

Senate Passes Eugenic Law

Iowa Solons Adopt Physical Examination Clause in New License Bill.

By Associated Press
Des Moines, Feb. 6.—The Iowa senate Tuesday passed the marriage bill to which an eugenics amendment providing for physical examination of men who apply for marriage licenses, had been attached. Adoption of the eugenics amendment was the subject of a 4-hour fight in which opponents of the 10-day notice clause, voted down two weeks ago, again took the lead in opposing any change in the present law relating to marriage.

Senators Gilchrist of Pocahontas and Hoedogge of Calhoun were authors of the eugenics amendment and defended it against attacks from all angles, with such skill that the amendment carried by a vote of 31 to 13, and the bill passed, 29 to 15.

The day also brought forth filing in the senate by Senator Browne of Jackson county of the resolution he prepared last week asking that a senate committee investigate the affairs of the insurance department. The resolution charges that the department is not properly supervising the conduct of insurance companies of the state. The resolution probably will come up for consideration tomorrow.

Joint Memorial.
The senate also agreed with the house that a joint memorial should be held at 11 today in memory of Woodrow Wilson. M. T. Healy of Fort Dodge, a prominent democrat, will eulogize the late ex-president and Governor Kendall will preside.

Senator Gilchrist, in presenting his eugenics amendment, pointed to army reports to show that an evil which we should correct exists. These reports he declared, show that in the second million of men drafted for service in the world war, about three out of every 100 was infected with social disease. More lives are taken by these diseases each year than Great Britain lost in any one year of the great war, he asserted. He appealed for passage of the amendment as a protection to the youth of today and to future generations.

Baird Opposed.
Senator Hoedogge emphasized the hereditary nature of the diseases and told the members they were responsible, as representatives of society in general, for the progress of civilization or the decadence of the race.

Opponents included Senator Baird of Pottawattamie, who again reviewed the argument he advanced against the 10-day clause as to the probability that Iowa young people would go to other states to be married, as Nebraskaans now come to Iowa. It was the duty of parents, he declared, to see that young people who are not physically fit to marry do not do so.

The amendment was legislation for the exception rather than the rule, he declared.

Sensors Horchem of Dubuque and Shinn of Harrison also spoke against the amendment, declaring it infringing the rights of the individual.

He is expected to reach Washington early Saturday morning. He will be met enroute by his confidential secretary, Warren F. Martin.

Men Who Are Making Omaha

John Laurerdale Kennedy was born in Scotland, and took the first 19 years of his life to make up his mind that Omaha was waiting for him. He did not then come directly here, but spent four years farming in Illinois, the while he attended Knox college, but did not graduate. He finished his law course at Iowa state university in 1882, and then came to Omaha to practice law.

He has been in congress and also served as a member of the Fire and Police board; spent one whole summer campaigning for woman suffrage; is president of the United States National bank, a director in the United States Trust and the Brandeis companies, and is actively interested in about all the public movements being carried on in Omaha.

Mr. Kennedy's activities have taken him away from the general practice of the law, but having started some 40 years ago as attorney for the Brandeis interests he continues in that capacity and maintains offices with the other executives at the Brandeis store.

Kerosene on Fire Burns Farmer

Two Children Also Injured When Man Tries to Hurry Wife's Cooking.

Bachelor Farmer Hurt by Kerosene in Stove
Grand Island, Neb., Feb. 6.—Joseph Hell was brought to a hospital in this city from his home at Rockville, badly burned as a result of an explosion when he attempted to start a fire with kerosene. Though the burns are serious, recovery is hoped for. Hell is a bachelor farmer.

Hubbell, Neb., Feb. 6.—Ed Brew, 37-year-old farmer, living in Kansas, just over the state line, four miles southwest of Hubbell, is burned so badly all over his body that his death is a matter of a few hours. A 5-year-old child is perhaps fatally burned on the face and chest, and a second child is severely burned on the arms and hands, and the Brew farm house and furniture is damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars, as the result of a kerosene explosion in the kitchen of the home today.

Brew attempted to start a fire for his wife to prepare a meal, and he poured kerosene from a can on supposedly dead coals in the kitchen stove. Flames burst out with a roar, exploding the can and throwing fire all about the room. Brew was a pillar of fire from head to foot immediately.

One of the children on the floor was set on fire, and the blaze was communicated to the other as it was carried to safety.

Brew ran to his brother's home and back, a quarter of a mile away, for help, the flames on his clothing being fanned by the wind as he ran.

Rural telephones are out of commission on account of the recent high wind and blizzard in this vicinity. The wife saved herself and three children from being burned alive, and neighbors succeeded in extinguishing the flames before they got beyond the one room in the home.

The Railroad Dollar

SOME men in public life are proposing to compel reductions in rates with no thought of making such reductions possible by aiding in the reduction of expenses.

THE railroads today are returning back to the people by way of wages, purchase of materials and supplies, and taxes, almost all the money they take in.

IN 1922 each dollar received from patrons of the Chicago and North Western Railway Company was used as follows:

Paid for materials...	32.66 cents
Paid for taxes.....	6.16 "
Paid for labor.....	48.92 "
Paid for interest....	7.67 "
Paid for rentals....	0.59 "
Paid for dividends..	4.00 "
Total.....	100.00 "

IF REDUCTIONS in rates are to be had, there must first be some way of reducing expenses.

A STUDY of the foregoing table will show where the railroad dollar is going.

THE present level of freight rates is not caused by the valuation of the railroads nor by the net return they are receiving.

Know Omaha--

Have You Ever Been Told

That Omaha ranks ahead of both St. Louis and Kansas City as a Home Office Insurance Center, but that it ranks second to Des Moines?

That the remarkable development of Des Moines as a financial center is largely due to the number of insurance companies maintaining Home Offices in Des Moines?

That twenty-one insurance companies with assets exceeding one hundred and fifty millions of dollars maintain their home offices in Omaha?

That the premium income of Omaha companies exceeds Thirty Millions of Dollars annually?

That these Omaha companies employ thousands of Omaha men and women and pay out in salaries to residents of your city, your friends and perhaps your neighbors, approximately Two Million Dollars annually?

That you can assist in developing Omaha as an Insurance Center by giving Home Office companies first consideration when you purchase insurance. If Omaha is going to be built Omaha enterprises must build it.
