Around Nebraska's State House

By R. M. PETERS, Staff Correspondent The Omaha Bee. Lincoln, Jan. 27.-With Senator Norris and Charles W. Bryan definitely announced for re-election, Nebraska will witness an inrush of candidates who have been awaiting the decision of the state's senior senator and governor. It is unlikely that the republican primary ballot will include any additional names for the two high offices unless it is that of C. H. Gustafson, who is put out of the enatorial race by Norris's acceptance of the filing made for him by his

Rumors of Gustafson's gubernator ial ambitions became current several weeks ago when the impression grew that Norris would run for re-election. Gustafson himself is very chary of information, but his friends freely admit that the former president of the United States Gran Growers is se riously considering the possibilities of a contest for the republican nomin republican primary race for the senatorial nomination becomes triangular with Fred G. Johnson of Hastings, Charles Sloan of Geneva, and Norris composing the three sides. Norris has announced that he will make no primary campaign personally, but ohnson and Sloan may be counted on to make the fight of their lives.

It is significant that the state manager of the Coolidge campaign, Frank P. Corrick of Lincoln, also brought to the state house the petitions asking Sloan to be a candidate. The names of Coolidge and Sloan will unquestionably be linked together by Sloan backers with the hope of securing the doubtful vote through the magic of the name of the outstanding republican candidate for the presi-

That fact alone causes political ob servers to hesitate before predicting the outcome of the republican pri-They quite generally concede that Norris would sweep the state in an open election, but the primary election is another thing unless progressive democrats come into the republican primaries to mark a ballot for the present senator.

The plans of Johnson are not generally known and for that reason Norris and Sloan are given the lion's share of any political discussion.

Complicated though the senatorial situation may be in the republican camp, it is simple compared to the problems of the democrats.

Briefly, it may be said that there re two theories regarding the probable action of the democrats, each of which has its ardent supporters. The first is that the democratic party is quite resigned to the re-election of Norris, and, since it foresees victory for him at the primaries, there will Savidge Tells of Visions be no attempt to secure a strong candidate to oppose him. Reasoning long this line, it is further pointed ut that no democratic candidate Roman holiday.

That, perhaps, sets forth the views of the Bryan wing of the party, but Norris returned to congress. Should spiritual forces. this occur the fall election would be fought practically along progressiveconservative lines.

The ultimate decision of the demo cratic chiefs must be known within a few weeks, at any rate, as there is only a short time left in which a candidate may file.

Admirers of political astuteness are commenting on the announcement of Bryan that he would be a candidate for re-election four days before Norris issued permission to allow his hat to stay in the ring. It was learned on the best authority that the governor who had hitherto been undecided, returned from Washington convinced that the senator would run. He has lways been certain that he could not refeat Norris and his haste to make his announcement saved him the appearance of running for re-election because he could not be senator.

At the same time the governor did not close the gates entirely behind him and put into his announcement a little loophole that would have permitted an about face had Norris refused, when he said he would file for re-election "unless some event of national importance occurs in the very near fture to change the situ-

The senate committee investigating roads has concluded its hearings without the appearance of Bryan be fore it. With characteristic inconsist ency the governor issued a statement in which he intimated that the committee was legally without status and then prepared a report containing a number of items calculated to gather votes which he submitted to the mem-

A report that W. B. McNichols, resent chief of the bureau of securi ies, would be a democratic candidate for attorney general is apparently well founded. Friends of McNichola are urging him to race against O. S. Spillman, candidate for re-election, and it may be said that McNichols

Persons who believed Governor Bryan when he declared he "would take steps" against oil companies who have shoved the price of gasoline to 1814 cents a gallon, are still awaiting gubernatorial action. As a matter of fact, if anything is done to put the price on an equitable basis, it prob-ably will be done by Attorney Gen eral Spillman, who heads a national association of attorneys general, who are investigating the gasoline situ-

Since his return from Washington the governor has been several times asked what he intended to do regarding gasoline, and his answers have been invariably noncommittal.
