as a character in his own home town, Bridgeport, Conn. Today the boys on Broadway, N'yawak; Powell street, San Francisco; State treet, Chicago; in Davis street, Denver, and on Spring street, Los Angeles, are mouthing his name with a knowing air and claiming an intimate acquaintance. The right eross did that.

Bridgeport Middleweight Be- bach's chin and that much advertised young man was knocked clear out of his shoes. Delaney has stepped into them. He will meet Jackie Clark in Newark tonight in place of the celetract when he lost the Delaney encounter. Enter chance. But for that YORK, March capricious factor Delaney would still 7.-By the grace be playing the small time and getting of chance and a the small money. Two men were selected as pos sible opponents, namely, Augie Ratner, a harmless veteran, and Delaney. The latter immediately dropped all thought of Estridge and fate conspired that he should be chosen to face the knockout king. The rest is history.

It was history that might have een written months later and in a radically different vein. Had Delaney caught Berlenbach as late as six months from now it is not inconceiv able that the outcome of the meet ing might have been reversed.
