Trio Unmoved When Told Body of McArdle Found; Grilling for 36 Hours Fails to Change Story.

Inquest Set for Today

Without a tremor of a muscle the quiver of an eyelid, James Grifof Henry MsArdle whose body was jail at Newark, N. J. found in a burned haystack near Papilion Friday night, met the announcement yesterday that the charred body of their victim had en found and identified.

The revelation, which had been held from them for ove t24 hours. was psychologically timed to strike the suspects in their moment of weakness after they had been grilled and questioned for over 36 hours by Insist on Innocence.

Steadfastly, through the long hours of grilling, the trio had all stuck to their declaration, that although the evidence was almost conclusive. they knew nothing of the body's whereabouts. With the same stolidity, sternness of visage, hardness of eye, they greeted the declaration that McArdle's body, the one link the state needed to charge them with his murder, had been found. They say nothing but continue to assert their ignorance of the whole matter.

Washouts on Farms Take Toll of Fertility

Lincoln. Nov. 25 .- An exhaustive survey nearing completion in certain sections of Cass county by the state college of agriculture shows that the acres depleted by soil erosion run as high as 20 per cent.

In order to eliminate this condition which is cutting deeply .into the production capacity of many of the farms of the county, agricultural experts in charge of the survey are recommending the planting of more sweet clover or alfalfa and an increase in the number of livestock on farms suffering from soil erosion.
