

World Air Race Impossible Now Says Army Head

General Patrick Declines Offer of British — Flight Not Attempt to Break Records.

Washington, March 26.—Maj. Gen. Patrick, chief of the army air service, has declined a suggestion made by Lieut. Col. L. E. Broome of the royal air service, of a British and American competitive air race around the world.

"The proposal was not made as a challenge but solely in the interests of its sporting character and value as publicity propaganda."

Lieutenant Colonel Broome suggested that the American flight be made to start at the same time as that of the British.

In declining General Patrick telegraphed Colonel Broome, then in Ottawa, as follows: "Date of departure of our flight from starting point so involved with laying down of supplies and schedule of engine sailings that it is impossible to start at the same time as that of the British."

Secretary of War Weeks reiterated today that it was not the object of the army flight to race around the world, or attempt to make any great speed.

"They are going out," he said, "to blaze a way that may be followed as a route around the globe, much in the same manner as the Lewis and Clarke expedition once crossed this continent."

The official purpose of the American flight as outlined by the War department, is to gain for the service added experience in long distance flying, to demonstrate the feasibility of establishing an airway around the world, and to collect information on the difficulties of operating aircraft in various climates.

Visiting automobilists are given preference in parking.

Lincoln, March 26.—Losses in poultry ventures, because of chicks dying, or failing to make normal growth "are astounding," say a bulletin issued by the state agricultural extension service here today. Too frequently, the bulletin states, this loss is the result of attempts to brood chicks with makeshift equipment. Three requirements for vigorous chicks are given in the bulletin. They are: Chicks must be well hatched from healthy, vigorous parent stock. They must be fed and brooded properly. Feeding practice should include at all times sour milk or buttermilk and ample succulent green feeds.

Men Who Are Making Omaha

No list of native sons of Omaha will be complete without the name of Randall K. Brown. His father, J. J. Brown, was one of the pioneer merchants of the city, and was later engaged in banking and other enterprises, and was one of the prime movers in the first motor street railway in Omaha. One of his uncles, Charles A. Brown, was an early mayor of Omaha and remained a pillar of the democratic party to the end of his days.

Randall K. Brown, since leaving Yale, where he was graduated, has given his personal attention to building up a big interest in the fuel industry. The Coal Hill Coal company is a well known institution, its mines in Missouri being among the most extensive in the state. In Omaha as elsewhere Mr. Brown has watched carefully after the growth of business, and has carried on successfully. Yet he does not give all his time to business of his own, but devotes a

Officers Shot in Battle With Mail Bandits

Four Men Attempting to Hold Up Train Near Pittsburgh Captured After Plot Disclosed.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 26.—City Detectives Thomas Grogan and William McCready were shot, probably fatally, and four would-be bandits were captured at West Homestead, near here this afternoon in an attempt to hold up a Pennsylvania train carrying thousands of dollars into the mill and mining districts of the upper Monongahela valley, according to police reports.

A representative of the American Railway Express uncovered the plot and asked for police protection this morning. He said he had been informed that the express car safe, containing $400,000, would be thrown from the train at Becks Run bridge, where the bandits would pick it up in an automobile.

Twenty detectives boarded the train when it left here. Others went to Becks Run by automobile.

Superintendent Brophy observed a big machine parked near the bridge. The detectives' car was stopped about 400 yards in front of it. When the train went by without stopping, the driver of the other machine started at high speed on the road to Clariton, the next station. When the car containing the officers in the lead, Superintendent Brophy waved to the driver behind to stop. The signal was disregarded and the superintendent ordered that his machine be parked across the road. The other machine crashed into it, injuring the officers. The suspect drew a pistol, but before he could use it, one of the injured detectives captured and handcuffed him.

Grandmother Knew There Was Nothing So Good for Coughs and Colds as Mustard. Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over RHEUMATISM. Has Also Proven Remarkably Successful in Severe Cases of Rheumatic Neuritis. Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times his terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work. He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body. With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally procured a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system. He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allenbu, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed the Boston Drug Co. to dispense Allenbu with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment.
