To Discourage Quacks.
Mr. Bok's Byproducts.
No Revolution, Please.
Cutting the Cow.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Write to your congressman and senators urging passage of "H. R. 5845." It would "regulate the sale of viruses, serums, toxins and similar products," and thus discourage pirates that sell fraudulent "cures." The government protects cows and pigs from fake "remedies," but when human beings are concerned the government board must license any worthless "serum" or "vaccine" as long as it is put up in clean packages.

The new law, introduced by Mr. Rathbone in the house and Dr. Copeland in the senate, would compel those selling remedies to state "in plain, prominent print" whether or not the government board of licenses approve the alleged remedy.

Dr. C. H. Levermore, who won Mr. Bok's $50,000 league of nations prize, says he is not certain what he would do if nominated for president by the republicans. He does say that the senate must adopt his plan for world peace.

Speaking of that presidential nomination, would it be fair for Dr. Levermore to take it since Mr. Bok paid the freight on that expedition? Any byproducts such as presidential nomination, should go to him. The fact that Mr. Bok wasn't born in the United States needn't interfere. With a league of nations telling the United States what to do that part of the constitution might be changed. It might, in order to mix up the nations thoroughly and promote brotherhood; it might even be decided that only people born outside of the United States would be eligible to the presidency.

Mr. W. Z. Foster, addressing 15,000 in New York's Madison Square Garden, advises his friends to "join the party of Lenin and further the work of revolution in the United States."

Why not wait a while and see just how the revolution in Russia comes out? Even a little thing like a revolution ought to be first considered and then begun rather carefully. And the people should be consulted before you hand a revolution to them.

You might find in the United States 15,000 really wanting a revolution, especially if they didn't understand clearly what a revolution would mean. Against the 15,000 you would have 109,985,000 "not" wanting a revolution. These also should be considered.

The world still studies the first labor government that the old earth as ever seen, now in charge of the British empire. You can't call the government of the French revolution or the present Russian government "a labor government," they are purely revolutionary and socialist.

Ramsay MacDonald, British labor prime minister, gives up one of two 25,000 salaries to which he is entitled.

The English have brains enough to pay well men to whom they give important jobs. This makes it unnecessary for oil companies or others to pay them after they leave office for services rendered while in office.

British labor also decides that it will not make a "capital levy" which means taking away so much from the capital of each individual.

That's a wise suggestion. It's all right to milk a cow, but it's a mistake to cut a piece out of her—that discourages the cow.

Capital is a good deal like a cow when it comes to cutting pieces out of it. It loses courage, lies down and doesn't feel very well.

It is said of the great Protestant Episcopal cathedral, now building in Washington, that it is to be "the westminister abbey of the United States." It takes more than a fine building, however, to make a Westminister abbey. You couldn't create a Mount Vernon by building a nice country house on the edge of a river. You must first have your George Washington.

To create a Westminister abbey you want 1,000 years of history, and 1,000 years of great men. It can't be made to order.

Between professors and modernist clergymen, you hardly know what to believe. Here's Dr. Chiera, who teaches Assyriology at the University of Pennsylvania, saying that Adam was only an animal, running around without clothing, because he didn't know any better. He adds that the Garden of Eden was really nothing but a desert; that our story of creation was concocted in Babylon, where the Jewish writers of the Old Testament got it long ago.

Prof. Chiera says that it wasn't shame that made Adam and Eve put on clothing, but common sense. And people got more intelligence when they changed from animals to gentlemen and ladies wearing ready-made clothing. He even goes so far as to say, "I would not worship a God who murders and drowns thousands of people."

Official of Bank Arrested. Sioux City, Feb. 6.—A Webster City (S. D.) special to the Journal says:

"Sheriff Buhler arrested R. L. Nordness of Lily, an officer of the failed Farmers Home bank of Lily, on a warrant charging him with knowingly permitting shareholders of the Farmers' Home bank of Lily to become indebted to the bank in an amount exceeding 50 per cent of the capital stock."

The preliminary hearing of Mr. Nordness will be held in Webster on Friday. The Lily bank was closed some months ago and now is in the hands of the state banking department."

Cupid Trapps Log Mansion Millionaire

Berne H. Hopkins, Wealthy Ranch Owner South of Bluffs, Goes East With Fiancee.

Romance has come to the log mansion south of Council Bluffs, opposite Child's Point, where lives Berne H. Hopkins, reputed to be several times a millionaire.

Hopkins left Council Bluffs last Saturday for New York City with Miss Portia Doud, former nurse of Kansas City, his fiancee. It is reported that they will be married before their return.

In spite of the fact that the exterior of the Hopkins mansion is of rough-hewn logs, located near the center of a 1,500-acre tract of land, it was recently decorated on the interior at a cost of $35,000. He has other homes in New York, Los Angeles, Florida and Colorado Springs, but prefers his log mansion on an Iowa farm.

Born on Iowa Farm. Hopkins was born on an Iowa farm boy. His father made fortunate oil investments. Hopkins, after attaining his majority, made a few happy investments of his own. His fortune is estimated at $25,000,000.

The pleasures of a world run pleasure mad were at the beck of his hand, at the scratch of his pen on a check book.

He preferred an Iowa farm. After his graduation from Princeton university, he bought the tract of land near Council Bluffs, on which he built his log house, and which is equipped to care for 25,000 pure bred hogs and choice cattle.

His mother lives in his house at Colorado Springs, together with his two children by his first wife, who is now divorced.

Met at Kansas City. The multi-millionaire met the woman he intends to marry while in Kansas City more than a year ago. She has visited at the Hopkins home on the ranch near the river, where her fiance lives with his brother. It is understood she has in mind a few decorations of her own for the log palace.

She is a young woman in her 20s. Hopkins is about 40.

Mrs. Harding's Mail Goes Free

All mail sent out by the widow of the late President Warren G. Harding will be carried free if it bears her written signature on the envelope, according to an order received today at the local post office.

Nebraska Division Leads. The Nebraska division of the Union Pacific railroad shopmen ranked first for the year 1923 in the National Safety First campaign. The figures, recently compiled, show that of all class one railroads, the Union Pacific was first in safety and the Nebraska division of that road was first of all divisions.

Norris Turns Guns on Senators Who Dabbled in Sinclair Oil

Suggests Probe of Wall Street Books to Reach Speculators Who Took Advantage of Teapot Lease.

By Universal Service. Washington, Feb. 5.—Senator Norris, leader among the republican progressives of the upper house, and until the present congress, a member of the senate committee investigating the oil lease scandal, today issued the following statement:

By GEORGE W. NORRIS, United States Senator from Nebraska. I am informed there is a report current that a number of senators and other high government officials in Washington bought Sinclair Consolidated Oil stock before the announcement of the lease by Secretary of the Interior Fall to Sinclair of Teapot Dome, and then sold that stock after the announcement of the lease when the stock had risen.

I am asked what procedure could be taken by the investigating committee to ascertain the truth in regard to this report.

In my judgment the committee ought to go to the very bottom of the entire matter and permit no avenue of escape for anybody, regardless of the position he may hold.

I think the facts could be very readily ascertained if the committee would issue a subpoena, returnable forthwith, directing the proper officer of the New York Stock exchange to appear before the committee with the books that would show all the stock dealings from Washington covering the time specified.

These books would show the amount of stock and the number of shares dealt in from day to day, with the price paid and the price received when the sale was made after publicity had been given to the Teapot Dome lease. The books would probably not show the names of the officials who bought and sold, but they would show the names of the stockbrokers in Washington through whom the deals were consummated.

Then the committee could follow up this information by subpoenaing these several stockbrokers and compelling them to divulge the names of their clients and to account for any discrepancies in totals that might exist between the books of the stockbrokers in Washington and the records of the exchange in New York. I have no doubt whatever that the committee will go to the bottom of the whole thing. They cannot afford to do anything less; and in my opinion they desire to bring out all the facts and disclose all the circumstances connected with the affair.

Haas Brothers

Eight Years Ago Our Judgment Was to Locate in Omaha

We visited many cities before effecting this decision. Omaha possessed every qualification that could be desired by any new business.

Today the Haas Brothers Stores are found in three cities, Omaha, Minneapolis and Lincoln, with buying offices maintained on Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Omaha freely responds to the business institution that renders a conscientious service. Haas Brothers have constantly endeavored to serve their patrons in such a manner as to gain and maintain their good will.

During Know Omaha Week we invite you to visit our shops, to inspect the New Spring Creations that are arriving daily. Whether purchases are contemplated or not, we welcome you.

1 A Battery	24.15
2 B Batteries	11.00
1 Head Set	6.00
1 Loud Speaker	30.00

COMPLETE $226.15

Terms if You Wish.

What You May Expect in the GAROD

1. Simplicity of Tuning. The ease and simplicity in "tuning in" makes the Garod Broadcast Receiver especially desirable to Novice Radio Enthusiasts. If you are able to turn a knob, you are qualified to operate this instrument.
2. No Objectionable Squeals. Conflicting sound waves often produce squeals that harass the listener. This unique device does away with these irrelevant noises inherent in oscillating circuit receivers.
3. Clarity of Tone. The Garod Broadcast Receiver has excellent tonal qualities. Full and well-modulated that makes listening in a pleasure.
4. Selectivity. The splendid range of this Receiver permits of discrimination in "tuning in" on any Broadcast program you desire. Your field is not limited. The choice is up to you.
5. D. X. Reception. Numerous tests have proved that this Receiver will catch radiophone concerts at a distance averaging 1,000 miles. Inexperienced operators regularly accomplish this. AND another equally important factor is price plus quality. This Receiver retails at a price far less than many inferior products.

Boy Says Parents Deserted Him

Otis Aaffort, 13, who disappeared Sunday morning from the home of his mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Edmundson, 602 South Twenty-third street, Council Bluffs, was discovered early Monday morning wandering about the streets of Shenandoah, Ia.

He told R. R. Brady, night watchman, that his parents drove him to Shenandoah in an automobile and after telling him to go into a hotel lobby to get warm, drove away.

He was sent to Maryville, Mo., the home of his grandparents. Mrs. Edmundson this morning characterized the boy's story as pure fiction.

Bankruptcy Plea. Fred Gearhart, farmer living near Harlan, Ia., filed petition in voluntary bankruptcy in federal court in Council Bluffs yesterday. He lists his liabilities at $2,457 and his assets at $2,375.

Bill to Forbid Alien Hunters

Members of the Council Bluffs Fish and Game club, together with other Council Bluffs sportsmen, have prevailed upon W. E. Children, state legislator, to introduce a bill prohibiting the issuance of hunting licenses to aliens.

The sentiment which prompted the bill had its inception in 1922 when E. A. Lindgren, deputy United States game warden, was shot and killed by Louis and Sebastian Esposito, who are now serving life terms for the slaying.

Alleged Forger Held. R. C. Sweet was arrested yesterday in Council Bluffs on a warrant from Harrison county, charging him with forgery. He was to be taken to Logan, Ia., to face the charge, today.

Know Omaha

I have believed in Omaha, since the days when it was a frontier town. I am convinced that if the present generation will continue to progress as their fathers progressed, if they have the same abiding faith in the destiny of the West, Omaha will occupy an even more important place among cities than it does now.

When I read the New Year's reports of the tremendous volume of packing, grain, smelting and creamery business done here, I could scarcely realize that this is my city. We, each one of us, you and I, must continue our march of progress, to help upbuild the community in which we live that all may enjoy life the more.

Know Omaha, its citizens are the best in the world; know Omaha, its business is the envy of many a larger city. Have faith, for this city will progress and grow as we ourselves make it grow and as we help the territory about us to prosper.
