THE OMAHA SUNDAY BEE MUSIC THEATER RADIO PHOTOPLAY FIVE CENTS VOL. 53-NO. 39 OMAHA, SUNDAY MORNING, MARCH 9, 1924. PART FOUR 1-D Impending Joys What Omaha Theaters Offer Patrons This Week Holds Much Attractiveness FTER a play develops into an overnight success it is always interesting to learn that it has been turned down by veteran produc-ing managers. 'The Cat and the Can-"ary," coming to the Brandels theater tomorrow, for a return engagement had such a history and wound up by making a fortune for a little known author, a young producing firm and a new theater in New York city. The general verdict of the exper enced men of the theater, after reading the manuscript of "The Cat and the Canary," was that it was "too strong meat." Finally, the author, John Willard, sent the script to Kil-bourn Gordon, Inc., a combination of Seymour AT THE ORPHEUM young and enterprising men who were not handicapped by any fears as to what "the dear public" might George Hackathorn, AND Lloyd Hughes AT THE SUM not like. They accepted the play at once and produced it in a theater that had not up to that itme housed a winner. "One of those freak suc-cesses," said the managers who had rejected the play. / "New York may Movies Tell fall for it, but wait till it hits the Stories Now So Kilbourn Gordon, Inc., organized another company which went to Chi-cago and stayed there 36 weeks.
