Step Rate Urged for Insurance

Former Iowa Commissioner Declares Plan Only Salvation of Fraternal Companies.

Des Moines, Ia., March 17.—Emory H. English, former state commissioner of insurance, called as a witness before the legislative insurance investigating committee today, declared that he believed a "step rate" or cost basis plan was the only means by which fraternal insurance companies might put their older policy holders on a basis that would not ultimately jeopardize the standing of their companies.

Few fraternal companies can, without changing what is known as an adequate rate basis, hope to out-five its policy holders, the former commissioner declared. As a rule, he added, most fraternal organizations have been heavy losing propositions.

Mr. English was president of the Iowa Bonding and Casualty company when that concern quit business in May, 1922. The suspension, he told the committee, was due solely to heavy losses and the fact that prospects were not promising for better conditions.

Questioned as to a reported campaign to buy in stock of the company before liquidation, the witness said he advised all stockholders who communicated with him to hold their shares, believing they would be worth more in the future. He had not purchased any additional stock in his company at that time, he testified.
