

Interest Shown in Labor School

Formation of Like Institutions to Depend on Success of Des Moines College.

By Associated Press. Des Moines, March 7.—Throughout the middle west, labor and trade assemblies are watching the fortunes of the new labor college opened here under the auspices of organized labor. On its success and on its approval by the labor of this city, the formation of like institutions in other cities in this part of the country probably will depend.

The Des Moines Labor college is the first to be organized in Iowa and one of the very few now in existence in the United States. It is patterned closely after the Labor college of Denver where hundreds of men in labor circles are now receiving rudimentary and advanced instruction in a variety of subjects.

The college here opened recently with an enrollment of 150 men, said to be far greater than the original enrollment of other labor colleges in America. A group of competent instructors have charge of the classes. These classes are open only to members of some division of organized labor.

In the college here public speaking enjoys the largest enrollment, with English (grammar) and practical arithmetic following closely in preference. Other subjects taught are labor law, current events, history of the labor movement, principles of economics and psychology.

A board of directors consisting of 17 men, 30 of whom were chosen from the labor organizations and seven of whom are representative business men here, has control of the college. An executive committee chosen from this board governs the policies of the college.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You can Bring Back Color and Luster with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Men Who Are Making Omaha

Frank H. Gaines

Every man who comes to anything like real success in life should have a motto to guide him. Frank H. Gaines has one: "To build a happy fire-side home for wife and children, that's the noblest purpose and sublime of human life."

His philosophy is to radiate cheer and optimism. "If," he says, "I would endeavor to do so, Omaha would be the finest city in the world." Acting on this he has made for himself a firm place in the city of his adoption.

Chronologically: Frank H. Gaines was born at Galesburg Ill., on April 8, 1863. He was graduated with honors from Knox college in 1884. Thirty-one years ago he came to Omaha to practice law, and he has practiced law assiduously ever since.

During the war he was one of the government's boosters and, with W. F. Gurley, ex-senator Brown and several others made up the group of speakers that traveled the state in a special train to speak for the Victory Loan drive.

Mr. Gaines gave the young men quite a setback when he went out twice and won the state golf championship. In addition to this game he loves sport for sport's sake in other ways, and with rod or gun he finds plenty of recreation along the streams or in the field. He can tell a good fishing story, and he will, and he also knows the music of the prairie chicken's wings and the swoop of the incoming duck. No great charm or more potent appeal than this for him.

He has figured extensively in all the forward movements by which the city's material as well as its spirit, and advance has been made. Quietly he takes his place when called upon to serve, and without display makes good on any committee. Just now, at three-acre, he is the active head of a busy law firm, with his outlook on life brighter and more confident than ever, because he holds to the philosophy he expresses.

Officer Completes Query.

"Angle of red tape" due to the substituting of a mass of legal procedure for medical examination is responsible for the neglect of war veterans, according to George H. W. Raushkolt, St. Louis, American Legion district, liaison officer. Raushkolt was in Omaha investigating the condition of veterans in the county poor house and numerous individual cases. He left for St. Louis Friday night.

Rules now in effect place the veterans' bureau in the place of an opposing counsel in a legal suit, he said. It requires the applicant for compensation to prove his case, he said. "A wave of economy has hit the veterans' bureau. The charge has been made that the saving is accomplished through disallowing claims and cutting compensations of veterans. Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid aloe; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Grover Bergdoll Hanged by Mob at Powder River Show

"Grover Cleveland Bergdoll was hanged in Powder River Friday night," breathed Reggie, shuddering and pale at the recollection of the gruesome sight he had witnessed. "Night came on and the town opened up its gambling dens and dance hall. The saloons all were filled. Everyone was talking of only one thing—Bergdoll's hanging. 'Three or four shots rang out. Far down the street appeared a man on horseback. Behind him were six other men.

"The first man's horse dropped. The man started to run up the street. The pursuers dismounted and began firing at him as they ran. 'At last Jack Wheatly threw his long rope and caught the man by one foot. It was all over. 'Amid the shouting crowd the fellow was hauled into one of the gambling houses and hanged to a rafter. 'When it was all over, I discovered that it wasn't really Bergdoll at all, but that Glen Ellison had taken the part to show the people of Powder

River and the visitors what would happen to Mr. Bergdoll if he ever came to the town. The Operation I AVOIDED—

MRS. IDA M. COFFMAN, SIOUX FALLS, S.D.

IF there is one thing more than another a woman dreads, it is a surgical operation, and to be told that one is necessary is very disheartening. Hospitals are grand institutions, and undoubtedly many operations are necessary. However, we have received hundreds of letters from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after an operation had been deemed advisable. Every woman who suffers as Mrs. Coffman did naturally wishes to avoid an operation if possible, and the remarkable statements which she makes in her letter will be read with interest by women everywhere.

Mrs. Coffman's Letter Follows:

SIOUX FALLS, ILLINOIS.—"I was a nervous wreck. I was suffering from a pain in my left side which was noticeable at all times but sometimes it was almost unbearable and I could not even get the bed-clothing rest on my body at night. I had been sick for seven years but not so badly until the last 18 months, and had become so rundown that I cared for nobody and would rather have died than live. I couldn't do my work without help and the doctor told me that an operation was all there was left for me. I would not consent to that so my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged me to take it. I have taken fourteen bottles of it and I feel ten years younger. Life is full of hope. I do all my housework and had a large garden this year. I never will let the Vegetable Compound in the house and when my two little girls reach womanhood I shall advise them to take it."—MRS. IDA M. COFFMAN, 15 R. No. 2, Sioux Falls, S.D.

Another Operation Avoided

DAYTON, OHIO.—"I was sick for eight weeks and had three doctors. They told me I would have to be operated upon before I would be any better. My sister told me about the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In one week's time I began to feel better. I took seven bottles of it and also some of the Liver Pills and used your Sensitive Wash and I soon gained my health. I recommend your medicines to all women who feel badly and have troubles of this kind and I will answer all letters sent to me by women."—MRS. GRACE B. GILLEM, 270 Valley Street, Dayton, Ohio.
