

Sheriff to Pen For Liquor Plot

Maine Officer and Lawyer
Convicted of Granting Monopoly on Rum Trade.

By Associated Press.
Bangor, Me., Jan. 1.—Sheriff Edmund Grant of Aroostook county and Willard S. Lewis, a Houlton attorney, were convicted by a federal jury today of conspiracy to defeat the operation of the national prohibition laws and were sentenced to serve two years each in the federal prison at Atlanta. Both filed exceptions and provided bail.
Charles E. Calvin of Houlton testified that he, in partnership with Richard Vercker of Houlton, had paid Grant and Lewis $625 a month for an absolute monopoly of the liquor trade in Houlton. In addition they were assessed occasional "extras," he said. During the life of the agreement, he testified, the sheriff was to notify him in advance when a raid was contemplated.

School Boys Play Traffic Cop

Given full authority to make arrests, a number of school boys of Hoken, N. J., went on duty at school crossings to protect youngsters going to and from school.

New York —Day by Day—

By O. O. McINTYRE
New York, Jan. 1.—Men age in New York after the same fashion. They look much alike after 50—especially those of the old regime who are seen about the clubs in the late afternoon. Their closely clipped mustaches are of the same white. They are groomed in the same impeccable style.
Somehow one gets the idea they are deidealized and have a sort of acrid contempt for youth. There is not the softness the elders used to display toward growing young men in small towns. They are aloof and distinguished.
Their sons move away to clubs or bachelor apartments after college and the contact is casual. Perhaps a cocktail or a Scotch and soda at the club. They are called "Governor" and, while there is a well-bred familiarity, it is extremely formal.
The modern father in New York seems to be one who has had his fling. There is a fleeting glimpse of having been once a gay old dog and having emerged unscathed, he hopes for the best for his son. He seems to know there is danger but prefers to restrain filial advice. If the son has good stuff he will weather the storm.

Mothers, too, show a diffidence. They receive their sons very formally—always by telephone appointment. There are polite pecking kisses; trifling banalities are discussed somewhat in the manner of strangers. Yet somehow they seem to keep track of each other.
There are no sons apparently who drift away never to be heard of again. While there is no noticeable fervor of affection there is loyalty. These relationships seem odd to those whose family ties are close knit. It is distinctly New Yorkish.
Parents nowadays are estimable exponents of the new age. They accept the new freedom of youth with asticism. Sometimes I wonder if they would not be happier returning to the old days where sons and daughters grouped about the family table, exchanged confidence and slept in the same house.

Perhaps old fashioned has gripped me. In these hectic days of jazz and petting parties I long for flashes of sheer femininity among young girls. I was at a home the other day when a girl of 18 with her hair cut like a boy's came slum-banging in. She had lighted a cigarette in the hall

New Year Bells Ring as Wedding Bells for Couple Wed at Midnight

Miss Hazel Shirley Dyer and George W. Orshel, both of Boone, Neb., crossed the threshold of 1924 as man and wife when they were united in marriage at midnight Monday night at Trinity cathedral.
The Rt. Rev. E. V. Shayler, Bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Omaha, performed the ceremony. A small congregation was present. The ceremony was over in 15 minutes.
The couple obtained a wedding license Monday at the Douglas county courthouse. County Judge Bryce Crawford witnessed the 10-day requirement of publication of license.

The bride is a graduate of Albion high school and for four and a half years has taught school. She will continue to teach in Platte county until the school year ends in May. Mrs. Orshel is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dyer of Boone.
Mr. Orshel is assistant cashier of the Boone State bank. The couple will make their home in Boone.

Great Throngs At White House

Precautions Taken That New Year's Reception Be Not Too Fatiguing on President.

Washington, Jan. 1.—President Coolidge began the new year by undergoing probably the greatest physical strain which is placed upon the chief executive's—the new year's reception.

Precautions had been taken against a repetition of the most severe strain placed upon President and Mrs. Harding on New Year's day, 1922, when approximately 8,000 persons, ranging from high officials to humblest private citizens, called at the executive mansion to wish the chief executive and first lady a happy new year and to shake their hands. No reception was held last year because of Mrs. Harding's health.

Three hours and a half only were allotted today for the reception, beginning at 11 o'clock with the members of the cabinet and diplomatic corps and ending at 2:30 o'clock with the last of the private citizens who desired to brave the chill winds of a real winter day to grasp the hands of Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge and extend their best wishes.

Arrangements were made to receive the guests in the Blue room with the president and Mrs. Coolidge attended only by the two presidential aides. All government departments were closed for the day and governmental business was at a standstill.

The public began forming in line at 9:30 o'clock, nearly four hours before the time set for the public reception. By the time the cabinet members and their wives reached the White House at 11 o'clock the public line stretched half a block up Pennsylvania avenue from the northwest entrance to the White House grounds. As usual, women outnumbered the men about three to one.

Snow Blanket in Idaho.

Boise, Idaho, Jan. 1.—Central Idaho is covered with a blanket of snow which varies in depth from four inches in this city to 25 inches in the mountains, according to figures given out by the weather bureau last evening. The snow was not accompanied by a cold wave, however. The weather bureau reports that 20 inches of snow fell at Atlanta, Idaho, and 25 inches at the Banner mine, 50 miles from here. Only an inch of snow is reported at Twin Falls, Idaho.

Zero Weather Brings Distress

Free Shoe Waiting List Grows as Cutting Winds Blow.

"Happy New Year!" And what better way to make your new year happy than by sending a contribution to the Free Shoe Fund?

This bitter weather has brought dozens of poor little boys and girls in appeal to the dispensers of the fund.
If you could only see their wan faces and their rags, how quickly your heart would open to them. There's no other means by which these children of the desperately poor can be provided with shoes except this fund.

Twenty children are on the list now, waiting for the necessary money to come in so they can have shoes. They can't go out of doors until they do get shoes.
Will you start your new year by giving help to these needy little waifs. Just write a check to "Free Shoe Fund" and send it to The Omaha Bee. Or send or bring in the cash. It will be gratefully acknowledged.

Fall in Hogs Did Not Lower Meat

Chicago, Jan. 1.—Hog prices dropped 14 1/2 per cent in 1923 but the housewife paid about as much for pork as she did a year ago and even more for lard, the Sears-Roebuck agricultural foundation declared in a statement last night. Hog market was flooded, the corn surplus of 1921, was turned into an equally burdensome supply of pork and since last spring hog producers have not been making enough to cover production costs, the report declared. Most of the drop in wholesale prices was absorbed by the retailers, the report asserted, but said that there is some indication of an improvement in the market soon. Adding that it is doubtful if any slight increase in wholesale prices will reflect on retail prices.

Your Furniture Opportunity!

Remodeling Sale

$50,000 New Furniture

Sale Starts Wednesday, January 2nd

THE owners of the building we occupy are adding two stories to the building and will soon begin extensive interior remodeling and reconstruction in preparing these upper floors for their General Office.

This interior remodeling will mean brick and plaster dust flying, which is very injurious to furniture and will make it impossible for us to use our east second floor. It will be necessary to condense our stock and vacate for several weeks this portion of our show rooms, which is about one-third of our space. Rather than take the loss of damage, or to temporarily store away a good portion of our merchandise, we have decided to place our entire stock on Special Sale beginning, Wednesday, January 2nd, to move quickly in order to gain the room required for improvement.

Our furniture is all new and personally selected for its individuality and character. Reap the benefit now of these wonderful and unusual values.

This surely is your Furniture Opportunity
