for World Peace
Feminist Leader Denounces Foreign Policy of United States.

A crusade of women to demand that the United States form and put across an active program for world peace was called by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, feminist leader, before an audience of 500 Omaha club women and their husbands Tuesday night in the ball room of the Fontenelle hotel.

In an address with her old-time fire and energy, Mrs. Catt proved that her eloquence has lost none of its power, her deep, rich voice none of its spell, and her iron will none of its edge since she stumped the country for equal rights. The ill health which has hampered the suffrage leader in recent years did not appear in her name last night. She swept her audience along for two solid hours. She set forth the forces urging toward war and denounced what she considers the failure of America to oppose them actively.

America Great Obstacle.
The public opinion of the world looks upon America as the great obstacle on the road to world peace, charged Mrs. Catt. Other nations have assigned to this country the role of leaders in the trend toward the inevitable next war. "Imperialistic ambitions" was the explanation she found in Europe, South America and the orient for America's

L. A. Writhes in Municipal Pain
12-Hour Curfew on Dancing
Arouses Movie Folk Who Threaten to Leave.

Los Angeles, Dec. 5.—Los Angeles writhed on a bed of municipal pain today as opposing civic forces clashed over the permissibility of post-midnight dancing and a little game of chance for charity.

While officers of the Western Motion Picture Advertisers association looked about for some place outside of Los Angeles in which to hold their annual ball, as a result of the police commission's refusal yesterday to grant them a permit sanctioning dancing after midnight, while seven patrons of the Jinnistan Grotto's charity circus awaited trial on charges of participating in games of chance designed to raise money for a Masonic Christmas fund, various organizations denounced what they called "unnecessary restrictions on the rights of citizens" and threatened retaliatory action against the city administration unless conditions changed.

Resolutions adopted by the Screen Writers guild, branded the 12 o'clock dancing ordinance under which the motion picture directors ball was halted by the police Thanksgiving eve and the Western Motion Picture Advertisers request for a 3 a. m. permit denied, as "the midnight curfew law for adults," and heartily endorsed a proposal to organize the city's motion picture population into a political force capable of campaigning for a metropolitan government by metropolitan minds.

Meanwhile members of the Los Angeles Advertising club who yesterday adopted a similar resolution were discussing an address of Sol Lesser, motion picture producer and theater operator, who reminded them that "the motion picture industry is not necessarily rooted here," and that producers here "have even discussed plans for taking their entire plants to New York."

Clergymen and police vice squad officers who conducted the raid on the Jinnistan Grotto circus last night were hoisted and jeered as they led their prisoners away after arresting a number of participants in alleged games of chance.

Narrow black suede belts that are studded with small nail heads are new and striking.

After Government Ownership of Railroads---What?

If the Government takes over the railroads, your business and ours may be next. The arguments advanced for Federal ownership of transportation lines apply to banks, steel mills, coal mines and lumber yards.

Principle of Private Ownership at Stake

If the railroads were taken over by the Government:

1. It would impose upon the people an added debt of at least twenty billions of dollars which with the war debt could not be paid within a century.
2. It would result in loss of revenue to the Federal and State Governments of about $300,000,000 annually—the taxes paid by the railroads in 1922. The Government does not tax its own property, nor permit the States to do so. Railroads under Government ownership could not be taxed, as they would be in the same class as post offices or forts.
3. With the railroad, telegraph, express, and postal departments in the hands of the Federal Government about one-fifth of the population would be on Uncle Sam's pay-roll. This would invite the creation of a political machine interesting, but appalling, to contemplate.
4. Government ownership of railroads has nowhere been a success and has meant high rates and low wages.
5. The late President Harding characterized the movement to adopt Government ownership as a "colossal blunder." "I believe," he said, "it would destroy initiative, infect us with political corruption, create regional jealousies, and impose incalculable cost on the public treasury."

adoption of an extensive program of submarine, airplane, and chemical preparedness while refusing to share in any permanent attempt to safeguard peace. Never, she averred, had she seen so much hostility to America abroad as she had found in the last few weeks.

Americans, complained Mrs. Catt, are "the grandest people in the world at telling other folk what to do, and the poorest hands in the world at doing it."

America Gives Proposals.
The only four proposals of schemes for world peace which the modern world has known have emanated from America, but the country has adopted none of them, she pursued. These proposals she defined as the suggestion of a United States of Europe, made by Benjamin Franklin and recently revived by some Europeans; the League of Nations, although in fact, she claimed, the idea of the league started not in America, but with Queen Elizabeth; the world court, proposed, agitated and organized, but never adopted by Americans, and the "outwry of war," suggested by Senator Borah for which there is as yet no machinery.

"I am for all these schemes," proclaimed Mrs. Catt. "I intend to work for any common-sense project to restrain war. I shall work the hardest for the one which I think most people can be brought to adopt. Frankly, I don't know which it is."

Denounces Politis.
While she denounced the political situation, which has brought us to such a pretty pass that we can't take issue on an American-made idea without getting all balled up in politics," Mrs. Catt maintained that the principal blame lay not with Washington minor things take all their attention.

"The American people could bring permanent peace in this generation if they would put their minds to it," she quoted. She urged the women, especially, to "forget about clothes and canaries" and organize to demand a constructive peace program of their leaders.

Cronin Says His Office Will Make Searches for Liquor.

United States Marshal Dennis Cronin is ready to search and seize for Nebraska prohibition agents. He so informed Robert Samardick Wednesday.

Cronin made the statement after Federal Judge Woodrough handed down his opinion yesterday that Samardick and other agents weren't civil officers and therefore it is illegal for them to search and seize with a warrant.

"Hereafter, whenever possible, agents will arrest the bootlegger after they make a buy," said Samardick. "A search may be made only in the room where the liquor was purchased. It will be illegal to search other parts of the premises."

Neither United States District Attorney Kinsler nor Samardick have received word from Washington, where Woodrough's decision has caused a stir.

Chainman 'Shack' to Be Torn Down

Fred Brown's "shack," west of Benson, made notorious in last year's news by the chaining of two women by the bandit, Brown, in the cellar of the dwelling, recently turned into a school house in district 16, will be torn down.

Announcement came Wednesday from H. M. Eaton, superintendent of schools. He also said a new school house would be erected on the site.

Reason for the destruction of the shack was because school district 16 had become so crowded it was made into two districts. New district will be known as district 64.
