Clergy Pass Law Ruling Appealed

Omaha Attorney to Test Anti-Pass Statute in Higher Court.

R. M. Switzler, Omaha attorney will go to Lincoln Thursday to file with the state supreme court a brief in appeal from the decision of the late District Judge William Morning, upholding the statute known as the preacher pass law.

This law prohibits members of the clergy or persons engaged in charitable pursuits in Nebraska from holding passes on railroads.

One of the peculiar legal quirks re sulting from the passage of the Nebraska statute, according to the petition, is the fact that such persons may ride on passes from Council Bluffs to Lincoln, under the interstate commerce statutes, but they may not hold passes from Omaha to Lincoln, in intrastate traffic.

The action is directed against the state of Nebraska and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad. The petitioners include the Nebraska Children's Home society, Child Saving institute, St. James orphanage, bureau of Catholic charities of Omaha, Father Flanagan's Boys' home, Ministerial Association of Omaha, Nebraska conference of the Evangelical church Lutheran orphanage of Frement, Omaha area of the Methodist-Episcopal church, synod of Nebraska of the Presbyterian church, Episcopal diocese of Nebraska and the Imman uel Deaconess institute.

The petition sets forth that the act in question was copied from an interstate commerce act regulating the issuance of railroad passes. It points from issuing free passes except to a limited class; that is, that if the act is upheld, the petitioners may be come legal recipients of passes at the pleasure of the carriers.

It's a Good Place to Stay

The more you investigate Omaha the more strongly you will be impressed with the fact that Omaha is a good place to stay. Its growth from the days of the old wagon trail to the advent of the air mail station has been built upon a remarkably fine business location, backed by common sense community boosters, who realized the value of Omaha in the rough. Omaha is yet in its youth---you had better stay.
