

The Spanish and Italian consulates in Philadelphia were bombed soon after midnight yesterday morning. Scores of persons were slightly injured by flying wreckage, many buildings were injured. Because of the building attacked there is reason to suppose that foreigners caused the explosions.

Those gentlemen should apply to this country the rule so useful to England. That country has welcomed political refugees and malcontents of all sorts, refusing to give them up for any political reason. And such refugees, on English soil, have always behaved themselves well. An unwritten law says "anarchists must be careful while in Great Britain."

Those explosions may be aimed at fascisti government, now ruling Spain and Italy.

There is an education for the people, and some judges, in the excitement following a court decision that would have sent Comptroller Craig of New York to jail for 60 days, because he criticized a judicial decision highly pleasing to the street car gentlemen.

Judge Mayer, in a few hours, has learned some things that he evidently did not know-including the fact that this is a republic and that the people, usually sluggish, wake up when anybody tries to change the form of government -from the gutter, or from the bench.

There is talk of saving Mr. Craig from jail with a pardon by the president. That would be un-fortunate and Mr. Craig very likely would refuse such a pardon. What is wanted is a public apology to the public from the judge who has insulted public opinion. In the case of a judge, ignorance is not a sufficient excuse.

War, only a game to kaisers and financiers, is a serious matter to others. The Baron and Baroness others. The Baron and Baroness De Montigny had an only son, an aviator, and he was killed fighting for France in 1918.

Often his father and mother visited his grave. They went for the last time last week. Both killed themselves on his grave.

There are millions of such fath-ers and mothers in France, having, as De Montigny wrote, when he died, "nothing to live for." That should be remembered by those unable to understand the remorseless French attitude toward Germany now.

That attitude is perfectly natural-but looking to the future, it neans more sons killed and is,

A court decision in Chicago authorizes the establishment of the first birth control clinic in America. There are many theories as to the desires of Providence in regard to population and compulsory birth.

To the layman it seems that women are entitled to whatever knowledge exists concerning themselves. Others may find comfort in the fact that Divine Providence, if opposed to birth control, by exercise of super-natural power could easily prevent it.

On that subject many things may be said on both sides. It is fortunate for the world that Mrs. Caruso had 19 children, the nineteenth being the great singer. It was fortunate that Ma-dame Bonaparte had many chil-dren, since Napoleon, who made kings ridiculous, was late in ar-riving. On the other hand, it doesn't seem just, and you can hardly imagine that it represents the will of Providence, when an unfortunate consumptive mother with a drunken husband and six or seven children she is unable to take care of, is compelled to bring other children into a world of suf-fering and misfortune.

"Von Seeckt, dictator of Germany, dissolves all radical par-ties." Germany has made a desperate effort since the armistice to exist as a republic. But the allies apparently will not have it. The next step may be in the dread di-rection of Mussolini rule, or chaos, or a restoration of the old system.

The German republic, had it been allowed to live, would have been a better thing for all Europe, and especially a better protection for western Europe, including France and Belgium. The day will come when those countries will miss the German wall between themselves and Russia and Asia.

Lilli Lehman, at 75, is a great musician and the greatest living teacher of singing. But how un-wise she is in her announcement that she will not teach singing to that she will not teach singing to any young woman "in love, be-cause artists must give undivided attention to their work." Any girl not in love is either getting over a love affair or she is abnormal. An artist can convey, through music, acting, or any-thing else, only what the artist feels. Any girl taking singing les-sons and not in love with someone of a voice. As great a woman as Lehman should know it.

A reverend gentleman in New York announces a sermon on "Anatole France, the New Voltaire." Anatole France ought to cable his thanks for that compliment. It is like speaking of a newly hatched wren, as "the new albatross.' Anatole France, in history, will stand as far from Voltaire as Rutherford B. Hayes from George Washington.
