

Zimman on Stand in Widow's Suit Against City

Dunn's Efforts to Enforce Law Not Interfered With, Former Omaha Commissioner Says.

The city rested late yesterday afternoon in presentation of evidence fighting the suit of Mrs. Pauline Yost, who asked $25,000 for the death of her husband two years ago from drinking of bootleg liquor.

City Commissioner Butler denied the testimony of City Commissioner Dunn that Butler had blocked Dunn's efforts to enforce the liquor laws.

Checks were introduced issued by Attorney & Co. and cashed by Frank Yost in saloons. John Yeager, chief deputy county attorney, testified that he received hearty co-operation in enforcing the liquor laws from the police.

Steal Church Funds. Lincoln, Nov. 26.—Burglars entered the home of David Kehm and took $125 belonging to the F Street Congregational church and to Mr. Kehm. The money was in a bureau drawer which was pried open.

Woman Tells of Theft of $700 Diamond Ring

Mrs. Mary O'Donnell, owner of a restaurant on Twenty-fourth street, near Farnam street, testified in criminal division of district court yesterday afternoon that Frank Brown, alias Reed, on trial for grand larceny of a $700 diamond ring, called her to the county hospital and threatened to blacken her reputation unless she dropped the prosecution.

Woman Painfully Hurt When Auto Overturns

Columbus, Neb., Nov. 26.—Mrs. Eric Luedtke of Creston was painfully injured when her Ford coupe overturned near Humphrey. She met a corn husking machine and in passing it misjudged the distance to the ditch and turned too far. The car overturned, breaking a side glass and a fender. Three other occupants of the car escaped injury.

Teacher Dies Under Operation

Mrs. O'Donnell, armed with a small caliber revolver, arrested Brown several days after she says he took the ring. When he tried to escape, she says, she shot him, the bullet entering his neck.

Inmate at State Prison Confesses Dual Benedict Roll—Says Wife Number One Agreed.

Lincoln, Nov. 26.—Montie Wisdom, 24, who has served two years of his 1 to 10-year sentence at the state penitentiary for robbing a Beatrice ice company, "couldn't say 'no' when pretty Pearl Hansen of St. Paul asked him to marry her, although he had a wife and two children at home in Sabetha, Kan., he told Judge J. M. Morning here today. Judge Morning annulled Wisdom's marriage to wife No. 2, on the imprisoned man's request so that the state parole board would take action on his parole.

Wisdom said he met Pearl Hansen, his wife's cousin, while she was visiting his wife, whose name was Irene Hansen. The two kept company in Sabetha with the wife's permission, he said.

After Pearl had gone home he received a letter from her saying to meet her in Lincoln and upon considering the letter Wisdom and his wife decided that he had better meet the cousin to see what she wanted.

They were married and returned to Mrs. Wisdom No. 1 who did not object strenuously to sharing her husband, Montie said. Nevertheless, he decided that the two wives should not be too near each other and brought Pearl to Beatrice, Neb., he added. Then he spent equal periods of time with each.

Later he became short of funds and robbed the ice company's till, for which he is now serving sentence.

Prison authorities say that Montie is head hog raiser at the prison. He has a good record at the institution and if paroled his father will vouch for his good behavior, it is said. Wisdom told Judge Morning his initial wife was ready to accept him again as solely hers.

old progressive sentiment was at ways strong, but as things stand there today, Johnson is not due to get any delegates from that state. All this reflects a present condition which conceivably can be altered by vigorous campaigning on Johnson's part and by energetic organization on the part of his backers.

Both these elements undoubtedly will appear in due course. It is anticipated that Johnson will try to make the league of nations and foreign relations the backbone of his campaign; and it is predicted that Johnson's friends will dig up old utterances and old associations of Coolidge to show that the latter cannot be depended on as a 100 per cent anti-league president.

This predicted effort on the part of Johnson to warm over the old league of nations fight is smiled at both by Coolidge's friends and by many of Johnson's old irreconcilable associates.

They say it is like dragging a corpse out of the graveyard and killing it over again. Senator Brandegee of Connecticut, who was perhaps the most uncompromising of the irreconcilables, is now counted on as being completely contented with Coolidge. Another of them, Colonel Harvey, is today a guest in the White House. Still another, Senator Borah, who campaigned for Johnson in 1920, has now departed from Johnson, because Borah believes in a world court for international justice and an international economic conference, both of which proposals Johnson includes in the same detestation he has for the league of nations.
