

Woman, Inspiration for Famous Love Song, Dies Forsaken, Alone

New York, March 22.—Alone in a Brooklyn rooming house, Mrs. Harriet Danks, who inspired "Silver Threads Among the Gold" found release Wednesday night from a life in which sentiment and reality were strangely jugged.

P. Danks, who also died alone in a Philadelphia lodging house in 1903. He was then estranged from his wife, to whom, in 1874, he had composed the love song which swept the country.

Have You a Laf in Your System?

Send It to The Omaha Bee and Let Other People Laugh at It, Too.

Do you know that a humorist lives in your neighborhood? Do you know that a friend of yours, whom you never dreamed of as an originator of witty sayings, is one of the winners in the Local Laf contest being promoted by The Omaha Bee?

These prize jokes are being shown on the screens of the Sun and Starburian theaters in Omaha and the Strand theater in Council Bluffs. As we have explained before, a first prize of $5 is offered each week for the best joke submitted, $3 for the second prize, $2 for the third and $1 each for the next 12. Besides the pleasure of receiving these prize checks, the winners experience the thrill of seeing their jokes and names on the movie screens.

The Local Lafs are being shown weekly to thousands of movie patrons. They all laugh and then tell their friends. Send in your jokes. Make them original and limit each joke to 30 words. Mail to Local Laf Editor of The Omaha Bee.

It's lots of fun writing these jokes and it's lots of fun reading them on the movie screens. Get into the game. If you don't win the first time, keep on trying. Perseverance wins. Use the form found elsewhere in this paper. Be sure to mention the name of the theater you attend.

"Did you see the latest? It's a Laf written by Bill Jones and being shown on the screens of the theaters mentioned in The Omaha Bee. It's a humdinger."

That is typical of the conversation of many who have attended the theaters where Local Lafs are being shown. You may have a Laf there, too, and feel the thrill of seeing your name and joke on the screen of a motion picture theater.

Out of the jokes which do not appear on these screens, three are selected each day for publication in this column. Today's are:

Insurance Agent—Can I sell you some automobile insurance?

Pedestrian—I don't own a car. Agent—Well, you cross the street several times a day, don't you?

Herman Wise, 3117 Lincoln boulevard.

Teacher—What do monkeys have that no other animal has?

Pupil—Little monkeys.

Grace L. McNeil, Hershey, Neb.

Bob—Would you marry me if I was rich?

Fearl—Yes, people do most any thing nowadays for money.

Mrs. Carl Wellington, 3323 North Thirty-eighth street.

Aughe Slaying Is Described to Jury

Brother Detective and Woman Witnesses in Trial of Joe Guzewec.

City Detective Frank Killian, in District Judge Fitzgerald's court Friday, described the manner in which he and three other detectives approached Joe Guzewec in a drug store at Sixteenth and William streets, the afternoon of January 31, while they were seeking a man who had robbed another store. Guzewec is on trial for the murder of Frank Aughe, a city detective.

"He was standing at the counter and I asked him whether he lived around there," said Killian. "He whipped around and pulled a gun and ordered us to throw up our hands. Then he zigzagged back toward the door. Aughe was just coming in and Guzewec turned and shot him."

Mrs. Marie Sokup held the baby on her lap as she testified to the shooting. She had the baby in her arms, when she was in the store at the time of the shooting affray.

"I heard someone say, 'I'll kill you,' and then came the shots as fast as firecrackers," she said.

Trial of the case was adjourned at 5 until 9 Monday morning.
