Marriage on Increase, Says Sociologist

Hope for bachelor maids, which is very appropriate to the leap year month, is held out in data quoted by Prof. Edward A. Ross of Wisconsin university, in a recent volume entitled, "The Social Trend." Not only are Americans "one of the most married peoples on the face of the earth," declares the famous sociologist, but they are getting more that way every minute. "The Marys and the Slaves are the only Europeans who give themselves up to matrimony with greater abandon than we do," he informs his readers.

Despite the swarms of women going over into business and industry, "this freedom" has so far made no dent in the holy state of matrimony. Quite to the contrary: out of 100 American women in 1900, 32 were single; in 1906, 31; in 1910, only 30. Figures for later years are not available but there is reason to believe that the good work goes on. The professor does not venture an opinion whether the increased proportion of marriages is due to the desirability of having a high-salaried wife or to the application of the principle of economic self-determination for women.

The sociologist gives Volstead the principal credit for serving as Cupid's right-hand man in ushering the new rush of couples up the aisle to the altar, since in the reign of John Barleycorn there were tens of thousands of Sydney Cartons, who were not good matrimonial timber. With the vogue of prohibition, which began to creep in about 1900, the proportion of marriages began to creep up.

One fly in the ointment is that while unmarried women are dwindling in proportion, the average age of marriage is getting lower and those who have survived it are less likely than before to yield. In 1900, 47 per cent of all girls between the ages of 15 and 24 were married, while in 1910, 50 per cent had taken unto themselves husbands. But the "persistent spinsters," who constitute seven or eight out of every 100 women, are a little more likely to stand firm.

This should not be taken to heart too much, as Dr. Ross cautions that the reason for such a situation is the happier state of modern bachelor woman. The condition of the old-fashioned spinster was so intolerable that she would clutch at any release, and it was long before she "quit struggling" in the former phrase. But the up-to-date woman soon finds interests which distract her attention from the pursuit of the elusive mate. But those who have not yet attained this Nirvana might easily deduce that the part of wisdom is to pop the question while the popping is good.

Dr. Ross, author of "The Changing Chinese," and several volumes on sociology and on Russia, was for some years a professor at the University of Nebraska.

Bisset-Harter.

Mrs. Mary H. Harter announces the marriage of her daughter Jennie to Donald Bisset. The ceremony took place last Saturday at the Methodist parsonage in Council Bluffs. Mr. Bisset and his bride went to Lincoln following the ceremony. They will be at home in their newly furnished bungalow at 631 North Forty-eighth street.

Interpreting the Three-Piece Mode.

By Eleanor Gunn.

The sleeveless jacket is something over which to ponder. It is a spring possibility which is heralded far enough ahead to make it possible for us to be prepared.

The sketch is an Agnes interpretation made of navy charnelaine combined with a gay Maroccan print crepe, and the sketch in miniature indicates the effect when the jacket is worn. One suspects that it is designed, not for warmth, since the back is slashed to the neckline, but for chic.

Many of the couturiers subscribe to the banded type of trimming, for the tendency one may be reminded again, is toward tailored and relatively simple effects.

Allied stripes still occur on plain surfaces which, for decorative reasons may be striped here and there, and pipings of strongly contrasting materials are a feature of costumes exploited for the fortunates who concern themselves with summer clothes in February. Bands often widen into stripes broad enough to constitute a panel, and many frocks have the front panel note either from neckline to skirt or from the waist down. In the latter category, the more usual treatment is not a straight panel, but a gathered or pleated one. Even in frocks of linen, in both heavy and handkerchief weight, the panel idea appears. On one lovely French blue handmade frock, the wide front panel is emphasized by having overlapping bands of the material embroidered at one edge.

Striped frocks of the chemise or shirt type often have, the self-trimmings of the stripes used in an opposite direction, and in this type of dress either the bosom or front panel is employed. Men's silk shirtings, striped flannels even to the extremes of black stripes and some cross-bar effects are popular as evidenced by the frocks seen at southern beaches.

Flannel is among the old-time favorites revived and although pessimists insist that alpaca would not be wanted in America in spite of its success abroad, it has been found that all good shops are having calls for frocks made of this practical warm weather fabric.

Morning Orchestra Concert for Children

The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, which arrives in Omaha at 8:30 this morning, will give a matinee for school children only, this morning at 11. The matinee, which was originally scheduled for 3, has been moved forward to free the building for the Woodrow Wilson memorial service this afternoon. The evening concert, under the auspices of the Tuesday Musical club, will take place at 8:15.

Eighty-five members of the orchestra arrive via Illinois Central this morning. Most of the players will make their headquarters in the three Pullman cars which, with a baggage car, make up their section. Henri Verbruggen and several of the principal players, however, have engaged rooms at the Hotel Fontenelle.

Nor formal entertaining will be done for the members of the orchestra. Mr. Verbruggen has been charged to receive all invitations. Engelbert Roentgen, soloist and cellist, will be the guest of Herman K. Mansfield at luncheon.

The Minneapolis symphony opened its spring musical season last Friday, February 1, with a program which featured the works of several modern composers. "A London Symphony," by Vaughan Williams, was the most important number of the program, while "King Estmere," by Leo Sowerby, gave another work by a young composer, an American this time. The Bach "Concerto in C" and the opera "Tristan" paid respect to the classic masters.

"The increasing excellence of the performance was but a sure mark of the improvement of the orchestra in personal and ensemble," writes Victor Nilsson in the Minneapolis Journal of this performance.

Young Composer

Ben Cherrington, national student secretary for the Y. M. C. A., will speak at an interracial service to be held at the Y. W. C. A. on Sunday afternoon, February 10. The North Side branch will join in the interracial service Sunday. It will furnish special music and bring Rev. J. S. Blaine as speaker. The public is cordially invited to join this service, which will be followed by a social hour from 5 to 6.

On Saturday noon, a luncheon of persons interested in the Fellowship for a Christian Social Order will be held for Mr. Cherrington at 12:30 in the Y. W. C. A. building. Reservations may be made there or at the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Cherrington is one of several unpaid national secretaries for the Fellowship, which is headed by Kirby Page, New York.

Reed-English.

The marriage of Miss Mary Louise English, daughter of Mrs. James P. English, and Paul Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Reed of Hastings, Neb., was solemnized Tuesday morning at St. Peter's church. The Rev. F. J. McCarthy, assisted by the Rev. A. F. Kluthe, officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, James T. English. She wore an afternoon gown of black and gold metal cloth trimmed in gold lace. A black horseshair braid hat trimmed in French flowers completed the costume.

Mrs. R. D. O'Neil of Denver, sister of the bride, and her only attendant, was gown'd in black crepe studded in jet. With this she wore a hat of orchid straw and georgette. Daniel W. Conway of Sioux Falls, S. D., was the best man.

One Reason for Nervous Disorders

YOUR doctor can tell you that nervous disorders are very common among Americans. One reason for this is found in the fact that they are great coffee drinkers.

Coffee contains caffeine, a drug, prescribed by doctors as an emergency stimulant for the heart and nervous system. It has a tendency to increase blood pressure, develop heart irregularities and cause digestive disturbances.

If you feel that coffee is not good for you, serve Postum as your meal-time drink.

Postum is a pure cereal beverage that refreshes and satisfies. It is absolutely free from caffeine or any other irritating drug.

Try a cup of Postum with your dinner or supper tonight. Postum is sold everywhere.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tin) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer the flavor brought out by boiling fully 20 minutes. The cost of either form is about one-half cent a cup.
