

McLaughlin and Morehead Want to Succeed Norris

Nebraska Congressman, One Republican, Other Democratic, Watch Eagerly for Final Decision.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—Two Nebraskans are sitting in Washington with bated breaths, awaiting a definite move of Senator George W. Norris as a candidate for republican nomination for United States senator or governor. They are Representative M. O. McLaughlin, republican, and Representative John H. Morehead, democrat.

Representative McLaughlin is known to be waiting only for word from Senator Norris that he will not be a candidate for re-election to the United States senate to announce his candidacy for the republican nomination. McLaughlin reasserted a statement to this effect this week in Washington.

Morehead Against Bryan.

That Morehead covets the senatorial toga is and always has been an open secret. That he thinks Gov. Charles W. Bryan, always arrayed against the Morehead interests in party squabbles in Nebraska, needs a good trimming to take a little of the governor's personal esteem from him is a more or less open secret.

Morehead's friends don't believe that the election of Bryan was a personal triumph as that gentleman is credited with thinking. They believe any democrat who succeeded in getting the nomination would have fared as well, if not better, than Bryan in last year's election.

Afraid of Norris.

These friends, who are known to be urging the former governor and present first district congressman into the race whether Bryan is a candidate for the nomination, or not, point to the fact that while Bryan only obtained a 50,000 majority in the election, Howell received a majority of 75,000. Briefly, they declare that Bryan's majority represents the German vote and nothing more and because of the governor's refusal to use his strength in the legislature to repeal the language law it is believed to be lost to him.

Yet, Morehead is like McLaughlin and several others. He doesn't intend to tear himself to pieces if Norris runs. But that he is willing to take Bryan on single-handed in event a third powerful candidate like Shallenger doesn't announce is largely within the realms of possibilities.

2.75 Beer Bill to Be Introduced

By Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Amendment of the Volstead act to legalize manufacture of beverages having an alcoholic content not to exceed 2.75 per cent by weight or 3.46 per cent by volume is proposed in a bill drafted by Representative Dyer of Missouri, a republican member of the house judiciary committee.

The Missouri representative said today there was abundant proof that beverages with the alcoholic content he proposes are nonintoxicating. He predicted 75 per cent of those who now drink bootleg liquor would be satisfied in the beers and wines manufactured under his bill and would be placed in the mood to join in a demand for more rigid enforcement of the prohibition laws.

Cheyenne Needs Huskers

Sidney, Neb., Nov. 30.—Julius Chaon, living nine miles northwest of Sidney, has finished husking 180 acres of corn, which averaged 57.12 bushels per acre.

Corn in Cheyenne county is averaging from 40 to 60 bushels per acre, and the farmers are very much in need of corn huskers.

Fall Slurred by Witness on Teapot Dome

By International News Service.

Washington, Nov. 30.—The senatorial investigation into the leasing of Teapot Dome Oil reserve to Harry F. Sinclair suddenly went into sensational channels today when the committee started delving into the private affairs and personal finances of Albert B. Fall, ex-secretary of the interior, who made the lease to the Sinclair interests.

Carl C. McGee, a newspaper editor of Albuquerque, N. M., appeared as a witness today and told the committee that Fall was in such bad financial condition that county taxes on his ranch at Three Rivers went unpaid from 1912 to 1922. Two months after the Teapot Dome lease was let to Sinclair, McGee testified, these taxes were paid and extensive improvements made on the ranch.

"Do people think that stores like this just happen? Do they understand that they are under obligation to you folks for the buying opportunity you offer? I often wonder if they realize what you do for them?" commented a customer. Nebraska's constant growth emphasizes public appreciation of this store.
