

Coach Wynne Lays No Stress on Aggie Bear Stories

Team in Last Scrimmage Practice—Depart Tonight for Stillwater.

COACH CHET WYNNE of the Creighton university football team, having heard that the Oklahoma Aggie football team is very badly crippled, continues to send the Creighton football team through hard workouts this week in preparation for Saturday's contest against the Aggies at Stillwater, Okl.

From all indications the Aggie team resembles a crutch advertisement. Reports from the Sooner state are to the effect that several stars of the Aggies are wearers of the artificial support. But Wynne, remembering cases where athletes who were supposed to be on crutches, played the best games of their career on the dates on which they were supposed to be in such hopeless condition, places no faith in such a monstrous bear story. "It may be that some of the Aggie players are in bad shape at present, but they will probably get into playing condition before the game. Somehow, they always do," stated Wynne.

Acting on his disbelief in the reports, Wynne has been sending the Creighton players through some heavy workouts. Scrimmage and the tackling dummy, which is the base of a grid star's existence, are prominent features of each night's workout. Last night the team went through the final scrimmage. Tonight the workout will be light, for at 11 p. m. the coaches, athletic director, mascot Jimmy Simones, and 22 of the players will train for the Sooner's battle-field.

Wynne spent much time last night teaching the ends to use their hands to avoid being blocked by the opponents' interference. This was the only flaw in the playing of the Hill-toppers against the Coyotes. He also sent the backs through practice at breaking up passes.

With the exception of minor injuries the team is in good condition. Captain McAleer and Johnny Bertoglio are both nursing light charley-horses. Dan Powers has a slightly injured ankle and Gayer has a bruised knee. The team will probably be lined up in its strongest possible combination when it faces the Sooners, with no first-stringer on the bench.

Giants Seek Change in Series Rules

New York, Nov. 22.—The New York Giants will ask the joint major league gathering at Chicago next month to change the world series regulations whereby expenses of the annual classic will be deducted from the gross receipts and before any division among players, advisory council or clubs is made.

This announcement was made yesterday by Secretary J. J. Tierney, who said the Giants had the support of the New York Yankees in the plan.

The suggestion is an outgrowth of the situation in 1922, when the two Gotham clubs lost money in conducting the five-game series won by the Giants. This was due chiefly to the distribution to charity by Commissioner Landis of about $120,000, the receipts of the tie game.

Competing clubs now pay the series expenses out of their respective shares. Under the proposed method, expenses would be taken out first and the remainder of the money divided on a net, instead of gross basis.

Wines for Athletes.
Paris, Nov. 22.—Light wines and beer will form part of the menu served to the Olympic athletes of nations electing to house their teams in the Olympic village being erected near the Colombes stadium.

The Americans have reserved accommodations for some of their team at the Olympic village.

Corbett Dies in Sydney.
San Francisco, Nov. 22.—W. F. Corbett, editor of the Sydney Referee and one of the best known sporting writers of the world, is dead, according to word reaching here from Sydney.

Corbett made a number of visits to the United States, the last being on the occasion of the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno.

Grid Gossip
The Wisconsin squad will invade Chicago tomorrow, and work out on the emerald lot. The Badgers are primed for the Maroon game and from the way they have improved in the last two weeks the strategic promise to be a most interesting one. Coach Ryan has made no changes in the lineup since the Michigan game.

Coach Stagg realizes the Badgers' strength and it is believed that he will go back to the old practice of alternating Thomas and Zorn to pound the Cardinal line. Abbott will probably start at quarter and King at center.

St. Louis Bowlers Lead Midwest

St. Louis, Nov. 22.—St. Louis teams scored another triumph in the Middle West Bowling association tournament when in the five-man events here last night the Wooster Lamberts and the United Bakers Supply company team, with scores of 2,902 and 2,867, respectively, vaulted into the lead in this branch of the competition.

The Vogels of Chicago, who had previously held top honors with their score of 2,848, were dropped into third place and the Mercers of Granite City, who had bowled 2,820, were left in fourth.

Wooster Lambert, manager of the new leaders and formerly a candidate for president of the American Bowling congress, piloted his team to victory from the position of lead-off man on the squad.

Joe Dundee Beats Welling.
Baltimore, Nov. 22.—Joe Dundee, Baltimore, was awarded the decision over Joe Welling, Chicago veteran, after a 12-round bout here last night. Welling floored Dundee for a count of eight in the second round but was unable to cope with his rugged young opponent after that. Dundee won 10 rounds, Welling one, and one was even. Dundee weight 138 and Welling, 137-12.

Believe It Or Not

Rex Sutton, rising young business man, has become a convert to nimrodism and can be found any Sunday in a blind on the Platte river.

Rex hasn't missed going hunting once a week since the season started. "He's killed five ducks since September 15," states a friend, "and is famous around Valley as Mr. Patience. He can sit in a blind all day without a shot and come back the next week to do it all over again."

Lloyd Smith feels that all hunters are not sportsmen. Lloyd went out to Horse Shoe lake one morning for a hunt and knocked down three ducks. The wind blew them to the opposite shore—whereby another hunter on that side of the lake picked them up, bowed, smiled his thanks and departed.

Lloyd, from now on, intends to hunt where there are fewer hunters and more sportsmen.

Coach Stagg Sets Record

Head of Maroon Eleven With School 33 Years—Team Ranks First.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—After 33 years coaching football at one spot, the University of Chicago, Amos Alonzo Stagg, 62 years old and still fighting, stands out today, in the opinion of his admirers, as the miracle man of the western conference in producing teams that lead the "big ten" with the highest average in the table of games won and lost since 1913.

Selection of 1913 as the year for compilation of the records was made, Stagg's admirers said, to clear up a controversy raging over the performances of Jack Wilce, coach at Ohio State, and Robert Zuppke, coach at the University of Illinois, whose admirers claim the highest honors for them. Both Zuppke and Wilce came into the western conference as coaches that year.

Since 1913, the Maroon teams whipped together by Stagg have crashed through opposing teams for 35 victories out of 58 starts—17 games were lost and three were tied—for a percentage of .691 compared with the records of teams developed by Wilce and Zuppke.

The Ohio eleven rank second to the Maroons with 27 victories out of 42 games, with Illinois third. The Buckeyes have won 27 games, lost 14 and were tied in one, while the Illini won 32, lost 17 and were tied in five.

To clarify reports published about big ten conference records since Coaches Zuppke and Wilce started their conference careers, the athletic department of the University of Chicago issued this statement:

Maroons Top 10-Year Percentage.
"Whether the Maroons win or lose from Wisconsin this Saturday, they will top the percentage column as the leading football team in the big ten conference since 1913, when Coach Zuppke started his career at Illinois and Coach Wilce his at Ohio State. During the past 10 seasons, excluding S. A. T. C. year, when conference rules were suspended and several of the schools disrupted and members of the teams sent to the training camps, Chicago has won 43 big ten football games, lost 17 and tied 3 and now heads the big ten football conference percentage column with .691. Ohio State, with .658, is Chicago's closest rival, while Illinois with .653 and Michigan with .599 are third and fourth respectively. Minnesota leads Wisconsin with .558 while Wisconsin is .537.

Northwestern, Purdue, and Indiana have won less than half of their games. If the Maroons win from Wisconsin Saturday, they will rank as the only team that has won more than 70 per cent of its conference games since 1913. If Illinois wins from Ohio Saturday, Illinois will rank second to Chicago and Ohio will drop to third position.

"In the last three years the Maroons have lost to two conference teams, losing to Ohio State in 1921 and to Illinois this year."

Teams Change Lineups.
By Associated Press.
New York, Nov. 22.—Last minute lineup revisions are expected to foretell the type of play the Navy will employ against the Army when the two service eleven meet in the 26th game of the thrilling series at the Polo grounds Saturday.

The middle lineup has rival candidates for several positions, with one group functioning better on offensive and another which shines in defensive play. Taylor and Brown, ends, and Barchet, fullback, are included in the former group and Caldwell and Burnett, ends, and Shapley, fullback, are included in the latter.

Because the cadets show a superior offensive record many students of football assert Navy's best plan of action will be that of defensive play. Notre Dame proved the only team to entirely check Army's offense.

Packers Prepare for Norfolk Game

Coach Patton is putting his South High gridsters through stiff practice this week in preparation for the Norfolk game this Friday.

Hard luck has again hit the team. Gilbert Kurtz, mammoth guard, suffered broken bones in his shoulder in the Council Bluffs game and will be out of the lineup the rest of the season. Snooky Wedberg, bushy regular tackle, has not reported to school this week on account of illness, and therefore will not be in the moleskins Friday. Kalstrom, regular guard, may be shifted to tackle, and S. Katzman may play guard. Coach Patton's aggregation will, therefore, start the game Friday minus the services of three regulars.

Chicago Grid Player Dies

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Joseph Blouin, 20, died in a hospital here today of injuries suffered Sunday in a neighborhood football game. He received a facial fracture of the skull in tackling an opposing player.

This game is the last one to be played out of the city by the Packers and the team is out to win it. The last game of the season will be played a week from Friday with Thomas Jefferson High of Council Bluffs on the latter's grounds.
