New York --Day by Day--

By O. O. McINTYRE.
New York, March 8.—Few know the heart tugs that follow the end of a theatrical run in New York when the players begin the pilgrimage to the provinces. A year's run in a theater brings many close knit attachments.

A hundred, and many times more, persons are in close and intimate contact daily for many hours. There is a camaraderie existing among all—the scene shifters, box office employees, players and ushers. When the call board announces the close of a play there is always weeping.

It means the breaking up of happy companionship. There are many who refuse to leave New York. So new faces appear. Apartments and homes must be given up for the drab atmosphere of hotel rooms in strange and lonely cities.

Daughters must leave their mothers, husbands their wives, and girls and men their sweethearts. The final night is always tinged with sadness. Performers go through their parts in a flood of melancholy memories. The time has come to say goodbye to old scenes, old friends.

Stage folk are invariably sentimentalists. It is the custom to say the final goodbyes to the old stage doorman the last thing. He is in many cases a sort of father confessor for the troupe. He has for months shared their confidences—their joys and sorrows.

As a rule there is a midnight dinner on the stage the night of the final goodbyes to the old stage doorman. He is in many cases a sort of father confessor for the troupe. He has for months shared their confidences—their joys and sorrows.

Even the producer gets into the spirit of the farewell and joins the gathering. All the petty bickerings of the spot-light world vanish under the mellow communion preceding a farewell.

There is some danger in the wrist watch after all. The hostess of a Greenwich Village midnight speakeasy became angered at a patron who complained about the excessive charge. In a flurry of temper she struck at him and in defense he threw up the wrist that carried a watch. The hand of the hostess struck the crystal and cracked it. A silver of the silver entered her finger. Infection followed and for six weeks she was in a hospital.

There is a little apartment on West Nineteenth street from which emanates most of the pot-boller mystery and detective stories for cheaper magazines. The apartment is occupied by three young writers who specialize in thrills and shudders, mysterious noises, vanishing jewels and letters in blood. One enters in the afternoon to hear three typewriters clicking clues and false trails. The other day when I was there one said to another: "Where have you got your villain now?"

"I've got him shanghaied for China," was the reply "but I don't know who to do with him when he gets there."

"Let him learn to play Mah Jong," came a voice from the next room. "That's torture enough for any villain."

Writers of fiction are at times tremendously sincere about their puppets. A New York magazine editor tells of visiting an authoress and finding her shedding furtive tears over the plight of a poor widow in her story. "I want to bury her," she said, "but I just haven't the heart to kill her."

I have a friend who once wrote a story with baronies and dukes. It consisted of clipped hedges, moated castles and knights in armor. It was so grand he sent it away post haste to a magazine and that night his daughter said: "Daddy, can I read your story when it comes back?" Three days later she did.

Candidate for State Legislature Favors Six-Day School Week

Beatrice, Neb., March 8.—O. E. Kratzer of Virginia filed as a candidate for the legislature from the Thirtieth representative district. If elected, among other things, he will advocate six days school instead of five, with no more holidays on Saturday. He urges a shorter school year and a longer summer vacation, which may quell a rebellion over the six-day plan on the part of Young America.

Hydraulic Sand Plant Operates at Fairbury

Fairbury, Neb., March 8.—The hydraulic sand plant of the DuVal Sand and Gravel company at Fairbury is perhaps the only one of its kind in the United States and similar to the system used in South America to wash down a mountain and deposit material in the ocean to make room for the expansion of a city for building lots. The water for the DuVal plant is carried a mile and forced through a giant nozzle with sufficient force to tear a man to pieces at 100 feet.

The water washes the sand and gravel to a sump, where it is picked up by a heavy duty pump and forced several hundred feet to the separators over the cars where the dirt, quick sand, organic matter and all foreign material is washed away.

Mr. DuVal has some beautiful specimens of topazes found in this deposit and cut by Tiffany in New York city.

They frequently wash down bones of great weight and size, too large to compare with any animals of this age. The material produced from this pit is considered of high quality by contractors.

New Method Heals Rupture

Kansas City Doctor's Discovery Makes Truss or Operation Unnecessary.

Kansas City, Mo.—(Special)—A new discovery which, experts agree, has no equal for curative effects in all rupture cases, is the latest accomplishment of Dr. Andrews, the well known Hernia specialist of this city. The extraordinary success of this new method proves that it holds and heals a rupture. It weighs only a few ounces. Has no hard gouging pads, no elastic belt, no leg straps, no steel bands, and is as comfortable as a light garment. It has enabled hundreds of persons to throw away trusses and declare their rupture absolutely healed. Many of these had serious double ruptures, from which they had suffered for years. It is Dr. Andrews' ambition to have every ruptured person enjoy the quick relief, comfort and healing power of his discovery, and he will send it on free trial to any reader of The Bee who writes him at his office 1503 Koch Bldg., Kansas City Mo. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he can refer. If you wish to be rid of rupture for good, without an operation, take advantage of the doctor's free offer. Write him today.—Advertisement.

Are Your Kidneys Weak?

Thousands of Men and Women Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalence of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are among the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patients, who usually content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease constantly undermines the system.

Weak kidneys may cause lumbago, rheumatism, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints or muscles, at times have headache or indigestion, as time passes you may have a sallow complexion, puffiness of the eyes, some times feel as though you had heart trouble, may have plenty of ambition, but no strength, get weak and lose flesh.
