

School Boy Attacked by Police Dog

Youngster's Condition Reported Serious; Face, Neck and Back Painfully Lacerated by Fangs.

Jimmy Hobbs, 8, third grade pupil at Train school, 1835 South Sixth street, was attacked by a German police dog across the street from the school grounds during recess Tuesday morning. His face, neck and back were literally torn to ribbons.

He was taken to Lord Lister hospital, where physicians declared his condition to be serious. The dog belongs to Frank Vaccito, 1514 South Fifth street.

Roll Down Bank.

Jimmy lives at the Creche home. Tuesday morning he was playing at the top of a high bank across from the school when the dog leaped at him, its jaws snapping.

His screams attracted two other school boys, Joe Caniglia, 514 Woolworth avenue, and Louis Turco, 420 Pierce street. They thought at first that Jimmy was playing with the dog, they said. It was leaping about him, and he was running this way and that, with his arm over his face. Then the dog seemed to fasten itself to the boy's neck, they said, and both boy and dog rolled down the bank.

Owner Arrested.

Vaccito, who was arrested on a charge of harboring a vicious animal, said he raised the dog from a pup and that it never bothered anyone so

Alleged Teapot Dome $100,000 Note, Principals at Hearing

Here are some photographic side lights on the Teapot Dome oil lease scandal, which has embroiled official Washington.

The document shown is the famous note on which, according to E. L. Doheny, oil magnate, he loaned Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, $100,000. The signature is mysteriously missing. Doheny testified he tore off the signature and gave it to his wife.

Educator Wrote Bok Prize Plan

Charles Herbert Levermore of N. Y. Presented With $50,000.

Philadelphia, Feb. 5.—Charles Herbert Levermore of New York, student of international affairs, writer and educator, is the author of plan 1,469 and winner of the American peace award donated by Edward W. Bok of Philadelphia.

His identity was revealed last night at a meeting in the Academy of Music under the auspices of the Philadelphia forum and the policy committee of the American peace award and he was presented with half of the $100,000 prize. The plan was selected from 22,165 submitted to the committee on award as the best to preserve peace among the nations of the world. Details of the winning plan, which provides for American co-operation, under certain reservations with a modified league of nations without the United States becoming a member; for adherence to the world court with the Hughes reservations and for a commission of jurists to codify international law, were made public January 7, but its author was known only to one person—a member of the policy committee.

Mr. Levermore has published several studies upon the general subject of world peace. He has been an instructor in various colleges and universities, including the University of California, Thomas Institute of Technology and Adelphi college, Brooklyn, of which he was president for 18 years. He was born in Mansfield, Conn., in 1856 and was graduated from Yale in 1879. From 1913 to 1916, he was connected with the world peace foundation in Boston.

Given $50,000 Since 1917 he has been secretary of New York Peace society and in 1922 he acted as secretary of the newly formed American Association for International Co-operation and with other officers of that body helped form the League of Nations Non-Partisan association last year. John W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain and one of the principal speakers at last night's meeting, disclosed the name of the winner of the award at the conclusion of his address and presented Mr. Levermore with a check for $50,000. He will receive the other half if his plan is endorsed by the United States senate or by a majority vote of the American people through a referendum being conducted by Mr. Bok's representatives.

When Mr. Levermore was introduced the audience arose and applauded for a full minute. Expressing his thanks for the honor accorded him, Mr. Levermore said he regarded it "as a trumpet call to service in the ranks for the establishment and maintenance of peace through justice under the law."

Bok Waxes Ironic.

Melville E. Stone, counselor of the Associated Press, presided over the meeting. Other speakers included Miss Lake and Henry L. Stimson, former secretary of war. A telegram giving the name of the winner was sent to Mr. Bok, who is in Florida, and the following reply was read by Mr. Stone:

"Will you please convey my sincere condolence to the winner of the American award winning plan and tell him I meant well. But what with the overwhelming publicity which will be his portion, to say nothing of the hundreds of accommodating persons who will tell him how to spend the money, I envy him. The only enlightening experience I see ahead of him is that, laboring under the delusion that he is a free born American citizen, he may have his personal motives investigated by a senate committee."

Debating Teams Selected.

Debating teams to represent the University of Nebraska in contests with the University of South Dakota and the University of Iowa were selected Monday afternoon. The team which will meet the South Dakota debaters includes Wendell Berge, D. C. Eyer, Gayle C. Walker and Volta Torrey, alternate.

Team which will meet the University of Iowa includes Hugh Cox, Bernard Gradwohl and Floyd E. Leavitt, with Orville C. Bosley as alternate.

far as he knows. Other children at the school, however, report being chased by the animal. It will be turned over to the Humane society.

The boy's mother works at the Welch laundry. Her employers declined to call her to the phone that she might be apprised of her son's injury. She knew nothing about it until reporters advised her of it.

Mrs. Julia Weidt, in charge of the Creche home, said that Jimmy was bitten by the same dog last summer. She said that she has recommended moving the location of the Creche home, due to the number of dogs in the neighborhood, which she considers a menace to her charges.

Another Boy Bitten.

Benny Hoffman, 6, 2622 Patrick avenue, was bitten by another dog Tuesday morning while on his way home from Long school.

The dog jumped out at him from a house at 2611 Patrick avenue, he said, and snapped at his legs, biting him several times. His injuries were attended by a police surgeon, and he was taken home.

Mrs. Sam Levine, with whom he lives, told police the same dog jumped at her Tuesday morning and tore her dress with its teeth.

Widow Halts Pleas.

Mrs. Mable Vennard, 221 Vine street, whose application for a pension indicated that Mrs. Vennard held up following a hearing in superior court in Council Bluffs, has declared her intention to make no further application for financial aid from the city, according to pension officials.

Testimony introduced at the hearing indicated that Mrs. Vennard loaned $30 to her daughters with which to buy Christmas presents. She has been receiving $6 a week toward the support of three minor children.

Iowa Retired Farmer's Throat Slashed—Mate's Skull Crushed.

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee.

Creston, Ia., Feb. 5.—His throat slashed in two places and his mouth burned with acid, Dan M. Wimmer, 72, wealthy retired farmer, was found dead on a couch in the dining room of his home here Sunday noon. His wife, her skull crushed by a crowbar and her face covered with knife wounds, lay on the kitchen floor. She was unconscious and died a few minutes later without making a statement.

Discovery of the tragedy was made by Tony Mellon, son of Mrs. Wimmer, who said he had received a telephone call from his mother about 9:30 Sunday morning. His mother told him he should go to her home as "it looked like there would be trouble," he said.

Mellon, accompanied by his wife and another woman, went to the house about noon. One of them went inside and discovered what had occurred.

A butcher knife lay under Mrs. Wimmer's body. Nearby was the iron bar, matted with blood and hair. Mrs. Wimmer's head had been terribly crushed.

Wimmer's throat was slashed in two places. Neither wound, it was said, severed the jugular vein. Both bled profusely and the kitchen was spattered with blood.

What one Woman learned 35 Years ago

Years ago when the first spoonful of Calumet Baking Powder was used, one housewife learned the secret of success on bake-day. She found that what she had thought bad luck in the past was really the fault of inferior leaveners.

Over a third of a century has passed since that housewife experienced the perfect results that came from using
