Service Game Receives Due Criticism

Academies Claim Management of Polo Ground Responsible for Prices of Tickets.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

New York, Nov. 22.—With the expected and almost coincidental arrival of the Army and Navy football teams in New York tomorrow morning, certain individuals, with a complex for whispering behind the hand, have begun to transact business in the hotel lobbies. Somehow, somewhere, tickets for the spectacle have fallen into the hands of speculators and many citizens will either play double or triple the box office price for the privilege of sitting in at the game, or they won't sit in at all.

For which state of affairs they can blame their own natural curiosity. It is curiosity that annually brings thousands of neutrals for the Army and Navy game. This year, the seats number 65,000 and the applications some 300,000. It is the law of supply and demand, as ancient as sin itself.

The demand in this case is not altogether comprehensible. Army and Navy football games, all tooo often, fall below the standard of play achieved in the Big Three series and week after week in the western conference meetings, to say nothing of those played among some of the leaders on the west coast.

Tickets High Priced.

In addition it might be mentioned that in connection with the impassioned squawk from both academies over allegedp rofiteering at local theatery on the night of the game, Army and Navy tickets are hardly moderate in cost. Some 7,000 were placed on sale to a privileged few here at a cost of $4 for seats in the stands and $25 for field boxes. This scale is the highest of the present year, or any other.

The service academies contend, of course, that prices for these particular seats is regulated by the Polo grounds management. Just why this should be so is not made clear. The game belongs to the Army and Navy and not the Polo ground management.

Academies Silent on Profit.

Further, the need for excessive prices would seem to be obviated by the fact that the expense of all service athletes is covered by congressional appropriation and the vast sum taken in at the gate, therefore, is just so much "velvet." Until recent years, public announcement usually was made that the net profits went to service charities. The academies have been strangely silent on this point during the last two seasons.

Stars Who Will Pilot Rival Teams in Annual Battle

The annual battle between the two service teams will be fought on the historic Polo grounds Saturday. While neither team has a championship organization, both are strong. The Navy was defeated by Penn State and held to a tie by Princeton. The Army was licked by Notre Dame and Yale. Particular interest is attached to this year's battle because the respective captains, Carney of Navy, pictured at the left, and Mulligan of the Army, at the right, played on the same high school team in New York some years ago. Saturday's game will be the 26th battle the two teams have engaged in.

Michigan to Have Four Subs in Game

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 22.—Four University of Michigan substitute football players who sat on the sidelines at the start of the gridiron season, knowing that there would be but small chance of becoming regulars this season, will start in Saturday's game against the Minnesota eleven in that capacity.

Tod Rockwell received his opportunity to catch a flyer to fame in the Wisconsin game last Saturday, when the quarterback dashed off a 65-yard run for the winning touchdown. Against the Gophers he again will call signals and act in the capacity of field director, formerly held by Irwin Uteritz, stellar quarterback, injured in the marine game.

Favorable reports are emanating from behind the closed gates at Ferry field, where the coaches are grooming George Brown for the pivotal position held by Jack Blott, who sustained a broken leg in the Badger game, and the youngster will toss the ball from the center position.

The other two men are Vick, fullback, and Babcock, tackle. Both men received their chance when injuries forced Miller and Vandervoort to relinquish their positions.

Kearney in Hard Game Today

Kearney, Neb., Nov. 22.—Kearney high is all set for what they consider the hardest football game of the season, when they meet Gothenburg high here on Friday. Easterling, all-state quarterback, will be back in the game in good shape, having fully recovered from his recent injuries. The Swedes have been making an exceptional showing this season and they have an old score to settle with Kearney, having been defeated last year.

Knox Announces Grid Card

Galesburg, Ill., Nov. 22.—Nine games are listed on the tentative Knox college football schedule for 1924, it was announced today by Athletic Director John Van Liew. Siwash will not play Iowa university.

The schedule follows:
September 27, Northwestern, here.
October 4, Augustana, here.
October 11, Milliken, Decatur.
October 18, Coe, here.
October 25, Beloit, here.
November 1, Bradley or Carleton.
November 8, open.
November 15, Lombard.
November 27, Monmouth.

Army Star to Play in Game

By International News Service.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Reports that George Smythe, star quarterback, would be unable to play against the Navy on Saturday, were given the lie yesterday when it was said semi-officially that he would run the team through its paces either in the practice today or the final workout here tomorrow. Smythe was injured two weeks ago and has done little else but jog around the field this week.

Yale, Dartmouth to Play

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 22.—Dartmouth and Yale will meet in football in 1924 season, the Dartmouth athletic council has announced. The last time the two colelges clashed on the gridiron was in 1909.

Morrill Disputes Crawford Claim

L. O. McHenry of Morrill, Neb., has come to bat for the Morrill High school football team, one of the seven undefeated high elevens of the state. McHenry claims that Morrill should be declared champions of western Nebraska, not Crawford high.

In a letter to The Omaha Bee, Mc Henry bases his claim to the western title as follows:

First: Crawford is the only second team in western Nebraska which Chappell has played this season, and therefore Chappell is not a contender in any sense of the word.

Second: Crawford does not have an undisputed claim to the championship as Morrill has filed a claim for it, and in addition has challenged the Crawford eleven for a game to be played on neutral grounds, if necessary. This challenge thus far has been ignored and Crawford has refused to play.

Third: Morrill is undefeated and forever victorious both in the state and out of the state, while Crawford has been defeated by an outstate team. More than this, Morrill's goal line has not been crossed by any team this season and it has scored a total of 163 points to its opponents' three.

Maroons Show Well in 20 Years of Play

Chicago, Nov. 22.—In 20 years of football, out of 172 games played with western conference schools, Chicago won 110 games, lost 50 and tied 12, according to a table made public today by the athletic department at the university. The record for the years 1892 to 1922, inclusive, excepting only 1918, during the war, when the students' army training corps engaged in training students and the conference schedule was suspended, follows:

	Won		Won	Tied
Chicago	22	Northw'n	6	4
Chicago	23	Purdue	1	3
Chicago	17	Illinois	7	3
Chicago	12	Wisconsin	11	3
Chicago	6	Michigan	10	0
Chicago	14	Indiana	1	0
Chicago	5	Minnesota	9	1
Chicago	9	Iowa	1	2
Chicago	1	Ohio	2	0

Such games as were played in 1918 were subject to War department orders and not counted as conference games, the announcement stated.

Play Game at Night

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 22.—A game of football played by the light of incandescent searchlight projectors, said to be the first athletic contest ever staged under these conditions, was played last night on the grounds of the General Electric company here. A crowd of 8,000 persons watched the General Electric Engineers and Tufts college second team battle to a 0 to 0 tie through four regulation 15-minute periods.

Just a Word or Two

By FRED S. HUNTER.

FROM the learned sportologists of the Associated Press comes an extensive discourse on the Yale-Harvard contest in which predominates speculation on the "mental hazards" and "psychological uncertainty" which Yale will have to overcome.

What is it, may we inquire, that Harvard and Yale are to play Saturday, football or auction bridge?

Ah, Kid Alibi Himself.

Now that they have reached the comforting plains of the Argentine, the frantic bull of the pampas, Mr. Luis Angel Firpo, and his sugar tongued, genuflecting aide and confidante, Mr. Horatio Lavelle, are emitting a series of shrill Castillian squawks about the abuse Luis was submitted to in Mr. Rickard's Polo grounds ring last September. It would seem that since he has arrived home Luis Angel has suddenly acquired a good idea of one of the fundamentals of the ring game as it is practised in the United States.

Possibly it is of no interest to you, but Notre Dame is still the west's leader in points scored, with 236. Cornell holds honors for the major colleges of the whole country, with 366.

Personally, our only objection to the hospital reports from Lincoln is that they aren't gloomy enough. We refuse to be satisfied until a dispatch announces that Coach Dawson fears he won't have 11 men physically able to hobble onto the field.

Syracuse is stealing Nebraska's stuff. From the Salt city comes the news that Zimmerman, star kicker, probably won't be able to play. Of course, there is no significance attached to the fact that Zimmerman was among those boarding the train.

When Easy Money Is Hard.

The following is a bit of gratuitous advice given to the cauliflower industry in general by W. O. McGeehan, sporting editor of the New York Herald, in a recent issue of that publication. It may interest you:

The easiest money is in New York, Mr. Joseph Jacobs and Mr. Michael McTigue discovered this while sojourning in Georgia under the chaperonage of the Ku Klux Klan at the time Mr. McTigue was matched to fight Young Stribling, the child heavyweight of Georgia. Messrs. Jacobs and McTigue were given all the attentions and courtesies extended by the Georgians to visitors, including the privilege of selecting the trees upon which they wished to be lynched. Both Mr. Jacobs and Mr. McTigue waived their rights to the hanging. Mr. Harry Ertle, who accompanied them as referee, gave one decision while running to catch his train, another while lying over at Atlanta, and a third when he was safe on the northern side of the Mason and Dixon line.

The other night William Brennan, who was used in the role of a guinea pig for Luis Angel Firpo to experiment with his right, forgetting what happened to Messrs. Jacobs, McTigue and Ertle, left this paradise of the cauliflowers to box Billy Miske at Omaha, Neb. Mr. Brennan was knocked into his normal horizontal position in the fourth round and went to the box office immediately upon rising to collect his money.

When William arrived at the box office it was in the same condition as the cupboard of the late Mother Hubbard—entirely denuded of gate receipts. William was told that his money had been held up because the authorities did not believe that he extended his best efforts to remain in a vertical position. They hinted the money would be turned over to some charity which was deemed more worthy than William, though William thinks he, personally, is the most deserving charity in the United States.

Last other representatives of the cauliflower industry should fall into the same error that took Mike McTigue and Bill Brennan away from the jurisdiction of the duke of Muldoon, this writer can testify that there is no place as easy, pugilistically speaking, as New York city. The belief that the inmates of the sticks are easily satisfied is a popular delusion with some of the fighters and fight managers who have not penetrated those vast regions west of the Hudson.

They are much harder to please away from New York than in this guileless city. In fact there are some towns where they are half inclined to the belief that General Bonaparte stuck out his chin on purpose at Waterloo and that there was something blooey about the battle of Gettysburg. The farther west the barnstorming pugilists travel the more they are inclined to discover that the customers are contented only with a double homicide.

Contrast the experience of the pugilists out of town with that of the pugilists in New York city. From points distant one frequently hears of fighters being tossed out of the ring for failing to try to commit murder and mayhem. At the current writing I cannot recall two New York fighters being thrown out of the ring for stalling since Referee Billy Roche walked out of Madison Square garden while Chip and Clabby were doing the "Blue Danube Waltz" without music.

Charity to cauliflower ears begins in New York city, and it might be added that it ends in the same place.

Millard Sportsmen to Hold Big Trap Shoot

Omaha nimrods are invited to attend a big trap shoot to be held next Wednesday at the Fred Reimers place in the northeast edge of Millard.

There will be plenty of birds for everybody. Here is a chance to procure your turkey, goose, or duck for Thanksgiving. There will be several special events on the program. The shooting will start at 10 in the morning.

Midland College to Play Peru Today

Fremont, Neb., Nov. 22.—With Coach Speer ill from an attack of grip, the Midland team in the hands of Captain Elliott and Lawrence Horn, quarterback and last year's captain, is preparing for its crucial test of the season this week when the Lutherans go to Peru.

The Midland mentor contracted a severe cold that developed into grip. Tuesday he was forced to go to bed and it is doubtful whether he will be able to resume workouts with the team before the departure for Peru Thursday afternoon.

The contest at Peru promises to hold the hardest battle of the year for Midland. The Normalites are headed toward a claim for the championship and a victory over Midland added to the already spotless record, will put Coach Graf's men in a position to decide the championship with either Wesleyan or Hastings. The latter two teams, both with clean slates, will clash on Thanksgiving.

Handicapped by the absence of their coach, the Midlanders are going through their rehearsals for the Peru game with inexperienced hands at the helm. A pall of gloom has settled over the Midland camp as a result of Coach Speer's illness, and hopes for a victory this week at Peru are beginning to fade. Only light scrimmage work will be held to avoid the danger of injuries to the team. After two games last week, victories over Tabor and Cotner, the Midland gridsters are in fairly good condition. Captain Elliott and Horn have assumed the job of keeping the men on edge for the Peru game and intensive workouts on Peru formations will be carefully administered.

Schlaifer to Meet Kid Herman Tonight

Morrie Schlaifer of Omaha fights Tillie (Kid) Herman in a Chicago ring tonight.

Schlaifer was accompanied to Chicago by his trainer, Billy Uvick.

Omaha fans expect Schlaifer to beat Herman. Herman is a light hitter and only an average boxer, although fairly nifty at the footwork, by which means he may attempt to keep Schlaifer away.

Hawaiian Team Consists of Various Races

Claremont, Cal., Nov. 22.—The University of Hawaii football team, which has arrived in San Francisco from Honolulu, to play Pomona college on Thanksgiving day, is expected here, where Pomona is situated, to show some flashy playing. The Hawaiians have not been defeated this season and have rolled up 180 points against their opponents' 27.

Coach Otto Klum has brought a picturesquely international squad of 18, including, besides the Americans, two Hawaiian-Americans, one Hawaiian, one Chinese, a negro, a Japanese and a Portuguese.

Austrian Holds Cue Lead.

Detroit, Nov. 22.—Jean Bruno of Austria, with three victories and no defeats, holds first place today in the international junior balk line billiard championship play here. Bruno gained his position through his victory over Albert J. Cutler of New York last night.

Today's play will bring together Al Taylor of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Kinrey Matsuyama of San Francisco in the first afternoon game, while Bruno will play Ary Bos of Holland in the second game.

Flip of Coin Gives Players Trip to Detroit University

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 22.—The flip of a coin gave three Gonaga players a trip to Detroit and disappointed three others yesterday. When Coach Borais chose his team to oppose Detroit university, he was unable to make a choice between Gray and Frazier, ends; Keyes and Lynch halfbacks, and Sweeney and Hedges, quarters. In his office the men flipped a coin to decide. Gray, Keyes and Sweeney won.

Syracuse Star Injured in Final Scrimmage

Zimmerman, Halfback, May Be Unable to Appear Against Huskers.

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 22.—In the final scrimmage workout of the Syracuse varsity football team yesterday afternoon, Gifford Zimmerman, star halfback and center, was injured so seriously that he will probably be unable to play Saturday against Nebraska. Meehan took him along on the special train last night in hopes that Trainor Charley Porter can doctor him up in the three remaining days before the game.

Zimmerman was carrying the ball around the end when he was tackled by a member of the freshman team. He was unable to rise, because of an injured right knee, and was carried off the field. By the time the train left, several hours later, he was able to walk, but with a limp.

Foley May Substitute.

Zimmerman's knee has bothered him all seagon, as he injured it at the summer training camp. It was patched up, but he has favored it all year.

In case Zimmerman is unable to start the game, his place will be taken by Foley, considered by many, his equal. His loss will be keenly felt, as a punter, as he has done all the kicking for the Orange this season. Bowman will be called upon to take his place in this department.

Damon Runyon's Column

By DAMON RUNYON.

New York, Nov. 21.—Luis Angel Firpo's announcement in Buenos Aires that he refused $200,000 to fight Harry Wills in America makes the boycotting of "The Brown Panther of New Orleans" quite unanimous among the so-called heavyweight contenders.

In view of the fact that the writer has occasionally criticized Wills for pugilistic inactivity, he feels that recent events justify a statement in behalf of the colored man.

Within the month, Tom Gibbons, one of the contenders, refused a match with Wills on terms that would have given Gibbons at least $35,000.

Within the month, Jack Renault refused a match with Wills that would have given Renault at least the same amount. It is only fair to Renault to add that his manager frankly says he does not think Renault quite ready for a match wtih either Wills or Gibbons at this time.

In other words, Renault's manager is not yet prepared to claim rating as a contender for the Canadian, a candid attitude, that can scarcely be criticized.

But Wills, through his manager, the taciturn Paddy Mullins, quietly acquiesced in proposals for matches with either Gibbons or Renault. He offered to meet Firpo time and again when the wild bull was in America.

Moreover, Wills and Mullins were willing to accept very reasonable terms for any of these matches. They interposed no conditions.

Under the circumstances, it seems to the writer that Wills is entitled to ranking, not only as the leading heavyweight contender, but as the sole contender.

The other heavyweights give Wills this ranking by refusing to meet him.

Gibbons, Firpo and Renault, admittedly the best men below Dempsey and Wills, can get almost as much money for fighting Wills as they could for fighting Dempsey.

They are perhaps all willing to fight Dempsey, arguing that a meeting with Dempsey gives them a chance at the heavyweight title. But they decline to prove their right to fight for the title by meeting Wills.

Wills must be a mighty good fighter, in the opinion of other fighters and their managers.

Wills for a long period was idle.

He refused several offers for matches that would have been quite profitable to him.

He said he would consider only one match, and that match with the heavyweight champion. His attitude caused the writer to suspect that Wills doubted his own ability. The writer now believes that Wills took this attitude only because he thought it was the surest way to a match with Dempsey.

Finally convinced that he was not to get the match, Wills announced that he would resume fighting. He has appeared in the ring twice since that announcement. The writer believes that Wills stands ready to meet any man in the world.

This belief is based on what the writer knows of offers that were recently made by Wills, of Wills' ready acceptance, of refusals by other so called contenders to have anything to do with the Brown Panther of New Orleans.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 22.—Johnny Mendelsohn, lightweight boxer, who is scheduled to meet Pal Moran here Friday, put in his last day of hard training today and announced he is ready for Charlie White's conqueror. Moran is due to arrive here tonight and will take a light workout tomorrow.

GRAND ISLAND SLIPS DOWN LADDER IN CONFERENCE RACE

GRAND ISLAND COLLEGE lost two football games last week and as a result, slipped down in the state college conference race. Coach Glen Preston's proteges administered a 27 to 3 defeat to the Zebras Saturday to follow up the drubbing handed out earlier in the week by Hastings, the conference leaders. Doane slipped into the position from which the Islanders were removed. No other changes were effected by the week's battles.

Hastings has taken a much firmer grasp on the lead in the title conquest. Six victories with no defeats are booked on the Presbyterians' slate. From now until the end of the season, when Wesleyan will be tackled, little trouble should be encountered. The last game of the season will eliminate one of the undefeated teams in the race.

Nebraska Wesleyan added two more wins to its record during the week by trouncing Cotner and Grand Island. The win over Grand Island gives an insight into the strength of the Methodists. Midland, winners of the state championship last year, fell before the attack of the Islanders. Chandron took a 3 to 0 win from Baptists, and Hastings invaded the Third City camp for a 20 to 10 victory. From a comparative score standpoint, it would appear that Wesleyan, with its 27 to 3 win over Grand Island, is the strongest team in the conference.

Peru Normal fattened its total score for the season by drubbing York college 86 to 0. Peru Normal, with four wins and one tie, is making championship assertions. The big test of the Bobcat schedule comes this week when Coach Speer takes his warriors back to tackle the eleven which he coached last year. Midland intends to spoil the titular contentions of the Normalites.

Chadron Normal has practically a straight run to an undefeated season. With Wayne and Nebraska Central yet to play, and victories over Grand Island and Kearney, Coach West's proteges should have little trouble carrying on.

York and Cotner are hopelessly at the tail end of the race. York, playing in but four games, have been scored upon more than Cotner has in seven engagements. Two drop kicks for field goals constitute the amount of scoring done this season by the Bulldogs.

State College Standings.

	G	W	L	T	Pct.	Pt.	Op.

Navy Takes Final Workout for Game

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 22.—The Annapolis Midshipmen bade a temporary adieu to Farragut field yesterday afternoon. They had finished their final workouts under home surroundings. This afternoon they "set sail" for New York, ready for the annual engagement with the rival West Point cadets on the Polo grounds Saturday afternoon.

Some of the players, due to injuries, are not in the physical trim it was hoped they would be, the coaches say. Head Coach Folwell said tonight that he would not be ready to announce the final lineup before Saturday morning.

The final practice consisted entirely of signals and a run through all formations and special plays. A brief, final workout will be held Friday afternoon. Navy's New York headquarters will be the Hotel Commodore.

Folwell's statement that the lineup probably would not be settled until Saturday occasioned considerable speculation among gridiron fans tonight. The shift in the backfield which coaches have announced almost with certainty—the placing of Shapley at fullback, in place of little Steve Barchet—seems to have won the favor of Middy followers, especially when the general balance of the team is considered, for it adds speed as well as weight.

Harvard on Short End of Betting

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 22.—Eleventh-hour opinion among the undergraduates today was that Harvard is due to put up a much harder fight against Yale on Saturday than the records of the teams would indicate, the general attitude being that the Crimson has a real chance to win. The coaches seem to feel that Yale's play against Princeton cannot be repeated at Harvard's expense and this impression has been transmitted to the students. Odds of 9 to 5 with Harvard the short choice, are being accepted avidly here.

Except for the fact that McGlone has not won the quarterback post definitely from Lee and Spaulding, the entire first string lineup has been settled. From tackle to tackle, according to local opinion, Harvard is due to outplay Yale in the big test.

London—Frank Goddard won the light heavyweight championship of Great Britain from Jack Bloomfield when the latter was disqualified in the second round of their scheduled 20-round bout.

Dawson Trying to Fill Holes Made Vacant by Injuries

Hubka Being Drilled as Center—Freshmen Use Orange Formations Against Varsity.

LINCOLN, NEB., Nov. 21.—Trying to caulk the holes left by injuries, and likewise bolster up reserve strength in case some of the injured players are unable to go the full route against Syracuse Saturday, Coach Dawson was doing considerable shifting of linesmen in the dummy scrimmage practice Wednesday evening, in which the varsity was again sent against the freshmen.

Loy Hubka, who started the season as an end candidate, being shifted to guard later and showing up mighty well in that capacity, was being drilled as a center. This will give the Huskers three pivot men, in Hutchison, who was hurt at Ames but will probably start; Wostoupal and Hubka.

John Rhods, although carrying a lame shoulder, was in his regular position at left end, but was not permitted to take any chances. McAllister was holding down the other wing. Bassett and Weir, regular tackles, were in place, while Ogden was being used at McGasson's guard position, and Berquist, regular guard, was in his position.

The freshmen were using the formations used by Syracuse against Colgate. Word that Syracuse was contemplating cutting Nebraska off of next year's schedule reacted in several different ways.

Some Husker followers disliked the attitude of the Orange, in that it was on Syracuse's invitation that Nebraska scheduled a game with the Orange originally. They felt that some notification should have been given Nebraska authorities before the information was released.

Date Announced for Harvard-Yale Boat Race

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 22.—The Yale-Harvard boat race on the Thames at New London next year will be rowed on June 20. The Harvard varsity crew schedule for 1924 announced today also calls for races against Pennsylvania and Columbia at Cambridge on May 10. On May 31, the Harvard junior varsity will compete in the American Henley regatta at Philodelphia.

It was announced that the customary Harvard, Princeton and Navy race could not be held next year, as Princeton could accept only May 9, impossible for Harvard because of divisional examinations.
