National Chairman Urges Women to Register

A very modern type of reformer is Mrs. Ann Webster, chairman of the committee on social hygiene of the National League of Women Voters. It used to be said of her in New Mexico, where her home for 11 years was a 70,000-acre ranch, that no horse could unseat her and no dog deceive her as to his pedigree, and her love of an outdoor life is doubtless the reason why she puts such emphasis on recreation as a factor in community physical activity.

Mrs. Webster was born in Chicago and was educated there and in Europe, taking the full course at the New York School of Social Work after the cry for women to come and help direct the new way her way from New Mexico. She was a league delegate to recent congresses of the International Suffrage alliance in Rome and went with Mrs. Maud Wood Park later on a woman-to-woman visit to eastern Europe.—Editorial Note.

By ANN WEBSTER.

If it were to be announced that on a certain day the people of a town would be asked to vote on the question of whether a dollar shall buy a dollar's worth of food or only 60 cents' worth, there would not be a woman in that town who would not be up bright and early on election day, getting every voting member of her family ready to go down and vote for the dollar worth 100 cents.

She would be doing this because no sane person wants a dollar made to buy only 60 cents worth, and because the question at issue was plainly put. Questions are never put so plainly as that, however, and plenty of people stay at home on election day. In some places more than half the voters stayed home and allowed the less than half who did vote decide what their dollars should be worth. They stayed at home because they had never been in the habit of thinking much about politics—certainly not of politics as affecting the family income. As a matter of fact, the family income depends to a very large degree on politics. A dollar is not worth a dollar if a large part of it has to be paid one way or another for taxes. A dollar is not worth a dollar if things that used to cost a dollar cost a dollar and a half now.

Because politics does affect the family income and the children's schools and all the rest of the family's affairs, the National League of Women Voters is asking every woman in the country to register and vote this year and to know what she is voting for. The league does not tell any woman what party or what candidate to support, but it does beseech her to do her duty as a citizen and vote the way she thinks wisest.

We are fond of talking about democracy, but this country is not a real democracy, and it never will be so long as more than half the voters stay away from the polls, as they did in 1920. It is an oligarchy ruled by less than half the voters. In many towns and cities a few politicians can select any men they choose for office and run the town as extravagantly as they please, because they can count on only part of the voters.

Adele Garrison "My Husband's Love"

The startled query that nearly escaped Madge.

Mrs. Bird's youthful driver lost no time in obeying Mrs. Bird's instruction to "beat it to Flushing." With a wary eye for traffic officers he drove the car at a rattling pace through Brooklyn to Jamaica, and thence along the picturesque country road which connects that bustling borough with Flushing.

I did not speak to him until we were well out of the traffic, and then he was little more, was so brimful of his experiences that he needed the relief of telling them. I broke the silence with a tentative: "I see that you have your own car back again."

He hitched around in his seat abruptly, so that he could watch the road and talk at the same time. "You bet!" he said happily. "It didn't take long after I met you for me to get my friend on the telephone. He changed the license plates on my car for a pair he snaked off another in the shop, and then with mine along, too, he beat it down to the Manhattan Bridge—the Queensboro was too near where that bird lapped me to want to travel that way today. We met in a garage we both know not very far from the Manhattan Bridge, changed for my own license plates again, and then I beat it over here, while he loafed uptown again."

"You didn't see anything, then, of the man you?"—I started to say "fencible?"

"Neither hide nor hair," he returned, unconsciously relapsing into the vernacular of his unmistakable country childhood. "I suppose he's still cruising around the corner of

No More Gray Hair—Says Science

Wonderful Clean, Colorless Liquid Restores Original Color

Results in a Week Science again has scored a triumph in the discovery of a very remarkable liquid known as Kolor-Bak. If you are gray, just apply this liquid to the hair and scalp and your hair will soon take on the actual color it had in the past. Not a trace of grayness will remain.

Kolor-Bak comes in the form of a clean, colorless liquid, containing properties which quickly restore the lost color to the hair and give it renewed vigor. And note that the one preparation is for all colors of hair. No special solution required for each color—no samples of hair required.

You will find also that with Kolor-Bak the hair has the same shade throughout. It does not appear streaked, faded or "died."

Every scientist, every physician, knows that gray hair is hair that has ceased to receive its normal supply of coloring matter or pigment from certain tiny cells (called follicles or papillae) in the scalp, because these cells have become inactive from illness, shock of some kind, scalp disease, dandruff, infection, neglect of the hair or lack of circulation, etc. But no matter what the cause of the grayness, it is simply amazing to see how it disappears when Kolor-Bak is used. It is a proved substitute for the natural pigmentation.

Gay McClaren Reads at Brandeis

Gay McClaren, dramatic impersonator, who appears at the Brandeis theater Saturday evening, March 22, under the auspices of the Knights Templar, will enact all the characters in the play, "The Governor's Lady." An account of her reading of this play, by Ora Leigh Trauer, in the Salt Lake Tribune, runs as follows:

"Playing all the parts as they were given in the original Belasco production, Miss MacLaren was especially appealing in the role of the old-fashioned Mrs. Slade, the wife, whom the ambitious politician tried to thrust aside when he decided to run for the office of governor, the part made famous by Emma Dunn.

"The final triumph of the wife of his youth in keeping her hold upon the governor's affections is effectively brought out. In the emotional situations, Miss MacLaren showed her marked ability as an actress and held her audience in rapt attention. The transition from one character to another was given with such skill that the entire company seemed to be presenting the play. One of the choicest illusions was the effect of the quaint old lady darning her husband's socks in the housewife's manner handed down from less prosperous days.

"A touch of the artist's versatility in character work was given in the conversation of the chauffeurs of two governors at a restaurant in the east while they are waiting for their distinguished employers to finish a banquet given in honor of the governors in a handsome cafe opposite.

"A large audience greeted Miss MacLaren and much enthusiasm and appreciation was expressed for her work."

I closed my lips tightly, for I did not wish the frantic query on my lips to escape. With all exits from the house guarded in this way, how were we going to spirit the Harrison children off to the steamship on which Alfred Durkee had engaged their passage?

The driver shot a sharp glance at it, then chuckled audibly. "Whoever owns that isn't going to take any chances," he said. "If anybody comes out from our house over this route tonight, that lad is ready to follow 'em to the hot place and back again. There's another one, I'll bet, loitering around the boulevard in the front of the house."

"I see that you have your own car back again."
