

Several Hope to See Execution

Walter Simmons, Doomed to Die May 23, Makes Effort to Locate "Real Slayers."

Spencer, Neb., Feb. 20.—A number of persons in this county are planning to go to Lincoln to witness, if possible, the execution of Walter Simmons who, according to the decision of the supreme court, is to be electrocuted on May 23 for the murder of Frank Pahl, Spencer automobile man.

Norfolk, Neb., Feb. 20.—A letter received in Norfolk by a newspaper man from Walter Simmons, who is now in the state penitentiary, states that Simmons and his friends are making a desperate effort to locate a man named "Currier" and one named "Jack," who Simmons says were the men who killed Pahl. Simmons declares that he will take the matter before the circuit court of appeals and that new evidence will be laid before that court. This new evidence, Simmons says, is in his favor. He has issued a statement declaring again that he did not kill Pahl and that he was convicted on circumstantial evidence.

"All I ask of the public is: Do they think a man should be convicted and electrocuted on circumstantial evidence," he asks. "My people are praying for me now, just as all of the people prayed for me when I, with others, went to war when my country wanted me."

Fast Train Smashes Auto; Driver Escapes

Superior, Neb., Feb. 20.—While Burlington passenger train No. 16, east-bound, was running 50 miles an hour, it struck a coupe occupied by Alfred Hanson, 35, farmer, living just southwest of Superior. The accident occurred about two miles west of town, at a place where there is said to be a private crossing.

The engineer stated he did not think the auto would turn onto the track. Hanson says he did not hear or see the train. The auto was literally smashed to bits, parts of it being strewn for several hundred feet along the tracks. When the train came to a stop, the crew found that Hanson had been thrown clear of the wreckage, and while he is badly cut and bruised, and had one ear nearly torn off, he is not seriously injured, according to physicians.

Youth Loses Hand and Eye in Gun Accident

Blue Hill, Neb., Feb. 20.—Andrew Lammman, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lammman, who reside two and one-half miles south of Rosemont, and eight miles southeast of here, lost his right hand by amputation, and the sight of his left eye, as the result of the accidental discharge of a shotgun.

He was shooting at jackrabbits, from a wagon, and as he fired, the horses evident jumped, tipping the wagon, and knocking the gun from the boy's grasp in such a way that the shot lodged in his right hand and left side of his face. The team brought the wagon to the house with the boy nearly unconscious. He managed to walk to the house, and medical aid was summoned. He was rushed to the Mary Lanning hospital at Hastings, where the hand was amputated that evening.

Bishop Shayer Addresses Wayne College Students

Wayne, Neb., Feb. 21.—Bishop Shayer of Omaha, Episcopal bishop of the diocese of Nebraska, spoke to the students and faculty of Wayne State Teachers' college Tuesday morning. The speaker linked the names of Washington, Lincoln and Wilson by the resemblance apparent in the field that both Washington and Lincoln were compelled by their problems to think only of the immediate life about them, while Wilson, acting in the same spirit that actuated his predecessors, saw the international aspects of life.

Beatrice Talks of Filter

Beatrice, Neb., Feb. 20.—The water problem and the installation of a filtration plant here, were subjects discussed at length at a meeting of business men of Beatrice. Engineers who spoke were G. T. Prince and H. H. Hennington of Omaha; F. M. Veatch and W. V. Winters of Kansas City. They figured that it would cost the city about $85,000 for a first-class filtering system. No action was taken at the meeting, and it will be up to the city commissioners to employ an engineer to get in touch with engineers who are familiar with the water supply problem.

Men Who Are Making Omaha

W. J. Coad

Omaha has always been a "young man's town." Its growth was not promoted nor its prosperity secured by the Armour holdings in that institution. Mr. Coad is president of the Omaha Flour Mills company, one of the big institutions that turns our food for the world, and helps the city make good on the Strindberg line.

That portion of the city noted on the railroad records as South Norfolk was made part of the city many years ago. Business men went to the Chamber of Commerce for relief and now many conferences are being held between railroad officials and the Chamber of Commerce directors, with hopes that Norfolk will be put on the main line of the railroad as advertised by the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce for years past.

Mr. Coad has served since 1912 as a member of the board of directors of the Metropolitan Utilities district; he is vice president of the Packers National bank, a director in the Federal Reserve bank of the Tenth district, and a member of the board of regents of Creighton university. He also finds time in his busy day to help out whenever called upon to assist in any worthy local project. When not busy plays golf and takes part in other outdoor sports.

Newcastle—Snow that fell intermittently in northeast Nebraska, followed by sleet, has filled the ruts and holes in the highways and made good sleighing. This will open up the way for a normal movement of commodities which have been tied up on account of road conditions.

City Finds It's on Branch Line

Norfolk Business Men Up in Arms Over Discovery of Listing by Railroad.

Norfolk, Neb., Feb. 20.—Norfolk business men are up in arms over the sudden discovery that Norfolk is not on the main line of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad. The discovery was made when certain business men were working out freight rate problems and found the tariff books of the Chicago & Northwestern placed Norfolk as "the first stop on the Bonesteel branch," and that "South Norfolk," which does not exist in city records, is the closest point to Norfolk on the railroad's main line.

Because Norfolk is not on the main line of the railroad, it cannot be considered an intermediate point by the freight department. It costs 5 cents extra passenger fare to go to Norfolk from the south part of town. People at distant points asking for tickets to Norfolk are told that "Norfolk is not on the main line of the road and that 'South Norfolk' is the closest point the railroad can haul them."

That portion of the city noted on the railroad records as South Norfolk was made part of the city many years ago. Business men went to the Chamber of Commerce for relief and now many conferences are being held between railroad officials and the Chamber of Commerce directors, with hopes that Norfolk will be put on the main line of the railroad as advertised by the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce for years past.
