"My Husband's Love"

Madge's Interview With a Tenacious Visitor.

I followed Katie out of the library quietly, but my heart was pounding with excitement at the summons. A stranger in the kitchen meant nothing at any ordinary time, but this afternoon—I caught my breath as I came within vision of the opened kitchen door, and saw standing by the table the flat-footed man whom Lillian had labeled as a detective when we saw him entering the post office.

"Here's the missus," Jim said, as I came in the door and looked with inquiry, which I tried to make casual, at the intruder.

He swept off his hat hastily and clumsily. "Good afternoon," he said.

"I've just bought in with a little express business in the village, and I'm around trying to drum up a little trade. If you expect to have any moving, or trunks, or baggage, any time, I'm sure you'll find my prices very reasonable."

He had lost no time in beginning to trace the movements of the orphaned Harrison children, whom their father's family were so anxious to secure.

That was my first apprehensive thought, followed quickly, however, by a more reassuring one. The man was altogether too clumsy in his sleuthing. I felt that I could outwit him myself, even if Lillian were not close at hand, royal aid in any emergency.

"What business did you buy?" I asked as if interested. "Hall's?"

"Choking Back a Laugh." "No, that isn't the name." He fumbled in his memory. "Jim Jones, that's it."

I choked a laugh back with difficulty. The thing was too absurd.

"Smiling Jim Jones" was the town's laughing stock, a poor halfwit, with an old emaciated horse and a small wagon, who picked up an occasional odd job despised by the two up-to-date motor expresses which the village boasted.

"That ought to be very nice for Mr. Jones," I went on with a sympathetic note in my voice. "I am afraid he doesn't get very many jobs—his outfit—"

"Oh! I'm going to change all that," he interpolated hastily. "I've a motor truck of my own, and I'm having it driven down here. You'll see we'll be just as up-to-date as any of the others—more so, I hope you'll give us a trial Mrs. Harris—Mrs. Graham."

I pretended not to notice the slip but from beneath my half-lowered lashes—a trick Lillian taught me long ago—I saw his quick, furtive, apprehensive glance at me. The misplaced name drove home the last nail in my suspicion. He was a detective sent by the family of William Harrison upon the trail of his children and his subconsciousness had been so full of the name that it had swung into his conscious utterance before he could repress it.

Building Determination. "Oh, yes, indeed. I'll send for you if I ever need anything in your line," I assured him largely. "I should like very much to help poor old Mr. Jones in any way I could. I do not know, however, when we shall have any expressing to do, not for weeks any way."

You see the only traveling he do is when my husband and I go back and forth to the city, and then we only have light luggage, which goes in our own car."

He moistened his lips slyly with his tongue, but I saw him do it, and was prepared for his next question.

"But," he stammered—"I understood—someone told me—you see I've been trying to pick up trade around for several days, and one person sends me to another—that you had a lot of people here on a visit, children, and grown-ups, and they would be going away soon. I thought—perhaps—children take so much baggage—you know."

It was most clumsily done, but underneath the man's awkwardness I recognized a tenacity which made me uneasy. I looked more closely at him and saw beneath the lips, which were babbling so aimlessly, a bulldog jaw which looked as if it would never let go anything upon which it once had clamped.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, and emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Omaha--

The City of Action

Omaha is a city of action; a city pulsating with the vigor of youth—yet stabilized with the mature experience of her pioneers who blazed the trail but seventy years ago.

With the development of Omaha came great hotels—and during the last ten years more hotels have been built and opened than in the previous sixty years.

This is most pronounced evidence of the confidence which Omaha hotel men have in their city.
