Men Who Are Making Omaha

Thirty-six years ago, come June, the University of Wisconsin college of law slipped a sheepskin to a young man and told him to go out and make a name for himself.

He had one already, on the register of the school, but it was not one to make people sit up and take notice. Now it is.

Matthew A. Hall headed almost straight from school to Omaha, and has practiced law assiduously in this community ever since.

Along with the law practice he has found time to represent the British empire as vice consul here, and has had considerable business in this line. As organizer and head of the Victoria Diamond Jubilee association, he assisted in raising a considerable fund for Omaha charities.

Modern Divorce Mill Is Teeming With Correspondents, Love Notes

The modern divorce suit has ceased to be a strictly family affair. In the old days when divorces were less numerous the husband testified that his wife was too eager to distribute the contents of his pay envelope; or the wife testified that her husband was too willing to demonstrate his fiscal ability.

Wives frequently came into divorce court with black eyes and husbands usually complained that their wives refused to do the washing, or got angry and threw dishes when they came home late for dinner or insisted in buying more silk hose than really needed.

But there has been a change. If you don't believe it ask District Judge L. B. Day, who is in charge of the court of domestic relations.

Correspondents, Love Notes. Nowadays, no divorce case is really complete without correspondents and love notes.

Wives declare their husbands are lotharios; husbands assert their wives are as bad as Cleopatra ever dared to be.

Judge Day is inclined to discount many of these infidelity charges. He wants to believe that the marriage vows means as much today as they did 10 years ago.

But when they begin producing mush letters and even bring correspondents to my court, I can't ignore the fact that too much affection is being misplaced," said the judge. "In many cases these amours seem to be carried on in a most brazen manner. There seems to be no attempt at secrecy."

Omahans Buy Armour Share of Stockyards

Buckingham, Smith and Coad Involved in Million Dollar Transaction; Transfer Complete Wednesday

A business transaction involving the transfer of more than a million dollars in cash, whereby a group of local men comes into possession of the Armour interest in the Union Stockyards of South Omaha was announced Saturday. The transfer will be completed Wednesday of this week.

Sale of the Armour interests was forced by the packer control law passed by congress, but the company still had several months in which to dispose of its holdings to comply with the provisions of the law.

Forty or 50 Omaha men are involved in the transaction. The group is headed by W. Farnam Smith, Everett Buckingham and W. P. Coad. Smith was in Chicago Saturday in connection with the deal, but was expected to return to Omaha Monday. The transfer involves 12,000 shares, the largest single block of stock in the stockyards company. The sale will make no change in the present control and management of the yards. Although the stock, on the basis of its earnings, is rated above par, the purchase, due to the fact that the Omaha men were prepared to pay cash, was "somewhere between 92 and 100."

Woman Files for Legislature But Hates Publicity

Mary Kennedy of Omaha Differs From Most Other Candidates in This Particular.

Miss Mary Kennedy, 2336 South Tenth street, filed yesterday on the democratic ticket as a candidate for the state legislature from the Thirtieth district. She is the first woman candidate for that office.

"What is your platform?" Miss Kennedy was asked. "I haven't decided yet," she replied. "How did you happen to decide to file for the office?"

"Oh, I thought women should get into politics."

"Have you had any political experience?"

"No, only I worked down at the democratic headquarters during the last campaign."

"What is your occupation, Miss Kennedy?"

"Why should I tell all about myself? I have nothing to say. Haven't you any respect for the rights of individuals? Why should I be written up in the paper? I don't care to be the subject of any newspaper articles. I have nothing to say."

And thus ended the first interview with the first woman candidate for the state legislature.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking for any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it was sponged or soft brushed with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray has disappeared, but what delights the ladies, with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Simple Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this get two ounces of calomine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The calomine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.
