A Miracle of Science. Politics Is Politics. Nothing Since Ptolemy. Claiming the Ether. By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Today the first radio set will be installed in the vatican, and the pope, at his leisure, will hear voices from far and near. What a marvelous miracle it would have seemed 500 years ago had it been announced that the pope, sitting in his palace, could hear voices singing across the ocean.

The miracles of today are scientific miracles, and almost as interesting as the spiritual miracles of olden time. Politics is politics, which means that it is mean. That effort of democratic senators to drag President Coolidge into the oil scandal because he sent two telegrams to E. B. McLean, owner and publisher of the Washington Post, may be all right in the political game, but it would be all wrong in any decent game.

The president of the United States answers all messages that come from citizens whom he knows, and from tens of thousands whom he does not know. He replies to messages from E. B. McLean, one of the most intimate friends of the late President Harding. There is no connection between President Coolidge and the oil scandal dishonesty, and all intelligent citizens know it.

The Egyptian government reopened Tutankhamen's tomb amid wild demonstrations of patriotic enthusiasm. That's difficult for a westerner to understand. Egypt has done nothing much since Alexander the Great, and the ancestor of Cleopatra, temporarily stimulated national life.

What comfort today's dismal remains of old Egyptian power one can find by looking into the tomb of an old pharaoh who at least had the energy to go out and hunt lions, it is hard to understand.

The giant American Telegraph and Telephone company indicates that it intends to control the messages through the ether by radio. Sometimes reaching out too far is dangerous. People have fallen out of windows doing that. The telegraph and telephone company does pretty well for its stockholders and itself with its firm monopoly of communication by wire on the surface of the earth. That ought to be enough. The important patents on radio are dead or dying. And the bitterest enemy of single tax will admit that the people should own the air.

Another bad drop in the value of French francs yesterday. New York gamblers in foreign exchange were selling francs for less than 31-2 cents apiece, to be delivered next July. They were gambling on their conviction that French money will be lower in four months than it is today, by a great deal. That's dangerous gambling, harmful to the French nation, disturbing all Europe.

The first test of strength in congress favors Henry Ford's bid for Muscle Shoals. It might have been different awhile ago. But that Teapot Dome matter made distinguished gentlemen a little shy about selling public property "at public sale."

Mr. Ford probably will get the opportunity to prove that he can use Muscle Shoals for the public benefit, and, incidentally, provide farmers with cheap fertilizer.

England, under labor government, proposes to protect children. Girls in England can be married now at 12 years of age, boys at 14. The new law will prevent any marriage before 16. It will stop smoking by children until 16 years of age—and the English will stop it. We have such laws here, but they are not enforced.

The law will undertake to protect children before birth and will punish with two years at hard labor any woman leading astray a boy under 18 years of age.

Over here we can't even get a law to protect children from destructive child labor. England announces eight squadrons added to her fighting air fleet, with 33,000 men added to the fighting force.

Perhaps, when this country gets through cleaning up the Teapot Dome mess, it will devote attention to the creation of an air fleet. This biggest country should have the biggest air fleet. Every man in it could earn his pay in the post-office, forest fire fighting and otherwise in peace. And mere possession of the biggest air fleet would protect this country from war.

Carload of Stove Wood Shipped to Wymore Man Wymore, Neb., March 9.—A carload of stove wood and furnace chunks was shipped by freight from Endicott to Wymore, 39 miles, today. The wood was cut from a Blue river farm near Endicott belonging to Patrick Ryan of Wymore and will be stored in a large basement under the Ryan home here. It will run the family about a year. Ryan has shipped in a carload each spring for the last 10 years, the men on the farm cutting the wood during the slack season and sawing it up with a power saw.

She Didn't Trust Him Wife Kills Husband; New York, March 9.—Samuel Gluckman, a tailor, was hacked to death today with an ax by his wife, Edith, as he was asleep.

"I loved him and I couldn't bear to have him go around with other women," the police quoted her as saying. They were school playmates in Russia and were married when they met again in New York five years ago.

Daugherty With Coolidge Is Guest of White House Newspaper Men

Attorney General Tells Correspondents It Is Easy to Relinquish Office, but to Give Up Honor Is Another Question—President Speaks in Defense of American Form of Government.

Washington, March 9.—Conviction that the American people look to the executive, judicial and legislative branches of the government to abide by the fundamental purposes for which each was created, was expressed by President Coolidge in an address Saturday night at the annual dinner of the White House Correspondents' association.

Speaking informally to the men who daily report events at the White House, the president said: "I suppose that the American people are conscious that they have a constitution of the United States, and I know that they are attached to the defense and maintenance of that great institution."

"They know that we have a government that is made up of three branches: The executive, whose duty it is to enforce and maintain the laws; the judiciary that interprets the law and administers justice between man and man, and the congress or the legislative branch which is supposed, under the constitution, to be engaged in legislation."

"I think the American people approve heartily of that kind of constitutional government and that they want it maintained in its fundamentals."

Attorney General Daugherty also was a guest at the dinner and in an address made reference to the move to compel his retirement from the cabinet.

"It isn't much to give up an office," Daugherty declared. "It isn't much when you live the span of a life man ought to live to give up your life, but to give up your honor is another question," the attorney general declared.

"When I came here as attorney general, having to do more than any other enforcing officer in the cabinet with the enforcement of the law, I answered all the questions of all the correspondents all the time as you remember. Practically all inquiries made of the attorney general pertained to crime."

"Now, recently I have refused to have anything to say for the reason that I have discovered with great accuracy that I have been charged with

Howard Votes Alone in Congress

Nebraskan Splits Both From Democratic and Republican Colleagues.

By P. C. POWELL, Washington Correspondent The Omaha Bee

Washington, March 9.—A member of Congressman Edger Howard in voting on important measures that have come before the house of representatives at this session are puzzling and apparently no one can be found who can do anything but conjecture his movements.

First, the Columbus congressman lined up against his democratic and republican colleagues from Nebraska in voting against the Green resolution calling for discontinuance of issuance of tax free securities.

In explaining himself that time Howard charged that all of the Nebraska delegation except himself were out of step and were lining up with Wall Street.

The next measure of any importance was the revenue bill. Howard was one of eight congressmen in the entire house to vote against this measure.

In this instance, Howard couldn't accuse other Nebraska members of playing Wall street's game because the real dyed-in-the-wool reactionaries and New Yorkers were practically the only persons to vote against the revenue measure except Howard.

Other seven negative votes represented "die-hards" for the Mellon plan. Howard's explanation in voting against this measure was to the effect that it contained a retroactive clause which apparently none of the other members of the house, except Howard, was able to discover anything about it that was vicious. Excuses of the other negative voters were that they were for the Mellon plan, first, last and all the time.

That Howard, self-confessed purist and progressive in politics, is an incongruous figure, aligning himself with the self-confessed reactionaries who voted with him against the revenue bill, is admitted. Reasons advanced by the Nebraska delegation for his strange actions are varied. In some quarters it is believed that Howard, who has never been aligned with the Shillaber-Morehead crowd in democratic politics, is attempting to put those two gentlemen in a hole.

However, the most common sense advanced is Howard's alleged love for the limelight and publicity. Men who understand the publicity-seeking with their self-confessed reactionaries who voted with him and do something different from everyone else.

Anyway, he has the reputation here of being a publicity-seeker.

Coughing—a futile waste of strength—

MEDICAL authorities agree that coughing aggravates the irritation in throat and lungs that is causing the cough and therefore only makes you cough the more. Control the cough and the irritation is soon relieved.

Dr. King's New Discovery stops coughing quickly by gently stimulating the membranes to throw off clogging secretions. Harshness and effectively the violent throat and chest spasms are quieted, and the inflammation then quickly clears away. It has an agreeable taste. All druggists.

all the crimes ever committed and I am inclined not to be quite so communicative."

Coolidge recalls boyhood. President Coolidge discussed informally several pending national questions, including government economy and reduction of taxes and devoted a considerable portion of his remarks to reminiscences pertaining to the field of journalism. He recalled that as a boy there were two weekly papers that came to his town and two daily papers, one published in a Vermont city and another in Boston.

"One of these daily papers as I recall, and I don't want to do any violence to present newspapers in the thriving city of Boston," he said, "was the then very powerful and influential Boston Journal. It was partly from that and partly from inheritance that I secured my party affiliations, for the Boston Journal was the strongest republican newspaper, I think, that there was in those days in New England."

The president reminded newspaper men that they and he had "mutual responsibilities" and said that he felt he was under very great obligations to the newspapers "for the success that I have had through them in informing the American people of what I have tried to do and put into effect as policies."

Believes in Economy. "I think everyone knows that I believe in economy in government," he continued. "Not that I can see a real virtue merely in cutting down expenses, but a real virtue in a constructive economy that undertakes to measure the resources of our country, comparing them with the demands that are made for the expenditure of money, and as wisely as possible making a fair adjustment between those two conflicting forces."

"I had occasion to suggest to you the other day that there are many organizations just at the present time that are very vigorous, very active, in undertaking to secure appropriations from the federal treasury. Some of them are undoubtedly entitled to be considered as having a great deal of merit, and they will have to be adjusted in accordance with the principles of a constructive economy."

Predicts Fair Tax Bill. "Others of them are not so important and they have to be dealt with in the same way, remembering that it is necessary to make the expenditures of government as moderate as we possibly can, in order that we may leave to the people the use of their own resources and the advantages of their own effort of production."

"We should always keep in mind that there is no warrant in taking from the people anything more than what public necessity requires." It is for that reason that at the present time we are undertaking to make a reduction in taxation. I think the effect on the country has been very marked. The reaction has been greater than that in favor of any other proposal that ever came under my observation and I have every reason to believe that the result will be successful and that we shall have here a tax bill that will fairly meet the requirements of the situation."

Laundry Adds Motorcycles to Equipment

The above photo shows the motorcycle equipment of the Sanitary Wet Wash Laundry adopted one year ago, replacing the light delivery trucks in use at that time. The motorcycles are Harley-Davidsons and were sold to Fred Mathewson, proprietor of the Sanitary Wet Wash Laundry, by Victor H. Roos, 'The Cycle Man,' 2701-7 Leavenworth street. Mr. Mathewson speaks highly of the Harley-Davidson motorcycle. The motorcycle enables us to cover more ground in less time and we find the cost of operation very low, he said.

Omaha Livestock Market Retains Second Position

Receipts at Local Yards Top Those at St. Louis and Kansas City So Far This Year.

Omaha has held second place in the livestock industry during 1924, the receipts at the local market having been greater both in January and February this year than at Kansas City. With a total of 764,217 head received here in all divisions last month, Omaha's market receipts exceeded Kansas City's yards by 63.8 per cent, that city dropping to fourth place, with St. Louis reporting 547,033 animals received in comparison with Kansas City's 496,854.

In January Omaha led Kansas City by 24.1 per cent, the receipts here being 825,372 head, and Kansas City's, 665,038, or 160,334 less than Omaha. Stockyard reports for February received by the publicly bureau of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce for each of the four leading livestock centers show receipts as follows:

Table with columns: Cattle, Hogs, Sheep, Mules, Cars. Rows: Omaha, St. Louis, Kansas City, Chicago.

House Ready for Final Vote on Ford's Offer

Washington, March 9.—As the house approached a final vote to decide on the McKenzie bill to lease Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford, repeated efforts to alter essential features of the measure were made without success.

Representative McKenzie, republican, Illinois, author of the pending bill, would authorize acceptance of Henry Ford's offer, announced that he would attempt to put the measure to a final vote on Monday.

Adjournment was taken shortly after the adoption of an amendment which would enable the government to reacquire the Muscle Shoals property from Ford if he failed to make good on his contract in any particular.

Use of Concrete Blocks Shows Marked Increase. According to figures compiled by the Portland Cement association, there were more than seven times as many concrete blocks manufactured in 1923 as in 1916.

In 1923 as many as 50,000,000 blocks in 1923 indicate how the concrete block industry has grown in the United States. Omaha and vicinity is using concrete blocks to a very large extent for foundations and basements. Most brick veneer houses are being built with concrete block foundation.

The Star brand two-hole type concrete blocks made by the Ideal Cement and Stone company, Thirty-first and Spaulding streets, is said to be one of the popular blocks in demand by builders in general. This type of block affords absolutely air-tight and water-tight motor joints, as well as strong and rigid construction.

Care in Landscaping Urged by Nursery Head

Mr. Byrd, proprietor, the Byrd Nurseries, 6601 Dodge street, gives the following advice on landscaping and home beautifying:

"One may build an expensive home but it will not show its value unless it is surrounded in some degree with the verdure of nature."

"It is advisable that those planning on building consult a landscape architect before the contract is let for the building. Even though you may desire to carry out only a small part of your general scheme each year, it will pay you to work according to well defined and drawn up plans. By so doing you will secure the most satisfactory results."

Mr. Byrd will give advice on planting or will make a complete survey of the property and indicate the treatment best suited to bring out the beauty of the home, to those writing. A special illustrated price catalog is also being mailed free to home owners.
