Pressure to Soft-Pedal Probe Taken to Indicate Group of Senator's Involved in Oil Deals.

Washington, Feb. 20 .- The admison today by United States Senator David E. Elkins, republican, West Virginia, that he speculated in Sinclair Consolidated Oil stock was declared to be only an entering wedge into a situation, which if developed officially, will show that a large group in the enate, in addition to administration officials, have been playing the stock market regularly.

This, it is unofficially admitted, is the reason back of the tremendous pressure brought by individual senaors to soft-pedal the investigation. It is the reason behind the secret essions of the probe committee.

It is the unconfessed justification for sequestering witnesses behind the committee's closed doors and cautiously feeling out the character and probable extent of their information. The expert accountants from the ederal trade commission who have been studying the books of Washington and New York brokerage houses, have had in their possession or days the names of these stockgambling senators and administration officials. Yet every inquiry put to the committee as to what progress these accountants have made has brought the reply:

'We don't know yet. We haven't asked them yet." The committee was definitely informed weeks ago that a certain Washington brokerage house carried the accounts of high officials of the government under numbers instead of their names. These numbers were given to the accountants before they set to work on the brokers' books. Yet the name of Senator Elkins, disclosed in secret session of the committee yesterday and jealously guard-Amendment Passed Giving ed by the committee, is the only name thus far made public on the list of stock gamblers in congress. Washington, Feb. 20 .- Harry M. Daugherty will resign as attorney general of the United States within 24 hours, if his resignation is not already in the hands of the president, it was indicated tonight. He saw the president shortly before noon today,
