

AT THE THEATERS

Omaha Girl Produces "Isn't It So?" in N. Y.

Nancy Fair, Omaha, who appeared as headliner at the World theater last summer, is a producer as well as an actress. Miss Fair, who was educated at Central High school, left Omaha for the stage when in her teens. In her offering here, Miss Fair gave impersonations of musical comedy stars and of Fay Bainter in "Isn't It So?" At present she is playing in Los Angeles on the Pantages circuit.

One of Miss Fair's productions entitled "Isn't It So?" which was presented at the Berkeley theater in New York city just recently didn't prove to be a success. It is said that she is planning another production for New York to be placed when she has accumulated the necessary funds for such expense. No date or name of the new show has yet been announced.

Bruce McRae who was last seen in Omaha with Miss Ina Claire in "The Awful Truth," has been scheduled to star in a new play by Avery Hopwood, "The Alarm Clock."

The Selwyns have added Chauncey Gil- bert to their ranks. It is said that she will inaugurate their regime with a tour of the popular star in his very best play, "The Heart of the Whirlwind," at the Brandeis tomorrow night and Saturday, matinee and night. When Rachel Crothers fashioned this vehicle for Mr. Gil- bert, she fitted him like a glove. It is no little to her fame as a playwright. Since this achievement this brilliant lady has been the most popular of her long list of hits. The original cast has been secured for the current tour and includes Miss Fredric, Kaiman Matzka, Charles E. Jones, Richard E. Gurney, Blanche Seymour, Nina Saville, Ella Rock, James Marr and Francis Conroy.

Today and tomorrow mark the last performances of the current vaudeville bill at the World. The sixtieth show is being given with a novelty in the form of a musical comedy, "Isn't It So?" which is a successful battle with the narcotic habit. "Isn't It So?" is a hilarious South American fantasy with Yankee pep and comedy. This bill, according to the World management is to be the most entertaining of the season.

If you want to laugh long and loud you will find plenty of opportunities at the Selwyn Empire. Broadway and the Graves Bros. Players, a stock organization of favorites, are in the city for a week. "Isn't It So?" is a hilarious musical comedy with a story to further popularize the company now on the fourth night of their performance. "Isn't It So?" is the new play announced for week.

Ever since he was a lad and now he is a bald-headed man—Mr. Hymack, whose wearing apparel changes color right before your eyes, is the sort of an act that has made him a popular attraction at the World. He worked hard at it for 13 years, he says, and he still is working on it.

Mr. Hymack's wearing apparel not only changes color before your eyes, but the apparel itself disappears when it is tired of being admired by the public. The business suit gives way to formal evening attire and the evening attire to a white shirt transformed into a flashy creation of the latest swaying design. One hand will be covered by a green glove, while the other is bare. Then there is a bright yellow glove that comes from nowhere.

Alfreda Symonds, leading lady of "Elipity Hop" at the Gayety theater, is working out a plan to assemble theatrical people and a number of near-by artists to form a profession of travelers, says Miss Symonds, "and the only time we have to settle down is for a few weeks summer between seasons. We are separate from our friends while we follow our profession, and it is now the custom of players to wander far apart during their holidays. Not one but several colonies would be required to assemble when the players of Columbia burlesque, and I am working out a plan that will find headquarters at play in the next summer. The plan if I should explain it and it failed would be sorry I spoke," says Miss Symonds.

"Bubble Bubble" next week's attraction at the Gayety theater, is said to be the most staged with elaborateness while the costumes are plentiful and of high class of the finest silk and satin. The production boasts of 16 magnificent scenes and 14 musical numbers. The Reynolds, just celebrated as a delineator of Hebrew comedy, heads the big stars which include William Browne, Ann Clifton, Helen Du Ross, Violet Gray, Ruth Rosemary, Jack Farnsey, Jim Holly, Andy Francis and John Rose. The good looking chorus is being trained and is equipped with many changes of exquisite costumes.

Among the many vivid personalities who will be involved in the hilarious proceedings of the Greenwich Village Follies is a young man who is a professional actor.

Farm Efficiency Is Specialty of Danes, Consul Here Declares

Nebraska Contains 25,000 of First and Second Generations, Frank V. Lawson Says.

Frank V. Lawson.

"Yes, I'm married, if that has anything to do with it." A rather light complexioned and young appearing man leaned back in his chair at the headquarters of the Danish Brotherhood at 928 Omaha National bank building and laughed heartily. The center of good cheer was Frank V. Lawson, Danish vice consul for Nebraska and national secretary of the Danish Brotherhood in America.

But whether that had "anything to do with it" or not remains unsolved. At any rate, he showed that he had retained a sense of humor and was well informed on a wide range of topics in spite of his marital blessings.

"Why, I should judge that there were about 10,000 of the first and second generations of Danes here in Nebraska," he said in answer to the customary opening question. "In all Nebraska there are nearly 25,000. For the number in the whole United States—the official figures of that are kept only in Washington. Though there must be at least three-quarters of a million, perhaps a million, in this country," he added.

Majority Are Farmers.

"Many of these people make their living from the farms here," he said. "For Denmark itself is almost entirely a farming and dairy country. In Denmark there are perhaps 3,000,000 people, not quite the population of Norway, which has a much greater area. On that account every inch of soil is carefully tilled. The Danes have a well developed system of co-operative marketing, through which they invariably command the highest prices for their butter, eggs and other produce.

According to Mr. Lawson, Denmark is practically dependent on the benefits of this marketing system for its successful sustenance, as there is very little manufacturing there. There is no coal or iron ore in the ground, and most of the wood is imported for use in the scattered manufacturing plants. Most of Denmark's manufacturing plants are assembling establishments.

War Damage Slight.

Mr. Lawson said that Denmark was not hard hit by the world war. "Of course, the crown, which was valued formerly at 3-1/2 for a dollar, is now quoted at one fifth of a dollar," he said. "For that reason the intemperances passing between Denmark and the United States are about equal where there would be a slight surplus coming over from the other side of the ocean." He expressed his confidence in the ability of Denmark to attain its pre-war status with ease.

"Although many of the Danes coming over to America take to the farms, quite a few choose urban surroundings," he declared. "Most of those who settle in the cities follow the trades. A great majority are skilled mechanics. Yes, quite a few go into business," he answered another query.

These businesses are greatly diversified," continued Mr. Lawson. "We have Mr. P. F. Petersen of Petersen & America," he declared. "Last

Has Oldest Flag.

"Denmark also has the oldest flag," he said. "The design has not been changed for over 700 years, even longer than in the case of the United States which is second, although it is a comparatively young country. Denmark has the lowest percentage of illiteracy of any country in the world, including the United States, for the lack of ability to read and write, especially in the south, brings down the average of this nation. Denmark is very democratically represented. Although it has a king, he is less powerful than the president of the United States."

Well, I don't know if there's much to say," he answered when asked for his life story. Mr. Lawson is of Danish birth. He came to this country about 20 years ago after preliminary training in the land of his birth. He explained the perfect pronunciation and fluency of his English by stating that he had acquired it largely in America. "We stayed in Massachusetts and the east about five years before coming here," he said. "I studied and received my commercial education there. Then we came to Omaha, where we've stayed for the last 16 years. I received my legal training here at the University of Omaha."

Besides caring for his consular duties, Mr. Lawson pursues the practice of law from his headquarters at 928 Omaha National Bank building. He is also national secretary of the American Danish Brotherhood.

When Men Fail.

Warrenton, Ore., Dec. 5.—After trying out several men as managers with little success the city commissioners last night decided to ask Mrs. R. A. Barrett of Portland and reside to resume the position of city manager. Mrs. Barrett, said to be the first woman ever appointed to the office of city manager, was named by the Warrenton commissioners last spring, but after several weeks of active service resigned on account of ill health.

For "Dangerous Flying."

Berkeley, Cal., Dec. 5.—A warrant for the arrest of "John Doe" Ward, Alameda county, on a charge of "dangerous flying" over the University of California-Standard university football game here recently, was sworn to by Police Chief Charles D. Lee yesterday. Ward was said to have swooped within 150 feet of the stadium. The warrant was issued under a state law providing a penalty for reckless flying.

2 Men Die in Still Blast.

West New York, N. J., Dec. 5.—Alphonse Grazio, and his brother, James, were killed, two other men seriously burned and two homes damaged by fire after an explosion of a whisky still in a garage.
