Tower."

Associated First National buys a full page in a magazine and declares that a sign, "Press Agents Are Not Wanted," is hung outside its esteemed studios. There's about 13 typewriter bounds out there that the company must not know are working.

It's part of the fun to have the heroine old now. Norma Talmadge's newest one, "Secrets," has her as a woman of 73 years, and Corine Griffith in Gertrude Atherton's, "Black Oxen," which has been running in The Bee, plays Madame Zettany as a woman of 68 with rejuvenated youth.

The public, through theater owners, is going to have a voice in picking the cast to play with Barbara La Marr in "The Shooting of Dan McGrew." Slides and voting blanks are being mailed to exhibitors and a voting contest will be held. Inasmuch as Barbara has just purchased an airplane, vote quick, before she has any accidents.

What color was Paul Revere's horse? D. W. Griffith wants to know, for he is making a film, "America," under the sponsorship of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Also D. W. wants to know what sort of wagons the revolutionary army used.
