Mrs. Matilda Peterson Landed in Omaha With Husband by Steamboat in 1862.

Mrs. Matilda Lundin Peterson, with her daughter, Mrs. Alma Palmer, and grandsons, Attorneys Harry O. and Arthur L. Hearing the admonition of Horace Greeley, they went west by rail and wagon, landing from a little old steamboat at Omaha in 1862, then peopled with Indians, soldiers, and frontier folks.

Industrial Tract Urged Before Planning Body

Chamber of Commerce Official Points to Necessity of Providing Area for Factory Expansion.

J. M. Gillan, industrial commissioner of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce, urged members of the city planning commission to encourage industrial development by allowing for expansive tracts along the Belt line and other railroads. He appeared before the commission in the city hall yesterday afternoon in connection with the revised zoning ordinance being considered and which will be referred to city council next Tuesday morning for passage.

The industrial commissioner outlined to the planners the industrial growth along the Belt line. He recommended that some of the prohibited industries, as outlined in the proposed zoning ordinance, be stricken and these questioned activities be left for decision on the merits of any particular case as it may be brought for consideration.

Urges Industrial District

"An expert city planner who was here a few years ago advised that it is well to provide residential districts for workers near industries, and it is equally as important to provide districts where industries may be developed," Mr. Gillan said. He referred to an Omaha industry along the Belt line, where all of the workers live nearby and own their homes.

The planning commission received more suggestions yesterday afternoon from property owners who wish zoning changes to enable them to carry out certain building programs. There is a difference of opinion among interested property owners over the question of whether Thirty-eighth avenue, Harney to Jackson streets, should be open for the erection of apartments.

Requests Presented.

A property owner interested in the south side of Capitol avenue, Twenty-fifth to Twenty-sixth streets, requested that this block be changed from residential to industrial, similar to conditions which prevail on the south side of the same block, facing Dodge street. Other requests and suggestions of a similar nature were presented to the commission for consideration.

Chairman George B. Prinz stated yesterday afternoon that he and associates expect to have the revised zoning ordinance and maps ready for city council next Tuesday morning.

The talks will begin at 8 in the evening.

Congress to Act on Amendment on Child Labor

Act Urged for Passage to Limit Employment of Persons Under 18 Years Old.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—Page Jerry Howard. He's wanted in Washington.

For the child labor movement is ready for presentation to congress.

Representatives of the 25 organizations which form the permanent conference for the abolition of child labor met this week in Washington and agreed to have the amendment introduced into both houses of congress during the coming session.

The amendment this year is drafted in a fashion different from other amendments, in that it is an enabling act only and not a direct prohibition. It permits congress to suit child labor legislation to the needs of the times.

The amendment reads:

"The congress shall have power to limit and to prohibit the labor of persons under 18 years of age, and power is also reserved to the several states to limit and to prohibit such labor in any way which does not lessen any limitation of such labor or the extent of any prohibition thereof by congress."

Child labor, it was declared at the meeting, has increased to an alarming extent since the supreme court decision declaring unconstitutional the law taxing net profits of employers of children. This decision, representatives asserted, has given considerable impetus to sentiment in favor of the child labor amendment.
