Edna S. Vincent Millay, youthful winner of the Pulitzer prize in poetry, arives in. Omaha at 7:15 this morning for her lecture this aftertenelle, under the auspices of the Omaha Society of Fine Arts.

No prepartions for the formal entertainment of Miss Millay have been made, as the young poet wires that she is recovering from the effects of an operation and is chiefly in need of rest. Mrs. M. G. Colpetzer, chairman of the courtesy committee of the Society of Fine Arts, is going ahead with arrangements for an informal luncheon of the society's board of directors in honor of Miss Millay, but is not certain that the guest of honor will be able to attend. Those in charge of arrangements for the lecture understand that Miss Millay intends to leave this evening

Jean Whitney, of Lexse Junior Camp Fire circle, has worked not only beauty but achievement in the making of the beautiful ceremonial rown in the center. The leather streamers hanging down the front of the gown bear the leather honors earned by its maker in Red Cross work, in swimming, and in reporting for the school paper. In the center of the gown, near the hem, Miss Jean has embroidered a health bird, earn ed by observing the Camp Fire health chart. From one shoulder hangs long strands of beads for elective honors, while the pocket of the dress is embroidered with the symbol of February, the wearer's birth month.
