

Cunarder Liner Seized for Liquor

Federal Agents Make Purchase Deal Then Arrest Sailors.

Washington, March 12.—Government agents late today seized the Cunarder Orduña in New York harbor for violation of the customs, national prohibition and narcotic laws. Eight persons were arrested, including the chief steward of the steamer.

The raid last night was carried out under the personal direction of United States Attorney Hayward after four government agents, it was stated, had entered into an agreement with members of the crew whereby the alleged whiskey and narcotics would be delivered at an appointed place.

The agents had bargained with the seamen since Monday, when the vessel arrived. Federal Attorney Hayward, informed that an agreement had been made, led the agents to the rendezvous and at a given signal, seized the sailors as they were delivering the alleged contraband. Two of the eight arrested were said to be officers.

A location for the plant proper has been acquired, three additional well sites have been secured and the reservoir location has been purchased. It is believed the plant construction and all work incidental thereto can be completed by fall.

Men Who Are Making Omaha

Any time Sam Reynolds steps up the tee, the little old golf ball gets ready for a 300-yard flight. Sam has been golf champion around this section of the country so many times that some folks think he wrote the book. Six times he was Nebraska champion, five times city champion, and once Transmississippi champion. He is a director in the Omaha Field Club, and has been director of the Western Golf association and the Transmississippi Golf association.

What else does he do? Of course, he was in the army, serving as a member in the air service. He was one of the first members of Omaha Post No. 1, now the largest American Legion Post in the world. He served one year as vice commander, and another as commander of the post. While in the latter service he had to meet the worst conditions of unemployment and destitution in the history of the post. During his term 2,000 jobs were secured for unemployed veterans, and 1,500 cases of destitution in families of veterans were relieved. The post certainly made itself an asset to the service man.

A little further back, in 1909, we find Sam Reynolds leaving Central High school after completing the course, and starting as office boy with the Nebraska Fuel company. Four years later, with Wood Allen, he formed the Allen & Reynolds Coal company, and started as a wholesaler of coal. In 1921 Allen & Reynolds purchased the Nebraska Fuel company, in the employment of which they had both begun as office boys. They now operate wholesale and retail coal business.

Mr. Reynolds is deputy commissioner of the Boy Scouts' organization. He is also intensely interested in all public matters, and serves on many committees. He has not only grown with Omaha, but has done quite a bit to make Omaha grow also.
